BORAH REJECTS DRY CROWN; HE AWAITS A CALL

Expects Demand of 'Moral Forces.'

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Indianapolis, Ind., July 7.—[Special.]—United States Senator William E. Borah's name tonight stampeded the Prohibition party's national convention, but before it had got to a vote the Idahoan had declined the nomination.

Without committing himself he held that a nomination of that sort should come, if it does, through a "united uprising" at a conference of dry groups to be held in Washington July 14 or 15.

The prohibitionists adjourned until morning, when they plan to name a ticket of old line blue ribbon war horses. The ticket is to have a string attached, so that if the Washington conclave gets anywhere the party can withdraw its candidates and travel along.

At midnight blue ribboners were in ecstasies. They hold the convention has started a movement which will mean the formation of an anti-repealist third party at the national capital.

Dry Law Foes Ready.

While Borah's name was causing a series of demonstrations that nearly tore the roof off Cadle Tabernacle with the aid of a pipe organ, a concert piano, and choir singing "Onward, Christian Soldiers," members of the Indiana legislature, which meets in special tax relief session tomorrow, were preparing for an effort to boot the Wright bone dry law off the books.

In June both Republican and Democratic state conventions adopted wet platforms in bone dry Indiana and came out for repeal of the Wright law, which is so stringent that whisky is prohibited as a medicine and a doctor who gives it to a patient is a potential felon.

The diverse actions of the dyed in the wool drys and of the state lawmakers were meshed in an Indiana panorama of the trend of the times on the liquor issue.

Borah's name tonight turned the convention into a runaway, somewhat similar on a miniature scale to the runaway stampeds of the Democratic national convention in Chicago last week to the dripping wet plank which makes the Democrats the abolitionist party on prohibition. The Idahoan's name was presented by Ethel Hubler of Los Angeles as "an independent Colossus among statesmen" who "does not smoke, drink, chew, nor play cards."

Hail Borah as Moses.

For three days the prohibition party, evincing traces of resentment that it had got rather an icy stare from the professional dry politicians such as the old Anti-Saloon league bosses, had been playing Borah in the rôle of an Old Testament hero, especially as a Moses bearing on his tablets of stone one command, "Thou shalt not repeal."

The parade started. The moment it died Richard M. Cannon of California, son of Bishop James Cannon Jr. of the Methodist Church South, former political boss of Virginia, stirred it up again with a brief speech: "Let's nominate Borah—put it up to him." Bishop Cannon himself had looked in on the convention as an observer. At its opening he had departed, but apparently had dropped some seeds behind him.

The sight of a stampede getting into action sent blue ribbon party leaders, headed by Dr. Leigh Colvin, national chairman, scurrying to the long distance wire. But Borah had left word he was not to be disturbed and had tied a sock around the telephone bell.

Borah Leaves His Bed.

At last they got him out of bed and put through the message to Garcia. Borah told them to nominate somebody else, but to leave the door open to amalgamate with the Washington conclave. Meanwhile other party leaders in the hubbub were on the platform counseling the delegates it would be well to put up old party warhorses instead of trotting in outsiders.

Action had been taken in reference to the dry anti-repealist third party conference to be held in the capitol. The national committee has been empowered to take any necessary action. The argument of the venerables was that a ticket of old party men should be named, the nominees to pull out if the Washington third party conference develops into anything.

Back of it was the idea that Borah

BULLETIN.

New York, July 7 (Thursday).—(AP)—Early this morning Clarence Page, backer of the Griffin-Mattern flight, on being informed that the flyers had not been heard from since leaving Berlin, said "It looks sort of bad."

Page was sure, he said, the pair would not have tried to go on to Omsk without stopping at Moscow.

"They would have enough gas to go to Omsk, but it would be too close a call. I know they would not try that," Page said. The flight's backer made no attempt to conceal his anxiety.

BERLIN, July 6.—James Mattern and Bennett Griffin, young American airmen, who are striving to fly around the world in less than six days, landed their red, white, and blue monoplane, the Century of Progress, here this afternoon.

"We're in a hurry," the flyers shouted as they stepped from the plane. "Moscow is our next stop. Tired? Not a bit of it."

The plane was refueled. Mattern and Griffin ate their first real meal since their departure from New York at dawn yesterday and in three hours and 20 minutes roared into the air again, en route for the Russian capital.

Ahead of Post and Gatty.

Upon their departure from Berlin they were ten hours and 43 minutes ahead of Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, the American flyers, who circled the globe in eight days 15 hours and 51 minutes and whose time they are trying to beat.

When the monoplane reached Berlin, the Americans left a trail of smashed records behind them.

They had crossed the Atlantic without a stop from Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, to Berlin in the excellent time of 18 hours and 41 minutes, and they had become the first trans-Atlantic flyers to "hit Berlin on the nose.

They had established a record of 10 hours and 50 minutes from land to land.

And, finally they were almost eleven hours ahead of Post and Gatty.

Mattern insisted that their time from Harbor Grace to Berlin was 17 hours and 40 minutes, but this apparently is a miscalculation.

Sleep Is Spurned.

"Our time from America to Berlin is six hours less than that of Post and Gatty," the "make it or bust" flyers exclaimed. "By not spending the night here, but flying on, we are now eleven hours ahead of them. We hope to be back in New York for the week-end."

At 9 p. m. [3 p. m. Chicago daylight saving time] the two were again in the air for Moscow, 950 miles away. Flying conditions along the well lighted Koenigsberg route were reported as excellent and the airmen were expected to reach their goal by 10 p. m. [Chicago time].

At 2:15 p. m. word reached Berlin that the round the world racers had been sighted over Bremen. An hour later their plane flew over Hanover. Ambassador Frederic M. Sackett rushed to the Tempelhof airdrome to welcome the flyers.

For two long hours a reception committee waited in the heat.

Crowd Rushes for Plane.

At 5:40 p. m. [11:40 a. m. Chicago time], and just before the storm broke, sirens howled and an American flag was raised on the field as a speck appeared in the distance.

Capt. Hermann Koehl, friend of the 36 year old Mattern and veteran of the Bremen's air crossing from east to west, was one of the first to reach the plane.

"Boys, you'll reach Moscow in no time with the weather as it is," he cried. "The worst of your flight is behind you."

Capt. Koehl assisted Grimm, the 27 year old Oklahoman, out of the ship while others were pulling out Mattern. Empty oil tins were scattered about the fuselage.

"The weather was pitiful," Grimm said.

Never Saw the Ocean.

"We never saw the ocean," Mattern interrupted. "We flew blind in a fog and our altitude ranged from six inches above the water to 10,000 feet. We recognized Glasgow. I don't know where we struck Europe.

SHOWING JUST HOW MR. HOOVER DIFFERS WITH MR. GARNER

President Hoover last night said of Speaker Garner's proposal in the relief bill to make loans to municipalities and to private citizens on "any conceivable security":

"It is not too much to say that the measure proposed and insisted upon even to the extent of defeat of relief legislation by the speaker of the house threatens the credit of the United States government and disaster to our people.

"I do not propose to further increase unemployment by such disastrous action as is now proposed through jeopardizing the whole credit of the government and laying our people open to every kind of injustice and loss.

"Such an undertaking would set up a huge bureaucracy able to dictate the welfare of millions of people and at the will of its agents deal favor and disaster among them.

MR. GARNER SAYS:

"Let's let all the people have some drippings from the Reconstruction Finance corporation instead of confining the benefits of this wonderful banking institution to the big bank corporations and the railroads."

PRESIDENT SAYS FAILURE RESTS WITH GARNER

Speaker Tells Why He Resisted.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 6.—[Special.]—The compromise two billion dollar relief bill was headed straight for the rocks tonight following a day of sudden and dramatic developments which brought President Hoover and Speaker John N. Garner, Democratic vice presidential nominee, into sharp verbal conflict certain to have reverberations in the national political campaign.

The climax came tonight when President Hoover in a statement shot through with blistering adjectives denounced the man who will be the running mate of Franklin D. Roosevelt on the Democratic presidential ticket as the author of a piece of legislation so radically unsound that it would jeopardize the credit of the nation and invite disaster for all. The White House attack on Garner was included in a general indictment of the relief bill, which concluded with the statement that the measure would be vetoed if not revised.

Garner Assails Hoover.

The Hoover blast came less than two hours after Speaker Garner had precipitated an uproar in the house by launching a vehement attack on the man who will head the Republican national ticket in the presidential election. Garner charged that the President stood for class legislation, adding that the relief bill, if amended to suit the President, would aid only a selected clientele. His own program, the speaker added, would bring the benefits of the act to the common people by making it possible for individuals to borrow from the huge reconstruction corporation.

"Let's let all the people have some drippings from the Reconstruction Finance corporation," the snowy haired and thoroughly angered speaker shouted, "instead of confining the benefits of this wonderful banking institution to the big bank corporations and the railroads."

The attack on the President brought an immediate retort from Minority Leader Bertrand H. Snell [Rep., N. Y.]. He charged that the newly nominated vice presidential candidate had injected politics into the relief fight by making the greatest "demagogic" appeal to class legislation ever heard on the house floor.

Hoover Blames Garner.

In his statement a short time later President Hoover placed the full responsibility for the failure of congress and the White House to reach an agreement on relief legislation upon the 63 year old shoulders of the speaker. He asserted that the other Democratic leaders, including Senators Joseph T. Robinson [Ark.], senate minority leader, and Robert F. Wagner [N. Y.], author and sponsor of the Wagner relief bill, had been willing to compromise and report out a bill he could accept.

The break between the President and the speaker came on the section of the bill which would permit municipalities and individuals to borrow from the Reconstruction Finance corporation if unable to obtain credit any other place. The President took a position opposed to this section while Speaker Garner refused to budge an inch from his insistence that this section must be a part of any bill he would approve.

Bitter Argument Over Terms.

The compromise bill, which carries one billion 500 millions for loans to self-liquidating nonfederal projects, municipalities, and individuals, 322 millions for public works projects, and 300 millions for relief to the states, was the subject of bitter argument at White House conferences last night and this morning. Speaker Garner and fifteen other congressional leaders attended last night's gathering while the speaker and three senators and two other representatives met with the President this morning in an attempt to iron out differences.

Both parleys failed of complete agreement and the White House statement followed. In this document, which was partly the handiwork of Secretary of the Treasury Ogden Mills, the President asserted that while he was determined to have relief legislation at this session of congress he could not accept the proposal insisted upon by Speaker Garner for loans to cities and individuals.

He asserted that he did not pro-

Mayor Cermak in Hospital to Recuperate

Mayor Cermak was taken to St. Anthony's hospital last night for a rest on the orders of his personal physician and son-in-law, Dr. Frank J. Jirka. He will remain in the hospital for several days.

"The mayor is suffering from fatigue and I have sent him to a hospital to rest," said Dr. Jirka. "His condition is not serious, but he needs time to recuperate from the strain of the two political conventions and his efforts to raise money for unpaid city and school employes."

The mayor spent the week-end at his summer place at Antioch, but left there late Tuesday afternoon for Chicago to see Dr. Jirka. Since then he has remained in seclusion, although attending to city hall work with the aid of his secretaries.

Invited to Tour Europe.

Acting on the advice of the physician the mayor did not appear yesterday at the World's Fair grounds, where he was to speak, and he will not attend the meeting today of the city council.

Corporation Counsel Sexton spoke in his stead at the exposition's Hall of Science where 4,000 persons had gathered in celebration of "Mayor's day."

An invitation to tour Europe on behalf of the exposition was delivered by Rufus C. Dawes, president. The invitation was answered as follows in the mayor's speech which Mr. Sexton read:

"Unless we succeed very soon in getting relief from the financial stress of the city I doubt that it will be possible to accept your tempting invitation."

Tells of Mayor's Efforts.

In speaking of the mayor Mr. Dawes said he had labored tirelessly and effectively to maintain Chicago's credit. "His burden," he said, "has seemed to be beyond the strength of man, his nights as well as his days have been occupied with labor in the public interest."

After a meeting of the exposition's board of directors earlier in the afternoon, Mr. Dawes issued a statement on financial aspects of the fair. "We have sold in buildings erected and to be erected space in the amount of $1,911,802," he declared, "and have received on account the sum of $1,561,263 in cash.

"We have made contracts for concessions at the exposition offering spectacular forms of entertainment and amusement in the aggregate sum of $1,300,000."

At present, according to Mr. Dawes, the fair has cash on hand of $1,533,000 and a construction program consisting of seven buildings for the exposition and five to be erected by other interests under contract.

"We feel that we have established the credit of our bonds, since within the last three weeks we have disposed of $419,000 to contractors for materials furnished and $241,000 in part payment for services rendered and to be rendered," Mr. Dawes said.

There remain $2,200,000 of bonds to be sold.

2 MOTORCYCLE RIDERS ARE SHOT BY SUBURBAN COP

Two men riding on a motorcycle were shot and seriously wounded last night at 182d street and Torrence avenue, Lansing, by Policeman Charles Zitek of Lansing when they failed to stop at his command. One, Lawrence Coleman, 26 years old, 4126 Homerlee avenue, East Chicago, fell off the motorcycle and was taken to St. James' hospital in Chicago Heights. The other, Raymond Williams, 30 years old, 847 Wilcox avenue, Hammond, drove the motorcycle eight miles to his home, where he collapsed. He was taken to St. Margaret's hospital, Hammond. Police said the motorcycle had been stolen from Roy Rosser, 551 West 115th street, Chicago, a former policeman.

UNIDENTIFIED BOY KILLED ON PARK ROLLER COASTER

An unidentified boy, about 14 years old, was killed late yesterday when he fell from a hurtling car on the Big Dipper, a roller coaster in Riverview park.

The boy fell thirty feet, his body crashing into the midway and narrowly missing several other children. Police last evening were unable to obtain an accurate account of the manner in which the accident occurred. Park officials said that the boy must have stood up in his seat and that his head hit an intersecting beam.

Police said that the victim was five feet two inches tall, weighed about 110 pounds, had blue eyes and brown hair. He wore blue overalls, a white shirt and tennis shoes.

Galesburg Tax Rate Cut 25 Per Cent by Council

Galesburg, Ill., July 6.—[Special.]—City tax rates here will be one-fourth less for the coming year as a result of the passage last night by the council of the annual tax levy ordinance. A saving of $84,000 over last year is recorded. Cuts in appropriations and lower salaries for all city officials are responsible for the reduction of 25 cents on the $100 valuation. One tax is eliminated entirely. It is a one cent levy for garbage collection.

Gets Year in Prison for Taking Saloon Man's Bribe

Letter Solves the Shooting of Bill Jurges

Violet Valli, the cabaret girl who shot Shortstop Bill Jurges of the Cubs yesterday, "told all" in a note written just before the shooting. This became known last night.

The note found in the girl's room revealed that she planned to kill herself and Jurges because their "beautiful" love affair had been broken up. Earlier, police had insisted that Jurges was shot accidentally as he tried to prevent Miss Valli from taking her own life.

Jurges will be able to play ball in two or three weeks, Dr. John Davis, the club physician, said last night. The shortstop was shot in the ribs and left wrist. The girl was wounded in the left hand, evidently when Jurges struggled to disarm her.

Blames "Kiki" Cuyler.

The shooting occurred in Jurges' room in the Hotel Carlos, 3834 Sheffield avenue, where several other Cub players also live. Miss Valli [born Popovich] also has a room there. Besides the note several empty liquor bottles were found in her room by police.

Hazen [Kiki] Cuyler, star Cub outfielder, who has a reputation for eschewing drink and tobacco and for staying home nights, was blamed in Miss Valli's note for breaking up the affair between her and Jurges. Jurges is batting only .260 this year.

The note, which Miss Valli addressed to her brother, Mike Popovich, an employé in the Division street Y. M. C. A., read:

"Dear Mike: I have just a few more minutes of waiting before I see Billy, so I'll write and try to explain everything. I know you'll understand.

"Life Isn't Worth Living."

"To me life without Billy isn't worth living, but why should I leave this earth alone? I'm going to take Billy with me. We are getting along famously, just as everything should go, but a few people like Ki-Ki Cuyler and Lew Steadman forgot that there might be anything fine and beautiful in our love for each other and dragged it in the mud. I know what I'm doing is best for me and I hate to do it—but? ? ? ?

"My last wish is that mother, you and the boys go to California and enjoy life to the greatest extent, and remember your father once in a while. I can't write any more. I'm so nervous. I love all of you. VIOLET."

Cuyler had little to say about the shooting last night. He admitted that he knew the girl slightly.

After writing the note Miss Valli went to Jurges' room late yesterday morning with a .25 caliber pistol in her handbag, according to the latest version of the shooting. There she drew the weapon and in the struggle for the gun the shooting followed.

The girl fled to her room while Jurges stumbled into the hall calling for help. Dr. Davis, who was in the hotel lobby, came to his aid and took him to the Illinois Masonic hospital. The girl was also taken there. Late last night police had placed no charges against her.

Girl Goes to New York.

Jurges is 24 years old and the girl 21. They met a year ago, acquaintances said, and were believed to have quarreled two weeks ago when Miss Valli went to New York. She returned to the Hotel Carlos last Sunday, hotel employés said.

Police said the girl left her Chicago home several years ago to go on the stage, and at that time adopted the name of Valli. She said she was formerly a chorus girl in the "Scandals."

Jurges broke into baseball as a semi-pro player in Brooklyn, his home. The Cubs acquired him in 1929 and sent him to their Reading, Pa., club for two seasons. He has been with the Cubs for two years.

pose is jeopardize the whole credit structure of the government and lay the people open to every kind of injustice and loss by signing such a bill. He asserted that the section of the measure which provides one billion 500 millions for loans to self-liquidating corporations, municipalities and individuals would result in huge losses to the government and "great scandals."

The President declared also that such a bill as Mr. Garner urged would put the government into the most gigantic banking and pawnbroking business in all history, set up a huge bureaucracy, able to dictate the welfare or disaster of millions of people, and in addition result in a misuse of government credit. And finally, the President concluded, the Garner proposal would violate every principle of public finance and of government.

As matters stood tonight after the smoke of battle had settled the house will take up the revised compromise relief bill tomorrow and probably pass it. It will then go to the senate, and if passed there, to the White House for a certain veto. At a final meeting today the conferees of the senate and house changed the bill so it is acceptable to the President on all points except that of personal loans to municipalities and individuals.

Opens Way to Illinois.

The bill as amended makes it possible for Illinois to obtain a maximum of $45,000,000 instead of the indeterminate and smaller amount which could have been borrowed under the compromise bill as it stood yesterday. This was done by changing the bill so the full 200 millions set aside for loans for states would be loaned directly through the Reconstruction Finance corporation. A new section made it possible for one state to obtain as much as 15 per cent of the full three hundred millions.

A change also was made in the public works section which gives the President greater latitude in determining how much money shall be spent on the new projects included during the next fiscal year.

The President's Statement.

"I regret that the conferences in an endeavor to arrive at a basic and workable relief bill did not succeed," said the President. "It is all the more regrettable since the deliberations this morning made it clear that it was possible to harmonize conflicting views were it not for the insistance of the speaker on one point.

"The bill as reported by the conferees provides:

"First. Provision for expanding the borrowing authority of the reconstruction corporation by $1,500,000,000, to be used for temporary financing of self-liquidating construction projects of public and semi-public character to increase employment.

"Second. Speaker Garner insists that the corporation shall also make loans to any individual, any private corporation, any partnership, any state, or any municipality on any conceivable kind of security and for any conceivable purpose.

"Third. Provision of a fund by the Reconstruction Finance corporation of 100 million dollars for the President, to be disposed of either as charity or as loans, and one of 200 million dollars to be loaned to state governments who are unable to finance themselves to care for distress, but such loans to be apportioned amongst the states on a per capita basis of population.

"Fourth. 322 million dollars of additional public works beyond the 500 million dollars of construction work now provided for in the budget.

Loans Are Restricted.

"As to the first provision, the reconstruction corporation authority to make loans today is practically limited to institutions under state and federal regulation; that is, banks, savings banks, building and loan associations, agricultural credit corporations and railways. It is serving to protect the credit structure of the nation, whose collapse would mean complete disaster to all and the savings of all the people that directly or indirectly are in the safe keeping of the great fiduciary institutions, saving banks, insurance companies, building and loan associations. That is, the whole people.

"The fatal difficulty is the speaker's insistence upon provision that loans should also be made to individuals, private corporations, partnerships, states and municipalities on any conceivable security and for every purpose. Such an undertaking by the United States government makes the reconstruction corporation the most gigantic banking and pawnbroking business in all history."

The President said that under the terms of the compromise bill forty-eight states and 16,000 municipalities could dump their responsibilities upon the federal government.

"It would result in dumping a vast amount of doubtful private and corporation debts on the federal treasury to no national purpose of relieving unemployment," the President said. "It would require the extension of branch offices in every town and county in the United States and set up a huge bureaucracy able to dictate the welfare of millions of people and at the will of its agents deal favor and disaster amongst them. No group of seven men can organize as not to discriminate unfairly between competitive enterprises. There is no body of men who could physically administer such a gigantic project."

The President then asserted that as now written the compromise measure would cause the finance corporation to "take over an impossible task" of dealing with the doubtful credits in the whole United States.

"From an organization and administrative standpoint it is self-evident," declared Mr. Hoover, "that the proposal is impossible of execution, and huge losses and great scandals must inevitably result. Any attempt to carry out the law must mean the squandering of hundreds of millions of dollars of public funds.

Sees Inevitable Discrimination.

"There would be serious interference, if not a complete breakdown, of the vital activities it is now carrying on under high pressure. And there will be disappointment on the part of hundreds and thousands of individuals and thousands of businesses who will have been led to believe that the credit of the United States government was available for their individual purposes. There will be inevitable discriminations. The organization would be subject to predatory corporations and interests everywhere.

"Aside from the utter impracticability of the proposal no funds, or totally inadequate funds, are provided for the making of these loans. The bill as it came from the senate provided for increasing the authority of the Reconstruction Finance corporation to borrow by $1,500,000,000 for certain self-liquidating construction projects enumerated in the bill. Not one penny is to be added for the making of these individual, private, corporation, and public loans."

In concluding his attack on the Wagner-Garner bill President Hoover charged that it would misuse the credit of the United States. He said that the task of raising the three billion 300 millions which the finance corporation would be empowered to borrow for carrying on its loan business would be rendered increasingly difficult if the public knew that the loans to be made were not adequately safeguarded.

"To sell any such vast amount of securities at a time like this is a difficult enough task, strong as is the credit of the United States government," Mr. Hoover said. "But it can only be done and done without danger to breakdown of the credit of the government if the purposes for which the funds are to be used are economically sound and if the loans be made under such safeguards that they will be repaid, in order that the transactions will not constitute a charge on the general fund of the treasury and the taxpayers. But if these funds are to be squandered by the making of loans for every conceivable purpose, with inadequate safeguards, it will at once become evident that the credit of the government is being misused.

"We have sought during these difficult times to maintain as a pillar of unassailable strength the credit of the United States government. It is not much to say that the measure proposed and insisted upon even to the extent of defeat of relief legislation by the speaker of the house threatens the credit of the United States government and disaster to our people."

PRESIDENT ASKS FOR $100,000 TO SEND BONUS ARMY HOME

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., July 6.—[Special.]—President Hoover today asked congress to appropriate $100,000 for the evacuation of the bonus expeditionary army from the capital. The money, the President stated in his communication, would enable Frank T. Hines, administrator of veterans' affairs, to advance transportation and subsistence money to those veterans now encamped here who wish to return to their homes.

His request followed the house ways and means committee's filing of a favorable report on the resolution introduced in the senate last week by Senator Howell [Rep., Neb.], authorizing the veteran's bureau to advance 75 cents a day to members of the bonus army who desire to leave the city. The Howell resolution has passed the senate.

While the President and congress were seeking means to send the army from the city, leaders of the bonus forces were confronted with two serious problems—hunger and discord in their ranks.

The food shortage became more acute today as donations to the commissary of the army became fewer and fewer. The plane load of meat sent here from New York yesterday had been used up today and the men were subsisting on infrequent meals of weak coffee and porridge.

The establishment of a "military police" organization among the members of the army has brought considerable protest from the rank and file of the men, and the various camps were reported to be growing more alert to protest any indication that another camp was obtaining larger food rations.

Speaker Garner's Reply.

"It is not customary for the President of the United States to discuss legislation and bring in the threat of a veto after a bill has been agreed to by congressional conferees," were Garner's first words.

"It is not the best custom that he should set this precedent," Speaker Garner continued. "Nor is it in keeping with the spirit of the constitution.

"I do not believe it was the intention of the framers of the constitution that the executive should somehow obtain in advance a copy of a conference report on legislation which has not yet reached the floor of congress and call the members of congress down to his desk to tell them what they shall do."

Ashamed of Compromise.

The speaker said he had surrendered to the President on those sections of the bill which provided funds for direct relief and for new construction purposes to help overcome unemployment. He said, with a gesture of humiliation, that he was ashamed to face the house, but that he had receded in the interests of quick relief legislation.

The speaker referred to the fact that the compromise bill prepared by house and senate conferees proposed a fund of $100,000,000 for direct relief to be administered by the President as he saw fit and another of $200,000,000 for direct relief to the states on the basis of population.

"The President suggested," he said, "that we combine the two funds under the administration of the Reconstruction Finance corporation. He agreed to a provision that he be permitted to designate payments out of that fund to municipalities whose needs are pressing. It was not what I and some other of the conferees wanted, but we accepted his proposals.

"Then we turned to the section providing $322,000,000 for construction works to relieve unemployment. At the insistence of the senate members of the conference, he agreed to the retention of the $120,000,000 fund for road construction. He then agreed that the remaining $202,000,000 should be extended for other construction only when the treasury agreed the money was available. Again we receded."

Balks on Individual Loans.

Then the speaker came to the provision for direct loans by the Reconstruction Finance corporation to individuals who could put up adequate collateral.

"There we parted, and on that issue we stand parted," he said, bluntly.

He asserted that the Reconstruction Finance corporation had not saved the individual—"the common people"—from losing his home, his business or his farm.

"We want this corporation to shed its benefits upon all the people, not a select, highly placed few," he shouted.

"We have got to provide relief for the individual as well as the big bank the big railroad, the big corporation or the big insurance company, or we are going to have riots. There's no use mincing words. We might as well be plain about it.

"We propose to say that from henceforth there shall be no class legislation and no class borrowers. Let's let all the people have some dripping from this wonderful banking institution. Congress desires to serve all the people and the President says you take the selected clientele or you will take nothing."

Shouts of "No! No!" came from the Republican side.

"I said to the President this morning," continued Garner, "that I am through with class legislation. 'You,' I said to President Hoover, 'want to provide this three billion 800 millions and you want to give it to the railroads, insurance companies, the mortgage companies and the intense wealth of the country.'

"They said to me that all the people would be benefited. My friends the President's program would not let the drippings reach down to the earth."

Packed galleries watched the prancing, gesticulating, snow haired speaker. When Representative Bertrand H. Snell [Rep., N. Y.], the minority leader, answering for the administration, described Garner's speech as the most demagogic display he had ever witnessed in the house, one young woman in the gallery became so excited that she stood up and screamed:

"Remember November!"

Snell Continues Attack.

"I have listened with great interest to the speech of acceptance of the Democratic candidate for the vice presidency," Snell continued with sarcasm.

"This is an issue between the President of the United States and the Democratic vice presidential candidate," he continued. "We would have reached an agreement last night, if it had not been for the speaker's presence.

"We were told last night by the secretary of the treasury, the governor of the federal reserve board, and two directors of the Reconstruction Finance corporation that the bill proposed by the senate and house conferees was impossible of administration," the minority leader declared. "It proposed setting up throughout the country a super-bank."

Rainey Defends Garner.

Representative Henry T. Rainey [Ill.], the Democratic leader, was quick to leap to the defense of the speaker. Denouncing Mr. Snell as having branded "the champion of the common people" as a demagogue, he charged the minority leader with making relief a political issue and shouted:

"We have tried to go along with you and the President for the good of the country. But we have reached the parting of the ways now and forever. That 'demagogue' will be the Vice President of the United States after March 4."

RYERSON URGES HOOVER TO HELP ILLINOIS RELIEF

Funds Will Be Exhausted in Three Weeks.

Washington, D. C., July 6.—[Special.]—At a luncheon conference with President Hoover today Edward L. Ryerson Jr., chairman of the Illinois Emergency commission on relief, advised the chief executive that the relief chest of this state will be empty within three weeks if federal relief is not forthcoming. He stated that Gov. Louis L. Emmerson stood ready to call a special session of the legislature to consider a special bond issue to supply additional funds if the government will purchase them.

E. L. RYERSON JR.

"I told the President," Mr. Ryerson said, when he left the White House to return to Chicago, "that the state of Illinois will not have funds to continue its relief work after July 25. I told him that the state was anxious to know just what the prospects were for the relief bill.

"I explained to President Hoover that it was urgent that the state know as early as possible what help it could expect from the government in the way of loans. I told him that under state law legislation authorizing a bond issue would have to be enacted ninety days before the election this fall to be legal. This means that the session would have to be called the latter part of the month."

Mr. Ryerson said he found the President sympathetic.

"The President, however," added Mr. Ryerson, "was not in a position to tell me when a relief bill would be passed. He did say, however, that agreement had been reached whereby it would be possible for larger loans to be made to the states where the relief need was greatest."

Mr. Ryerson said the decision to call the Illinois relief situation to the attention of the President was reached at a meeting of the relief commission last Friday night.

Town by Team Work Opens Community Bank; Pays Debts

Byron, Ill., July 6.—(AP)—This community of 915 persons, who boast that theirs is the world's smallest incorporated city, today rejoiced in the opening of the Rock River Community Bank.

The new institution, which takes the place of the Byron State bank closed last December, represents six months of community effort.

In addition to ending bankless days for the community, the community bank has assumed all liabilities and assets of the old institution and has made 75 per cent of its deposits immediately available.

Expensive receivership proceedings, entailing sale of assets at a sacrifice and extensive litigation against debtors and stockholders, have been averted.

Gloom Is Dispersed.

The gloom that encompassed the community has been dispersed. When depositors had the opportunity today to withdraw 75 per cent of their accounts, few availed themselves of the chance. Officials said far more money was deposited than was withdrawn.

Back of it all is the story of an agricultural community that was not content "to muddle through," but was determined to have a good bank through which it might conduct its business.

When frozen assets caused the closing of the old Byron State bank the community floundered along for a few weeks. Then Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick Simms whose large farm holdings are near here, proposed, through James W. Rogers, her financial secretary, that the bank be reorganized and pledged 10 per cent of the funds necessary.

Pull Through Bad Spot.

A citizens' committee was appointed and the reorganization plan was presented. Stockholders were canvassed to obtain pledges of meeting their liability without delay. Debtors were urged to meet their obligations. Pledges were sought for stock in the new institution.

Just when it appeared as if the plan was to be successful there came the failure of several banks in an adjacent city, in which many Byron people had deposited their funds. The Byron community was discouraged and much of the work had to be done again. Those active in the work redoubled their efforts. Additional pledges for stock were obtained. In many cases a single share was sold to an individual.

Old Deposits Available.

After six months' hard work the reorganization was effected. Now Byron has its bank, a bank in which 304 of its 915 inhabitants hold stock. The institution is capitalized at $50,000 has $10,000 surplus, and $2,000 undivided profits.

And the major part of the $250,000 in deposits which were tied up in the old bank are again available for circulation in the community, bringing encouragement to its merchants and farmers.

Mr. Rogers, who aided in much of the reorganization work, has been elected president.

QUIZ OF STATE RELIEF METHODS TO OPEN TODAY

An inquiry into the methods of the Illinois relief commission in dispensing charity will be started this morning by State Senator Richard R. The hearing will be held in State Auditor Nelson's office at 33 North La Salle street at 10 a. m.

In addition to Mr. Meents the subcommittee's members are Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg [Rep., Chicago] and Representative Alexander Wilson [Dem., Cairo]. Mr. Nelson is expected to sit with the group.

According to Mr. Schnackenberg, witnesses will include a representative of Edward L. Ryerson Jr., president of the relief commission, who was in Washington yesterday conferring with President Hoover.

SMITH TO BACK ROOSEVELT AND GARNER TICKET

Breaks Silence Lasting Since Convention.

New York, July 6.—[Special.]—Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, who had maintained silence as to his political intentions since the Democratic national convention, broke it today by issuing a statement that he would support the Democratic party at the November election.

Only by implication did Mr. Smith indicate that he would support Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, his successful rival for the Democratic presidential nomination, for he did not mention Mr. Roosevelt's name.

Mr. Smith's direct assertion that he would support Gov. Roosevelt and the latter's running mate, Speaker John N. Garner, came in an interview after the issuance of the statement. Mr. Smith's attention was called to the omission of names and was asked if this had any significance.

Explains His Stand.

"I see no occasion for mention of the names of the candidates," Mr. Smith replied. "I said I would support the Democratic party. How can I do that without supporting its candidates?"

Mr. Smith amplified this letter when he was asked if the platform was not entirely satisfactory to him.

"When I say I will support the party," he answered, "that means that I will support the candidates, the platform, and the party."

Several thousand letters and telegrams were received by Mr. Smith, and most of them, it was said by an associate, urged him to run independently for President on the Democratic platform. One of his correspondents offered to raise a campaign fund of $1,000,000 if he would consent to run as the head of a third party ticket. As he said in his statement, Mr. Smith regarded such a course as both impractical and impossible.

Hands Out Statement.

The wounds of the recent Chicago convention apparently still rankled, and Mr. Smith passed out the copies of the following statement without a word:

"Upon the urgent insistence of many patriotic supporters, I entered the contest for the Democratic nomination for the purpose of fighting for a declaration of principles in the interest of the whole country as well as the Democratic party. The principles which I advocated have in part been adopted, notably the declaration favoring repeal of the eighteenth amendment and the immediate modification of the Volstead act.

Thanks His Friends.

"I want my friends all over the country to know that my heart is full of gratitude for the loyalty they have displayed towards me. Since the nomination was made in Chicago and continuing to this moment, I have been receiving thousands of letters and telegrams from them, looking to me for advice and suggestions; thousands more making definite suggestions to me. Obviously, it will be impossible for me to reply to them individually. Most of the suggestions urged the organization of an independent political party. These come from people dissatisfied with the conventions of both parties. To them I say it is not practical in our country to start a third party at this time, as it would simply register a negative vote which would accomplish nothing for the people in their hour of need.

"We are living under a system of two major political parties. The parties out of power should constitute the necessary check and audit upon the party in power. The question before us for decision is, shall the record of the last twelve years of Republican administration be approved at the polls in November? As far as I am concerned, I am totally dissatisfied with that record and shall do nothing to lend it countenance. I shall therefore support the Democratic party."

Roosevelt Hails Unity.

In Albany, Gov. Roosevelt hailed the increasing party unity marked by Gov. Smith's promise of support and the disclosure that Jouett Shouse was expected to be back on the active firing line for the Democratic national ticket.

"Gov. Smith's statement," said Gov. Rosevelt, "confirms my confidence that he would support the Democratic party."

At the same time the governor revealed that Mr. Shouse on whom the Roosevelt forces at Chicago led a fight which brought about defeat for his bid for the permanent chairmanship, had wired a telegram of congratulation on the nomination and that that indicated that Mr. Shouse would take a leading part in the campaign.

Shouse Sends Message.

"Dear Frank," said Mr. Shouse's telegram, "I had thought I would see you in Chicago. As I did not, I want in this way to offer my congratuations and to tell you of my good wishes for the success of the ticket. During the last three years it has been gratifying to have a part in the development of the organization to the point where it can go forward to victory. The party is prepared, the opportunity awaits and I need not add that insofar as personal obligations will permit, I shall be glad to help achieve the results which are readily possible."

From Cleveland, came word that Newton D. Baker, the dark horse of the convention, will support the Roosevelt-Garner ticket.

"Of course I'll support the Democratic ticket," he said.

It was generally known that Baker was opposed to the nomination of Gov. Roosevelt, but he intimated tonight that he will do everything in his power to carry the state of Ohio for Roosevelt, even taking the stump in behalf of the Democratic nominee.

Ely Approves Statement.

Boston, Mass., July 6.—(AP)—Gov. Joseph B. Ely and Mayor James M. Curley, leaders, respectively, of the Massachusetts forces of Alfred E. Smith and Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, tonight gave their approval to Smith's announcement that he would "support the Democratic party."

Gov. Ely said: "I think it was the proper statement for him to issue." Gov. Ely nominated Smith in the national convention.

Mayor Curley, who supported Roosevelt, said the Smith announcement "in favor of the candidacy of Franklin D. Roosevelt must be a source of gratification to the friends of both men."

88 Degrees Maximum

A thunderstorm last night caused a sharp drop in temperature in Chicago and its suburbs. The mercury which mounted to an official 88 degrees in the afternoon fell to 75 at 10 o'clock last night. Unsettled weather, probably with occasional showers, is forecast for today and tomorrow by C. A. Donnel, principal meteorologist of the weather bureau. Today will not be so warm as yesterday.

Mr. Donel's morning forecast yesterday indicated fair weather, as he expected the storm area moving over the upper great lakes region to miss Chicago. However, a veering of the low pressure area brought the storms this way.

EXPECT WOMEN WETS TO BACK GOV. ROOSEVELT

New York, July 6.—[Special.]—Endorsement of the Democratic platform on prohibition and the Democratic nominee for the presidency by the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform is expected to result from the meeting of the executive committee of the organization tomorrow.

The head of the organization is Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, and Mrs. Sabin today refused to speculate on the action to be taken at the meeting beyond stating that the question of which candidate and which party platform is to be endorsed by the organization will be the principal business.

A resolution adopted at the Washington convention of the organization last April declared that it was the function of the organization "to support that party and its candidate for President of the United States as well as all other candidates for public office which shall stand unequivocally for the repeal of the eighteenth amendment, to be submitted to conventions in the various states for ratification or rejection."

G. O. P. OFFICIALS PLAN CAMPAIGN WITH SANDERS

J. R. Nutt, treasurer of the Republican national committee, and Henry J. Allen, former governor of Kansas, who will supervise Republican publicity in the coming campaign, arrived in Chicago yesterday for conferences with Everett Sanders, new chairman of the Republican national committee.

The three, with Robert Lucas, Mr. Sanders' executive assistant, spent the day looking over the rooms at the Palmer house where they will establish main campaign headquarters and in laying plans for perfecting their Chicago organization.

Mr. Sanders was asked if, due to the widespread use of the radio in political campaigns, there would be a letup in public speeches. There will not, he answered, adding that he believed it a good policy for speakers to look their audiences "in the eye." He was careful not to discuss the plans of President Hoover, which he said would be announced from the White House.

Mr. Sanders later announced the campaign would be opened officially by Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills at Boston next Monday evening. Mr. Mills will speak in Faneuil hall. He will discuss, among other things, Gov. Roosevelt's acceptance speech, Mr. Sanders said.

Iowa Farmer-Labor Party to Nominate Brookhart

Council Bluffs, Ia., July 6.—[Special.]—Roy Harrop, state chairman Farmer-Labor party, declared today that United States Senator Smith W. Brookhart of Iowa will be placed on the ballot at the Nov. 8 general election as the party's candidate. Brookhart, defeated in the primary election for the Republican nomination by Henry Field of Shenandoah, has not announced he would be a candidate.

BOY KILLED BY BUS.

Charles William Cook, 14 years old, 1215 West 104th street, was killed yesterday when he was struck by a surface line feeder bus at 103d street and Charles road. Police said the boy ran in front of the bus, driven by Leslie Gaffen, 6843 South Throop street. The driver was not held.

2 SLAIN, 1 SHOT IN CAFE; BLAME WAR OVER BEER

Western Ave. Roadhouse Scene of Shooting.

Two men were shot and killed and a third was wounded last night in an apparent beer war flare-up in the Del Rio café, near 95th street and Western avenue, just over the city boundary line in Evergreen Park.

Less than twenty-four hours before one of the slain men, James (Red) McGee, 30 years old, ex-policeman, former aldermanic aspirant, and proprietor of the roadhouse, told his wife that he feared assassination. Killed with McGee was Bernie Larkin, 40 years old, one time associate of Ralph Sheldon, pioneer beer boss.

The two were shot down as they sat together at a counter in the restaurant. One of the bullets pierced the arm of George Vanderplow, 26 years old, 8955 South Carpenter street, a waiter. Vanderplow told police that only one gunman did the shooting, but investigators believe at least two killers were involved.

Witnesses Tell Stories.

"I was standing at one end of the counter," the waiter related to Coroner Frank Walsh, "when the gunman entered. 'Hello, Red,' he called. McGee turned around, and the next instant the man started firing."

Two other witnesses were Lillian, a waitress, whose last name is unknown to police, and Sam Frazier, 3803 Giles avenue, the cook. The waitress disappeared after the shooting. Possibility that she was kidnaped by the slayers because she was a witness was expressed, but doubted, by detectives. Frazier said he did not see the shooting. He heard the shot and saw an automobile speed north in Western avenue.

Chief Thomas Buis of Evergreen Park and policemen from the Chicago detective bureau believe that three men drove up to the roadhouse and that two of them did the shooting. A shotgun probably was used, as well as an automatic pistol, they said.

Find Hidden Barroom.

Several hours after the killing police opened an apparent exit door and discovered a hidden barroom, about 8 feet square. Beneath the bar they discovered gin, alcohol and moonshine, and pipes for beer tapping. In a desk they came across cards which indicated that McGee was financial secretary for the Cemetery Workers' union.

This discovery raised a possibility that a labor racket prompted the murders. Orders were issued to question James Doyle, business agent of the union. A paper in McGee's effects revealed also that he went under the name of James Kennedy.

Quiz Bride of Victim.

Police found Mrs. Peggy McGee, 25 years old, wife of the slain proprietor, at 6752 South Maplewood avenue. She is employed as cashier at the Beverly Gardens, a roadhouse at 91st street and Western avenue. She said that she and McGee were secretly married several months ago. It was she who told of McGee's fear of death.

"I told my husband Tuesday night that I would call for him at 1 o'clock in the morning and drive home with him," she told the police. "He said 'No, Peggy, you'd better not. I'm hot.'" Police said this indicated there was trouble over McGee's beer purchases. They also questioned Emily Engram, Larkin's sweetheart, but said she could throw no light on the killings.

McGee purchased the Del Rio café only a month ago. Years ago it was owned by "Buck" Weaver, star player on the White Sox team, who was banished along with other so-called "Black Sox" for the 1919 world series scandal. Police said that McGee handled bottled beer and that apparently he either used the "wrong stuff" or made his own.

Discharged from Police Force.

The slain roadhouse owner lived at 1540 West 105th street. He was discharged from the police department in 1927. Last February he ran for alderman of the 19th ward.

Police records show little of Bernie Larkin except that he was a pal of Sheldon and was said to be a brother of Thomas [The Goat] Larkin, a reputed one time follower of "Spike" O'Donnell.

O'Donnell is now out of the business, having been forced into retirement by Dan McGeoghegan and Michael [Bubs] Quinlan, well known hoodlums.

Woman Held for Robbing J. A. Holabird Jr. Mail Box

Mrs. Priscilla Meade, 26 years old 664 Oakdale avenue, was held for postal authorities at the West Chicago avenue station last night, charged with mail box thievery. She was arrested after she appeared at a Diversey boulevard hat store late yesterday with a dividend check for $615 issued to John A. Holabird Jr., architect, 2242 Lincoln Park West. She denied stealing the check and said it was given to her by a girl she could only identify as "Margaret."

Act to Force Hand of Garner on Issue of Immediate Beer

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 6.—[Special.]—With the senate prohibition battle over the Bingham beer amendment postponed until tomorrow, Republican wets moved decisively today to force the hand of Speaker John N. Garner, Democratic vice presidential nominee, on the issue of immediate modification and repeal.

JOHN C. SCHAFER.

The organized Republican wet bloc voted unanimously to deliver a fourfold petition demanding that the speaker exercise his control to bring a beer bill and repeal resolution to a showdown; that the judiciary committee report out a beer bill and repeal resolution; that the ways and means committee bring out a bill taxing beer; and that the rules committee give both measures privileged status.

Immediate modification of the Volstead law, the Republican conferees agreed, would add hundreds of millions of dollars to federal, state, county, and municipal treasuries, put a million men back to work, establish new markets for grain, and renew public confidence.

Schafer Demands Action.

The wet bloc's demands were carried to the house floor by Representative John C. Schafer [Rep., Wis.], who called on Speaker Garner to introduce legislation modifying the Volstead act to permit the manufacture and sale of beer.

"If the Democratic leaders in this body are sincere in wanting to provide relief, and if they are sincere in their support of the party's wet plank, then let them bring in a beer resolution," he shouted. "The Democrats are in control of the house of representatives and the Democrats have come out for immediate modification, and yet no steps have been taken in this body. Immediate does not mean tomorrow, or next month, or next year. It means now!"

The senate debate on the Bingham amendment to legalize beer was postponed until tomorrow by an extended discussion of the home loan bank bill, to which the Bingham bill is proposed as a rider.

Drys Strengthen Lines.

Senate drys took advantage of the delay to strengthen their lines, and to such purpose that Senator Hiram Bingham [Rep., Conn.], author of the beer amendment, was forced to admit that the prospects for its passage were slim, indeed.

The dry strategy will seek to avoid an outright vote through a motion by Senator Joseph T. Robinson [Dem., Ark.] to send the amendment to committee.

Adoption of the amendment to the home loan bank bill offered by Senator James Couzens [Rep., Mich.] further complicated the situation. The amendment does away with that portion of the original administration bill setting up a 125 million dollar sysem of home loan discount banks.

With the parent bill thus altered, Senator Bingham no longer has a pet Hoover measure to which to attach his amendment. On the other hand, wets who wished to vote for beer, but who disliked the original home loan bank bill, now have a clear track ahead.

MRS. BROPHY II. FILES DIVORCE SUIT IN RENO

BALANCE BUDGET IN MISSISSIPPI WITH SALES TAX

Jackson, Miss., July 6.—[Special.]—The state of Mississippi apparently has succeeded in balancing its budget. Revenues, derived chiefly from the sales tax of 2 per cent and the gross 2 per cent income tax, are fully 25 per cent above expectations.

Figures in the hands of the state tax commission indicate that the sales tax levy will yield around $200,000 monthly, whereas it had been estimated $168,000 monthly would be derived from this source.

The reaction of the public to the sales tax has been watched closely by the politicians. When this tax was proposed it resulted in small riots and a march upon the statehouse, but, generally speaking, there has been no widespread complaint and Mississippians seem to have accepted this method of balancing the budget and restoring the credit of the state.

Mississippi started the year with a deficit of 7 million dollars. Gov. Sennett Connor, who succeeded Gov. Theodore Bilbo, announced when he took over the reins of government that he would not approve any appropriation measure until he was assured of revenues to meet the obligation. Just now Gov. Connor is in New York trying to find a market for state obligations and to refinance outstanding debts.

Meeting the firm attitude of Gov. Connor, the state legislators made unprecedented cuts in appropriations and in the imposition of additional taxes.

WORLD FLYERS ARE OVERDUE ON HOP TO MOSCOW

There was a fog over Bremen. Then we hit the storm outside of Hanover.

"We flew on and on, until we realized we must have passed Berlin. We dropped down and spotted the name of Soldin on a railroad station. Our map showed that we were 70 miles beyond our goal. We flew back. O, we could have been here an hour earlier if it hadn't been for that detour.

"Why should we be tired? We have dual controls and when I worked Griff slept and when he took over I curled up."

Eye Is Treated.

Griffin said he felt great, despite an inflamed eye.

"Motor oil blew in my face," he explained. "I'd better see a doctor."

An oculist was called to the airdrome and he administered a few drops and said it was perfectly safe for the flyer to continue.

As the flyers walked to the Tempelhof restaurant, they were met by a waiter carrying a tray of foaming beer.

"No, thanks," said Griffin. "What we want is a good, long drink of water. We haven't eaten anything except oranges since we left America and—are we hungry!"

At the restaurant they sat down to a dinner of thick steaks, smothered with mushrooms, salad and coffee. No alcoholic beverages were served. Sandwiches, tea, coffee, and fruit were carried to the Century of Progress for the flight to Moscow.

Stamp 275 Letters.

While the plane was being refueled Griffin supervised the stamping of 275 letters the flyers are carrying around the world.

The airdrome mechanics, who had gone over the ship's 550 horsepower motor, announced that it did not show the slightest strain.

Just before taking off Mattern sent a message to his wife, which read: "Hope to see you this week-end. Berlin looks great. JIMMIE."

As the plane was being tuned up, Mattern and Griffin were informed by the mayor of Berlin that gold medals were awaiting them at the German embassy in Washington, D. C., on their return.

"This is Berlin's recognitioin of the first nonstop flight from America to the German capital," he said.

Face Crucial Test.

New York, July 6.—(AP)—Bennett Griffin and James Mattern, round the world flyers, will meet their crucial test when they start the homeward half of their spin around the rim of the earth.

Clarence Page, one of their representatives, explained today that the southwestern pilots must push the Century of Progress 3,100 miles on a nonstop jump from the mid-Siberian city of Irkutsk to the Alaskan city of Nome.

"The boys must take on an enormous quantity of gasoline at Irkutsk," Page said, "and make that dangerous hop across the most barren expanse of land and water on earth without a hitch. If they falter for an instant it's all up."

He pointed out that Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, on their record breaking venture, had the advantage of two additional landings in Siberia—at Blagoveschensk and Khabarovsk—before they tackled the perilous hop across the Bering sea to Solomon Beach, Alaska. That left them a nonstop water jump of 2,400 miles.

American Flyers Smash Records on Race Around World

STING OF FRIENDS' WISECRACKS ACTS AS SPUR TO FLYER

Brother Tells Story of World Racer.

[The following story was written by Jeff Griffin, Oklahoma City Times reporter and younger brother of Bennett Griffin, flying around the world with Jimmy Mattern in an attempt to set a time record.]

BY JEFF GRIFFIN.

[Copyright: 1932: By the Associated Press.]

Oklahoma City, Okla., July 6.—Like a person sickened by some bitter experience, Bennett Griffin, my older brother, who, with Jimmie Mattern, is attempting a globe circling flight, returned from the world war determined to forget he ever had flown an airplane.

Within a fortnight, at his home in Norman, Okla., he had changed his mind. He realized that "flying blood" throbbed through his body and he swayed to its beckoning.

He has flown ever since. He calls aviation his "business," and once he advised me, like all older brothers like to do, that "to make a greater success in any business you get in—try to do something out of the ordinary."

Pioneer Flyer in South.

And in true fashion, I have seen since, he has tried to practice the same creed he imparted to me. Not that he has yet gained the distinction he wants—but he has tried.

He was one of the few pioneer flyers in Oklahoma. He has remained for the most part within the boundaries of the state and done his part in building confidence in the stride of aviation there.

Five years ago Bennett maneuvered a crippled plane back to the Pacific coast after a successful start in the Dole race to Hawaii. Discouraged, he returned to his home state in the face of a criticism that almost broke his spirit.

Chides from the ever existing element of do-nothings quickly spread the story that Bennett had returned to land from the race because "the water looked too deep."

Felt Sting of Wisecracks.

Bennett tried hard to disregard the nettling wisecracks thrust at him at opportune times, felt the sting of them, kept his head up and started planning.

Three years ago a wind and dust storm arose over Oklahoma City at the time Bennett and a co-pilot had crossed the half way mark in attempting to establish a new endurance record.

Blinded by the dust, the flyers were unable to make contacts with refueling machines. The ship was forced down.

The provoking gossip reappeared. But Bennett, in the face of it all, began to lay a foundation for the flight he now is on. It made him appear all the more ludicrous to the tongue waggers.

Bennett and Mattern met. Their ideas clicked on the idea of flying around the world. Although living in different states the distance which separated the two flyers was no barrier.

Backed by Oil Men.

Harry Turner and John Mabee, Oklahoma oil men, friends of long standing of both Bennett and Mattern, learned of the flight plans. They watched proceedings for several weeks without saying much.

One day the four of them were together in an Oklahoma City hotel. The oil men broke a continued chatter conducted by the aviators concerning the flight, saying, "The money's ready for you—now do your stuff."

Dispatches followed the progress of flight preparations. Bennett's fair weather friends in Oklahoma City began winking again, some of them wagering the takeoff would be made.

Those winks, you can believe me, at this moment are being used as spurs by Bennett to prove his mettle.

GIVES UP SELF FOR SLAYING AFTER 4 YEARS

Kenosha, Wis., July 6.—[Special.]—Four years after he shot Mike Carbone, 50, during a brawl in a wine shop, Tony Lochetto walked into the district attorney's office here today and gave himself up.

He has been hiding in Chicago since July 28, 1928, the night of the slaying, and he decided to come back because of growing fear of police, he said.

LAUSANNE DEBT PACT BLOCKED BY GERMAN TERMS

France Refuses to Accept Political Conditions.

BY JAY ALLEN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LAUSANNE, Switzerland, July 6.—The Lausanne conference seemed all set today to reach that long sought agreement ending German reparations for all time.

But tonight Premier Herriot of France came back to his hotel looking both glum and dogged. He said:

Balks at German Demands.

He meant that France continues to balk at the German conditions—equality in armaments and absolution from the war guilt—to go with the German offer on the lump sum Germany is willing to pay for a final settlement of the reparations problem.

"We simply will not discuss such conditions," Herriot told Chancellor Franz von Papen of Germany in front of Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain tonight before dinner.

In giving away for a lump sum which is the equivalent of almost two years of payments under the Young plan, all French claims for further reparations, Herriot apparently feels he has given away plenty. He is not giving away the treaty of Versailles—tonight, anyway.

Tonight after dinner the delegates met again. The Germans put down on the table all the drafts proposed by the various nations for an agreement. MacDonald in his most sonorous manner called upon all the parties to make the sacrifices necessary for an agreement.

"The world will be grateful to you," he said with much drama in his Scotch burr.

Herriot, however, said he wanted time to study the texts.

So there is the reparations conference—at a stage where within a very short time there will be something very clear cut, success or failure.

Fate Due in Few Hours.

The fate of the conference probably will be decided in the next few hours. Mitigating in favor of success is the obsession that failure is unthinkable. Nerves, however, are going bad.

Today MacDonald spoke his mind to the vast annoyance of the French and Germans. Trying to cram an agreement on figures down the throats of Count Lutz-Schwerin von Krosigk, German finance minister, and Georges Bonnet, French official, he said in a show of temper:

"Public opinion in my country is disgusted with you both."

The French and British are still not agreed on just how to handle the matter of conditioning an agreement here upon a settlement of war debt matters by the United States. It is no secret that Ambassador Hugh S. Gibson and Norman Davis of the American disarmament delegation at Geneva have warned MacDonald on behalf of his friend, Herbert Hoover, that mention of the United States will damage the case for the European debtors.

French Want Just a Hint.

The French want a gentleman's agreement to the effect that there will be no ratification until a "satisfactory settlement" or a "universal agreement" has been reached. Thus, it is seen that there is no mention of the United States, but just a hint about another country that is not Mars. The British want this kept in the shadows. The French say it cannot be, that the Germans have to be openly informed.

BRITONS TO READ REPLY TO HOOVER ARMS PLAN TODAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 6.—An answer to President Hoover's "one-third cut" disarmament scheme will be made from the British standpoint in a lengthy statement to the house of commons tomorrow. Vice Premier Stanley Baldwin will read the declaration while Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon is saying the same thing at Geneva.

The announcement was drafted tonight in a protracted cabinet meeting at which, The Tribune understands, the government's attitude on the entire field of disarmament was reviewed. As far as one is able to learn the British are hoping for adjournment of the disarmament conference in two weeks' time.

There is no indication that the British attitude on the President's proposal is other than an inclination to emphasize the points reached at Geneva, rather than outright endorsement of a single idea.

SMITH REYNOLDS, LIBBY HOLMAN'S HUSBAND, SUICIDE

Kills Self After Party at Carolina Home.

Winston-Salem, N. C., July 6.—[Special.]—Z. Smith Reynolds, 20, one of the heirs to the vast tobacco fortune amassed by the late R. J. Reynolds, died by his own hand, Dr. W. N. Dalton, Forsyth county coroner, decided this afternoon. The coroner said he would sign a certificate of suicide.

Young Reynolds, who married Libby Holman of Broadway musical comedy fame recently, after a trip around the world by plane, shot himself in the head with a .32 caliber revolver at his country estate at 1 o'clock this morning after a dinner party he had given to a friend. He died at 5:35 at Baptist hospital without regaining consciousness.

Although Dr. Dalton said it was a case of suicide Sheriff Transou Scott announced that he was continuing his investigation. However, he would make no statement as to whether he suspected violence.

Wife's Stories Conflicting.

A conflict in testimony was recorded when Sheriff Scott said Mrs. Reynolds told him that she was on the sleeping porch at the Reynolds estate when Mr. Reynolds shot himself. She told him, Sheriff Scott said, that she did not know whether she saw her husband shoot himself or not.

Earlier statements attributed to Mrs. Reynolds were to the effect that she was in a bedroom adjoining the sleeping porch when she heard the discharge of the pistol and ran into the room. She screamed, "Smith has shot himself," and went out of the room, persons close to the family quoted her as saying.

Dr. W. M. Johnson, personal physician to Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds, said tonight that Mrs. Reynolds was prostrated with grief and could see no one. He said no persons, not even members of the immediate family could see her for 24 hours at the least.

Two Sisters Arrive.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Charles Babcock, sister of Mr. Reynolds, and her husband arrived by plane from their home in New York City. Neither would make any statement and were taken to the Reynolds estate.

Mrs. Henry Walker Bagley, another sister of young Reynolds and her husband, arrived tonight from New York by train and went to the estate. Neither had any statement to make.

Efforts to reach Richard J. Reynolds, eldest brother of the young man proved futile. He is cruising in his yacht somewhere off the southern coast of Africa.

Members of the Reynolds family and close friends declined to make any statements relative to the death of young Reynolds. A spokesman said that a statement would be issued within the next day or two.

The spokesman, in discussing the condition of young Reynolds during the past month since he returned to his home here for a rest, said he was at a loss to find cause for suicide. He said Smith was in high spirits during the last few days and seemed intensely interested in his plans for the future.

Shooting After Midnight.

The shooting of Reynolds occurred shortly after midnight when members of the household were preparing to retire for the night. Mrs. Reynolds and Miss Blanche Yeager, of New York, a friend were planning to come into Winston-Salem for a short time with Abe Walker, a local friend of young Reynolds. Walker said Smith had given him his purse.

Reynolds went to the sleeping porch where he kept a .32 caliber revolver he had been cleaning. A shot rang out and Mrs. Reynolds screamed. Walker said he rushed to the second floor and met Miss Yeager and the two of them went to the sleeping porch, where they found Smith lying on the floor unconscious with a bullet through his head.

This city, where the late R. J. Reynolds, father of the dead youth, amassed a fortune that was appraised at $17,000,000 gross and $10,000,000 net at his death in 1918, has been excited all day over the news of the suicide of young Reynolds.

Divorced from First Wife.

He was well liked wherever known here, although he had been more or less in seclusion during the last year or since his early morning marriage to Anne Cannon of Concord, daughter of the towel magnate.

His first wife secured a Reno divorce last October and has since remarried. Some time ago young Reynolds created a trust fund of $1,000,000 for his first wife and their child.

Reynolds was married secretly to Miss Holman in Hawaii and they have been living at the Reynolds estate here for the last month.

Speculation was current as to the amount the young widow will receive from the Reynolds estate. It was not known whether young Reynolds had made a will. It was said, however, the widow probably will not inherit any of the Reynolds tobacco millions but will inherit a widow's share of the estate of Smith Reynolds, the remainder going to his sisters and brothers.

The will of the late R. J. Reynolds made no provision for the wives and husbands of his children in the event of death ofthe children.

Provision was made for an income for the children when they are between the ages of 21 and 28 years and for the issue of those children in the event any of the children die between the ages of 21 and 28 years. The income ranged from $5,000 to $50,000 per year, as Mrs. Reynolds, his executrix, might decide. She since has died.

Slayer's Clemency Plea Will Be Heard Tuesday

A plea for executive clemency in behalf of Howard C. Bonham, scheduled to be electrocuted July 22, will be heard next Tuesday by the board of pardons and paroles. The state's attorney's office was notified of the hearing yesterday. Bonham is under sentence of death for the murder of Paul Tulupan, manager of the Claridge grill, who was slain on Dec. 13, 1930, in an attempted robbery.

RETURNS MURDER VERDICT.

A verdict of murder by persons unknown was returned yesterday by a coroner's jury in the death of Jerome Weitzman, who was shot to death on June 25 in his speakeasy at 229 South Halsted street. Police are seeking William Sharkey, who was said to have quarreled with Weitzman.

Heir to $20,000,000 Kills Self

Mrs. Smith Reynolds, formerly Libby Holman, actress, who was at her husband's home near Winston-Salem, N. C., when he ended his spectacular career by sending a bullet through his head. On Broadway she was known as the "torch singer."

GAINS IN RECOUNT CLAIMED BY BOTH SIMPSON, CHURCH

Attorneys for both James Simpson Jr. and Ralph E. Church yesterday claimed their clients were ahead, as the recount of the Cook county ballots in the Tenth congressional district primary of last April was completed.

Simpson is contesting the apparent nomination of Church as the Republican candidate for congress. Recounting of Lake county ballots will be started today in the Cook county board's finance committee room.

Church was credited with 71 additional votes yesterday, increasing his lead to 103. However, Urban Lavery, attorney for Simpson, held out 321 ballots from the Third precinct and sixty from the Second precinct of the Eighth ward in Evanston, which, he charges, were not initialed by the election judges. Attorney Lavery will petition Circuit Judge Thomas J. Lynch to throw out these ballots. If this contention is upheld, Lavery said, Simpson will be placed well in the lead.

Hugo Meyer Faces Jail for Alimony Arrears

Judge Harry B. Miller of the Superior court yesterday ordered Hugo Meyer, head of the Illinois Motorists association, to show cause why he should not be sent to jail for falling $2,000 in arrears in alimony payments to Mrs. Hilda Jane Meyer, 2912 Commonwealth avenue. She was his second wife and divorced him in 1930.

MINNEAPOLIS CHICAGO ST. PAUL

BOARD TO MEET NIGHTLY TO SEEK SCHOOL REMEDY

Hunt $20,000,000 to Pay Up Back Salaries.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

In an effort to reopen the schools in September, to obtain $20,000,000 to meet unpaid pay rolls, and to reestablish its credit, the school board decided yesterday to meet nightly for 10 days or two weeks beginning at 7:45 p. m. Monday. To these sessions the board will invite Fred Sargent, D. F. Kelly, and Ernest R. Graham of the citizens' committee, one or two representatives each of the bankers, the unions, teachers' organizations, and the school building contractors, and probably coal dealers and school book publishing concerns.

ORVILLE TAYLOR.

Only One Dissenting Vote.

The move to "find and adopt a plan to get out of the financial difficulties" was presented by Trustee Taylor and met the approval of all of the board members, except Mrs. Helen Hefferan. She voted against the proposal. The purposes of the nightly sessions, as outlined by Trustee Taylor, follows:

1. Confer with contractors to ascertain how much building construction can be stopped without lawsuits.

2. Ascertain in what way and how much the compensation of employés engaged in the operation and maintenance of plant can be reduced.

3. Elimination of unnecessary personnel.

4. Determine whether Chicago Normal and Crane Junior colleges shall be closed.

5. Find out under what conditions and terms money can be obtained from bankers and investment houses to meet the unpaid pay rolls of the board.

6. Determine whether the schools can be reopened in September, and if not, at what later time.

Balks at School Closing.

"I'll never vote to close the schools," said President Myers from the rostrum. "The law requires us to maintain schools for nine months, and I will not take any chance on having a felony charge placed against me."

"How can the school be kept open, if we haven't and cannot get the money?" asked Trustee Taylor. "If we are to save $15,000,000 it may mean the closing of the Normal and Crane colleges and a reduction in salaries of the instructional as well as the operating forces of the schools, and possibly the closing of the schools."

The $15,000,000 saving was urged upon the board by Trustee Ernst Buehler, who presented two resolutions to cut the tax levies of 1932 by that amount—$6,000,000 from the educational fund and $10,000,000 from the building fund. He asserted that he was only trying to carry out the recommendations of the Dr. George Strayer report, which cost the board $100,000. He agreed, however, to the Taylor plan.

Mrs. Hefferan's Objections.

The school board room was crowded to the doors with teachers attracted by the Buehler plan of savings. Mrs. Hefferan, who opposed the Taylor program, said:

"We meet and meet and resolve and resolve—and get nowhere. In the last analysis the savings are those suggested by the Strayer report. Dr. Strayer said that if we could not get enough money, after making the savings he suggested, we should close the schools. He urged millions in savings in operation and maintenance of plant, but that subject has never been brought up in the board.

"Now comes a suggestion of a cut in salaries. The majority of the board has repeatedly opposed that idea. I prophesy that we will meet during the hot July evenings and finally accomplish little. We have wasted this afternoon.

"We will not find out the solution until we make the taxpayers conscious of their obligations. That can be accomplished by the closing of the schools. I do not propose to sit in meetings having as their objective the cutting of the teachers' salaries, while the teachers have not been paid for a year."

"We will never get on a sound financial basis," said Trustee Wallace Caldwell, "until we reduce expenses and get rid of our obsolete taxing system, which probably will collapse in a few months."

Offers Tax Cut Plan.

The discussion was started by Trustee Buehler's plan to reduce the tax levies. He suggested a way to trim the education expenses about $1,500,000, but had no plan to save the other $3,500,000 he recommended. His method of saving 10 million dollars in the building fund was to stop construction on buildings under contract, as urged by the Strayer report, on which supplemental suggestions were submitted yesterday.

President Myers opposed the Buehler plan in two communications to the board. In one he asked consideration of recommended savings of several million which he proposed two weeks ago. In the other he urged that the trustees avoid reduction of the tax levies below the amount of tax anticipation warrants outstanding. For the educational fund, he said that the board was entitled to issue $3,560,000 in tax warrants for 1931, which is 60 per cent of the taxes levied for the educational fund. The board already has issued $30,000,000 in warrants for 1931.

In the building fund the board has issued $7,367,000 in warrants out of a total of $12,700,000 to which it is entitled. If the 1931 levies were reduced by the amounts suggested by Mr. Buehler, President Myers said, 60 per cent of the levies would be less than the tax warrants outstanding.

Strayer Urges Savings.

In the supplemental report yesterday Dr. Strayer recommended $11,619,999 reduction in the expenses of the building fund. He would save nearly $7,488,600 on buildings under construction. Trustee Huehler supported this proposal.

"That is impossible," argued Trustee Savage. "We cannot repudiate contracts already made."

"We cannot repudiate valid contracts," interposed Trustee Taylor. Attorney Roy D. Keehn, representing 180 contractors, said that they were willing to coöperate with the board.

"They have valid contrasts," said Mr. Keehn. "To attempt to abrogate them will only invite lawsuits. But the contractors are willing to sit down with the board and play the game fairly. Some are willing to cancel their contracts upon getting fair treatment, others are willing to sell their contracts if paid for the work done, and others are willing to adjust their claims with the board on the work and material furnished."

Gloomy on Banks' Attitude.

Trustee Hemingway presented a dark picture of the attitude of the banks toward the board. Trustee English said that it is of "prime importance that the board discharge its obligations and pay its employés as well as its contractors." He added: "Everything that is humanly possible should be done to obtain cash for our obligations and avoid cuts in compensation."

The gallery applauded vigorously.

OPERATED ON

GEORGE E. Q. JOHNSON.

United States District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson yesterday underwent an operation for the removal of gallstones in the Roseland Community hospital. Hospital authorities reported that he was "resting well" late yesterday. The operation was ordered and performed by Dr. Yngve Joranson after District Attorney Johnson became ill in his office on Tuesday afternoon.

Bandit Slugs Clothing Merchant in Store

Nathan Block, 70 years old, 1616 Juneway terrace, was in a serious condition at the St. Francis hospital, Evanston, last night, after his skull and jaw had been fractured by a Negro bandit in Block's clothing store, 1631 Benson avenue, Evanston. The robber, after slugging Block, tore off his gold wrist watch and took $20 from the till. Just then Block's son, William, 19 years old, entered, and the Negro, who felled him also, took 85 cents from his pockets and escaped.

EXPLAINS HOW TO LIST PERSONAL GOODS FOR TAX

50% Penalty for Failure to File Schedule.

How to fill in a personal property schedule and remain a sane and honest citizen was explained yesterday by H. G. Bollman, head of the personal property division under Assessor J. L. Jacobs. The instructions were compiled with a view to answering questions most frequently asked by the throngs of citizens seeking aid in the assessor's office.

H. G. BOLLMAN.

Schedules must be returned within ten days of the date stamped on the face of the documents. Return may be made by mail to the assessor's office. In country town areas the return must be made to the township assessor. If the schedule is not returned the assessor will list the property of the delinquent to the best of his knowledge and add a penalty of 50 per cent on such value.

All schedules must be sworn to before the assessor, a deputy assessor, or a notary. If a person refuses to swear to the schedule he may be fined not less than $100 nor more than $5,000. If a person willfully swears falsely in any material matter he may be punished for perjury.

On Valuation of Furniture.

The question most frequently asked was how a fair value of furniture might be determined. Mr. Bollman said that 33 1-3 per cent of the purchase price might be deducted as soon as the furniture left the store. In addition a depreciation of 10 per cent each year for five years is allowed and 5 per cent a year for the next five years.

The maximum of depreciation is reached in ten years, when, after the deduction of 33 1-3 per cent of the purchase price has been made, the property owner may take 75 per cent of the remaining value as the valuation on his furniture. The same rate applies to radios, pianos, organs, and other musical instruments. Radios are to be entered under the item of "Melodeons and Organs." The make of the radio should be entered.

The value of watches, clocks, safes, silverware, and jewelry is left to the owner to determine, as establishment of a standard is difficult. The item asking inclusion of all other personal property, paintings, and objects of art should be listed.

Automobiles are listed according to the schedule of depreciation on the face of the schedule, which follows closely the listing of the Automobile Blue Book.

Bank deposits, including money hoarded in safe deposit boxes, should be listed in full. Assessor Jacobs said that such money will be assessed at "a fair value to be determined by the assessor," indicating that the rate against this item will not be subject to the confiscation of interest at present tax rates. The same is to apply to bonds and stocks and credits. The interest on stocks and bonds exempt from taxation should be listed.

Items relating to capital stock of corporations, state and national banks apply only to such stock in organizations out of the state, as home corporations and banks pay capital stock assessments. The total amount of franchises, annuities, and royalties and patent rights should be entered. These are to be given a fair value by the assessor.

How to List Funds.

Mr. Bollman pointed out the obsolete items on the schedule were sources of revenue when it was compiled in 1872. The schedule is to be modernized next year. When the schedule was compiled, horses, cattle, and other live stock were abundant. At present the office will adjust the owner's value of these on data given by markets.

Many persons filled in bank deposits under "Moneys of banks, banker, broker, or stock jobber." These apply only to the persons named and others should make this return in the divisions immediately below.

The total of the items after the adjustment of credits and deductions constitutes the full fair cash value as estimated by the individual. This may be raised or lowered by the assessor in fixing a full value.

When the full value is determined, 37 per cent, the equalization factor, is applied to fix the assessed value. On the assessed value the tax is levied. The rate is approximately $6 per $100 of assessed value. A full valuation of $1,000 would be assessed at $370 and bring approximately $22 in taxes.

DRINKS POISON IN HOME.

HUTTON SURRENDERS TEAR GAS GUN WHEN HE APPEARS AT TRIAL

Los Angeles, Cal., July 5.—[Special.]—David L. Hutton was forced to surrender a tear gas gun when he entered the courtroom for today's session of Miss Myrtle St. Pierre's $200,000 suit against him. The 240 pound husband of the Rev. Aimee Semple McPherson said he had packed the weapon ever since he married the evangelist for use if some crank or crook should try to molest or kidnap her.

Today was rebuttal day for Miss St. Pierre's side. Several witnesses testified they had been offered important money if they would testify for Mr. Hutton or at least not testify against him. Some mentioned casually $5,000.

Asked about the masses of flowers which women, said to have been anti-Hutton adherents of Angeles temple, gave to Miss St. Pierre at the courtroom door, Dave smiled sweetly and replied:

"They were wilted anyhow. But you should see my gifts, especially my automobile." The Associated Society of Massage Girls gave that to me." All the girls were in on it. It's baby blue and very becoming."

MRS. BAUR TELLS WOMEN TO KNOW PRECINCT FIRST

A "back to the precinct" movement for women was suggested yesterday by speakers at a Woman's City club tea at 6 North Michigan avenue. The speakers were Mrs. Bertha Baur, Republican national committeewoman, and Mrs. George Bass, who heads the women's campaign for Roosevelt in Illinois.

MRS. BERTHA BAUR

"Unless you have power you're of no value in politics," Mrs. Baur told the women. "You can't have power unless you are able to help get out a full vote. The only way to do that is to know your precinct and get to work in it.

"The complaint against practical politics is old stuff. If you want to progress you've got to like your ward committeeman. And don't think he's not smart, because he is. Don't go to him and say your club wants him to do this and that. Go to him and humbly offer your services.

"Remember, a ward committeeman is the most powerful man in the precinct because he can give away the jobs. Everyone wants jobs.

Mrs. Baur said that in her opinion the highlights of the Republican convention was the "ease and smoothness" with which it was conducted, the speed with which it was concluded, and the renomination of Mr. Hoover.

Alluding to a statement by Mrs. Bass, she said: "Mrs. Bass said her candidate flew here in an airplane to save $100,000. I say he did it to save 100,000 votes."

Mrs. Bass in her discussion of the convention alluded to "the little group in the east who thought they could swing the whole west, showing that they hadn't gone very far beyond the time when New York used to think that west of Buffalo dwelt only Indians."

PLAN APPROVED FOR PAYING TAX IN INSTALLMENTS

County Board Acts to Ease Burden.

Payment of delinquent 1930 real estate taxes on the installment plan was approved yesterday by the county board. Formal action was deemed unnecessary when each commissioner voiced commendation of the plan of County Treasurer Joseph B. McDonough.

J. B. M'DONOUGH.

Under the plan 25 per cent of the tax bill is to be paid before July 25, the date when judgment will be asked against delinquents. Three similar payments are to be paid at 60 day intervals. The plan is devised to encourage tax payments, ease the penalty load on tax delinquents, and do away with property liens.

Judge to Approve Plan.

Thomas D. Nash, attorney for the treasurer, told the commissioners that County Judge Jarecki had given assurance that the penalty on delinquent taxes paid by installment will be cut 50 per cent, or to one-half on 1 per cent of the unpaid portion for each month's delay. The 1930 taxes were due June 1. Thus far only $109,366,909 out of $221,452,089 in real estate taxes levied for 1930 has been paid.

Judge Jarecki was also said to have given assurance he will prevent forfeiture to the state of homes and other real estate for nonpayment of taxes by granting continuances in his court to property owners who pay installments. County Attorney Hayden Bell said he would advise the court which owners have made payments as the cases are called for trial.

Cites Money in Closed Banks.

"People want to pay their taxes but haven't the full amount to do so," Attorney Nash said. "I know many who would be glad to pay 25 per cent now and the balance in three payments at 60 day intervals. Since the first of the year $60,000,000 has been tied up in closed banks. Undoubtedly a good portion of that money was intended for the payment of taxes.

"The installment plan will extend from now to January of 1933. It will clean up the 1930 bills before the 1931 bills go out March 15, 1933. The legislature has already provided that the 1931 bills can be paid in two installments. If the local governments are to exist the plan must be followed through because it will bring in the taxes over six months which cannot be collected immediately."

Wrangle Over Pay Plan.

The finance committee of the county board wrangled over the proposal of County Assessor J. L. Jacobs to pay salaries of his 110 employés in cash through sale of $89,000 in 1932 anticipation warrants. Attorney Paul H. Moore, secretary of the Strawn citizen's committee, said the committee has found a market for warrants to cover the assessors' office pay rolls for April, May, and June.

Michael O'Connor, clerk of the county board, informed the board that when the 1932 budget was passed it included a resolution permitting any employé to take his salary in tax warrants. Under the resolution, he said, the assessor's employés could demand the warrants and find a market for them. The demand could not be made until the pay rolls were approved, he added.

The board refused to approve the pay rolls for the assessor's office for May and June because the salary rolls for the other departments have not yet been submitted. The roll for April was approved for all employés.

Woman Routs 3 Bogus Policemen with Gunfire

Mrs. Ollie Martin fired several shots and routed three men posing as policemen who pounded at the front door of her home at 2711 Haddon avenue early this morning. She told North avenue police one of the men staggered away as if wounded. The men demanded admittance, claiming to hold a warrant for the arrest of her husband, William, from whom she is separated. Certain they were imposters after they could produce no credentials, Mrs. Martin raised a front window and fired at them.

Ibanez spent a half hour with Davila, who served the former president as ambassador to the United States. Ibanez declared, however, that he does not intend to enter the government.

He ruled Chile for four years before he fled in July, 1931, after an uprising against him, and took refuge at Mendoza, Argentina, where he since has lived. Ibanez was succeeded as president by Juan Esteban Montero, who was ousted by the Davila revolution a month ago.

BALLET DANCER DROWNS SELF IN NIAGARA FALLS

Suicide Is Protest at Public Indifference.

New York, July 6.—[Special.]—Grieving, he said, at the low esteem into which the ballet has fallen, Nikolai Semenoff, Russian dancer, wrote a letter to his friend, Michael Fokine of 4 Riverside drive, saying he would commit suicide, and today is believed to have jumped into the Niagara river and to have been swept over the falls.

A man was seen to jump. His body was not immediately recovered, so that positive identification was impossible, but he registered from Cleveland, where Semenoff lived, and that was the way the dancer had said he would end his life.

Mr. Fokine received Semenoff's letter yesterday, and at once tried to get in touch with the dancer, also warning the police of Cleveland and of Niagara Falls. Today he received a message that a man who almost surely was Semenoff had gone over the falls to death.

Makes Letter Public.

Mr. Fokine made public a translation of part of the letter, which was in Russian. It said:

"I am ending my life by suicide because I cannot bear any longer the slander and persecution of the ballet. It may be that my jump into the Niagara falls will sufficiently disturb you and others to set back the self-inflated modernists.

"A greater charlatan article by Plain Dealer in Sept. 13, 1931, I have never seen, and that under the name of a prominent organization, 'The Institute of Music.' This will kill me.

"The most dreadful has happened under the auspices of the Museum of Art. It invited Doris Humphrey and she, in the midst of, under the guffaws and applause of the crowd, slandered and ridiculed the ballet. The time will come when this will be recollected with bitter shame.

"I would like to send you my kiss, but there is not much pleasure in a kiss from a dead man."

Jumped Into River.

The man who went over the falls jumped into the river from Table Rock at 12:20 a. m.

Two men, Harry A. Dooley of New York and E. C. Crouch of Cuyahoga Falls, O., witnessed the tragedy. On the bank near where the man went over the police found an overcoat with the label of a Paris clothier and a walking stick. Semenoff was found to have registered at the Temperance house in Niagara Falls yesterday.

For several years he had conducted a dancing studio in Cleveland. Both Semenoff and Fokine were famous in Russia before the revolution, and afterwards came here.

LIVES IN OAK PARK.

Doris Humphrey is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horace B. Humphrey, 1111 Erie street, Oak Park. Last month reports revealed the secret marriage of Miss Humphrey to Charles Francis Woodford, second officer of the steamship Monarch of the Bermuda line. Miss Humphrey, well known in the dancing profession, is now at the Perry Mansfield summer camp at Steamboat Springs, Colo. Her mother, Mrs. Julia Humphrey, asserted last night that her daughter's attitude on the ballet should not have influenced any action taken by Semenoff.

Last week Miss Humphrey assisted in staging and modernizing the ballet of the "1932 Stadium Opera," given in Cleveland by Lawrence A. Higgins.

WHITE DUCK CAP FAD SWEEPING NEW YORK AND 700 GET JOBS

New York, July 6.—[Special.]—The male population of New York and its environs has suddenly decided that white duck caps at 25 cents each are a bargain and as a result the local cap industry centered around lower Broadway is enjoying a boom unprecedented since the hatless fad gathered momentum.

Within a fortnight, when the idea was first conceived in the minds of two unemployed young men, the production of white duck caps has spurted from a few dozen a day to 6,000 dozen a day, or 30,000 dozen a week.

More than 700 workers in some fifty manufacturing plants here have been called back to work to meet the demand, and some 2,000 men, mostly unemployed or who previously devoted their talents to hawking apples on street corners, are engaged in selling the caps.

BRITAIN SENDS ITS "FINAL WORD" TO DE VALERA

[Copyright, 1932, By The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, July 6.—The house of commons tonight passed on second reading the bill empowering the British government to collect from the Irish Free State nearly $25,000,000 in land annuities and other payments by imposing duties up to 100 per cent on Irish exports to Britain. The vote was 321 to 41.

J. H. Thomas, secretary for dominions, told the house he is going the limit by offering President de Valera, in a dispatch now en route to Dublin, an opportunity to suggest the personnel of an arbitral court. Thomas said he will allow De Valera any variation from the outline of the court established at the imperial conference, as long as all the members are drawn from the British empire.

That, however, is De Valera's chief objection to arbitrating under the imperial plan. He demands that outsiders be included in the court, who would remove the weight of British opinion, which, he holds, will load the dice against him.

Building and Loan Official Found Shot; Cause Mystery

Michael Meldazis, 53 years old, secretary-treasurer of the Simano-Daukanto Building and Loan association, was found several hours after he had been shot in the head in his soft drink parlor at 2244 W. 23d place late yesterday. Lieut. Edward Collopy of the Marquette police was investigating last night as to whether Meldazis had shot himself or had been the victim of bandits. His wound is serious.

BEAUTY SWOONS AS JURY ACQUITS HER OF MURDER

Mrs. Barney Is Freed in Death of Lover.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 6.—Mrs. Elvira Dolores Barney, wife of an American cabaret singer and beautiful daughter of Sir John and Lady Mullens, was acquitted by a jury today of the murder of Thomas William Scott Stephen, her lover, who was shot to death in her London flat after an all night cocktail party May 31. The verdict was reached by the jury of ten men and two women after one hour and fifty-three minutes of deliberation in Old Bailey.

When the verdict was read the 26 year old beauty and self-confessed mistress of the slain son of a prominent financier collapsed.

The jury also acquitted Mrs. Barney on two other charges—one of manslaughter and another of intent to do Stephen bodily harm during a quarrel a few weeks before his death when she fired at him from her window.

Mother and Daughter Faint.

As both verdicts were read her mother screamed and then fell to the floor in a faint. Mrs. Barney stared straight at the judge. Uttering no sound, she swooned and was carried unconscious from the courtroom.

Outside of Old Bailey was a tremendous crowd, anxious to see the defendant.

After recovering consciousness Justice Humphreys warned her not to leave the building until the crowds had been cleared. Some time later Mrs. Barney left by a ruse. First the Mullens limousine moved away from the court escorted by police. In it were Sir John and Lady Mullens. A woman relative impersonated Mrs. Barney and set between the two. She was smoking a cigaret. As the crowd watched the automobile, Mrs. Barney and two of her lawyers departed in a taxicab.

"I'm glad it is over," Mrs. Barney said to reporters as she left. "I have no future plans."

The verdict substantiated the defense case, conducted by Sir Patrick Hastings, one of England's great trial lawyers, that the fatal shot was fired as Mrs. Barney and her lover were struggling for possession of her revolver, with which she had threatened to commit suicide.

Before the case closed, Justice Humphreys informed the jurors the defendant could not be convicted unless it was established that she fired the shot with intent to kill.

"There's not the smallest doubt that there was a struggle for this revolver," he said. "This woman is not to be convicted of murder unless it is proved that she fired the fatal shot intending at the time to kill the man at whom she was firing."

Third Day of Trial.

Today was the third day of the most sensational murder trial in England in a decade. Hastings in his speech to the jury declared that the evidence was not sufficient to "hang a cat."

"I do not ask for the benefit of a doubt," he said. "There is no doubt of Mrs. Barney's innocence. She adored the dead man. The only thing she wanted to do was to kiss him when he was dead. It was not nice of her to have to admit she had been living with this man, but you must not be unduly prejudiced by that."

He then referred to Mrs. Barney's marriage to John Barney, New York singer.

"She was tied to an American brute whom she could not divorce because the law of this land will not allow it."

Judge Sums Up Case.

Justice Humphreys summed up the case for the jury in two hours.

He declared it was a story of "two rather useless and wasted lives."

"These two people lived a life of passion and destruction in a sort of hysterical intimacy and with passionate quarrels between them," he went on. "But it was an affection based rather on sexual matters than any real and abiding love. I don't see how any one could doubt that there was a struggle."

The judge said that the cocktail party was an orderly one and was of no importance in the case.

The jury then retired and Mrs. Barney became so nervous medical attention was required. The verdict saved Mrs. Barney from possible hanging.

DENIES BRICK THROWING; FREED.

UTILITIES CHIEF SUES PAPER FOR MILLIONS MORE

Two New Cases Against Kansas City Star.

Kansas City, Mo., July 6.—(AP)—Henry L. Doherty, utilities magnate, filed two suits for a total of $42,000,000 today against the Kansas City Star alleging libel and conspiracy in connection with the newspaper's campaign for lower gas rates in Missouri and Kansas.

HENRY L. DOHERTY

George B. Longan, president of the Kansas City Star company, termed the actions "smoke screens" and said the Star was not concerned about them or threats of other suits.

Doherty asked $12,000,000 personally for alleged libel in a suit filed in District court at Topeka, Kas., the same amount named in a libel suit filed a year ago and pending at Kansas City.

Three Suits Total $54,000,000.

The Cities Service Gas company, of which he is president, sued for $30,000,000 in the Jackson county, Missouri, Circuit court, alleging conspiracy to injure its business. The three actions total $54,000,000.

"The Star has no doubt there is only one purpose, and that is to divert attention from the gas rate controversy which is now pending a decision in Kansas," Mr. Longan said. "These suits, in the Star's opinion, are smoke screens.

"The Star is interested in only one thing. That is an equitable gas rate, and the Star does not intend to be diverted from that issue by a side show which, in our opinion, this is."

Conspiracy Charged.

A conspiracy between the Star and "persons unknown to the plaintiff to injure and destroy the plaintiff's business" is alleged in the suit of the Cites Service Gas company, which also charges the Star influenced Gov. Harry Woodring of Kansas to refuse to enter an agreement on rates.

The newspaper further is accused of instigating action by officials of both Kansas and Missouri to harass the Doherty companies.

Gov. Woodring, who has been active in seeking lower rates for gas consumers, refused to comment.

Doherty's libel suit at Topeka cites six editorials and cartoons published by the Star, one article concerning management fees collected from Cities Service subsidiaries, from which Doherty denies he has profited personally.

Complains of White Article.

The petition also charged the Star had compared Doherty by inference to the pirate Capt. Kidd, and complained of an article by W. L. White, son of William Allen White, reprinted from the Emporia [Kas.] Gazette.

In a statement Doherty assailed the Star as an "industry wrecking newspaper."

Bismarck, N. D., July 6.—(AP)—Petitions for initiation of a constitutional amendment to repeal the North Dakota prohibition law were filed today with the secretary of state.

If the petitions are found sufficient the issue will be voted on at the November general election.

GRANDMA WINS

MRS. MABEL BASSETT.

BANDIT SUSPECTS ARRAIGNED.

James McAvoy, 25 years old, 6202 Vernon avenue, who was identified by three victims of gasoline filling station robberies, was held to the grand jury yesterday in bonds of $100,000 by Judge John J. Lupe. Harry Tulare, 49 years old, arrested with McAvoy, was held in bonds of $5,000.

A GRANDMOTHER FOE OF MURRAY PILES UP VOTES

She Leads Score of Men in Oklahoma Race.

Oklahoma City, Okla., July 6.—(AP)—A grandmother who campaigned as a vigorous foe of Gov. W. H. Murray tonight had outdistanced more than a score of men opponents in the race for the Democratic nomination for Oklahoma's new congressman at large.

Incomplete returns from yesterday's primary indicated Mrs. Mabel Bassett, state commissioner of charities and corrections, will enter the runoff primary July 26 against E. B. Howard of Tulsa, former First district representative.

With more than half of the precincts reported, she was 4,000 votes ahead of Howard and nearly 10,000 votes in front of Claude Weaver, former secretary to Gov. Murray.

Forced Into Runoff.

W. W. Hastings, veteran Democratic representative from the Second district, held only a slim lead over Alexander Johnston, Okmulgee oil man, in his fight for renomination. With 61 precincts out, Hastings had a lead of 673. He will be forced into a runoff with Johnston because of the vote given a third candidate.

J. C. [Jack] Walton of Oklahoma City, ousted from the governor's chair in 1923 after waging a bitter fight on the Ku Klux Klan, piled up a lead for the Democratic nomination for corporation commissioner. C. C. Childers, incumbent, held second place by a small margin over A. S. J. Shaw, former state auditor.

Murray Man Third.

The state's senior senator, Elmer Thomas, while polling nearly twice as many votes as Gomer Smith, Oklahoma City attorney, will face a runoff contest for renomination. R. M. McCool, former Democratic state chairman and approved by Gov. Murray for the office, was in third place.

Leading U. S. Stone, former congressman, and James Harris, former state Republican chairman, by a wide margin, Wirt Franklin of Ardmore, head of the Independent Oil Producers' association, had not polled enough votes to avoid a runoff contest in the Republican senatorial race.

E. W. Marland of Ponca City apparently was nominated for Eighth district congressman on the Democratic ticket. He will meet M. C. Garber, Republican incumbent, in the general election, the returns indicated. Garber was running three to one ahead of his only opponent.

Gov. Murray was silent when he was advised of the trend of the voting.

Boy Acts as Lookout in Robbery of Store

A boy about 12 years old acted as the "lookout" in a shoe store robbery at 4813 Armitage avenue yesterday. When Stanley Elven, son of the owner, wrapped up a pair of shoes for him, the boy waved a hand toward the doorway and a young man with a pistol entered at this signal. As Elven stood with his hands in the air, the boy took $30 from the cash register and fled with the armed man.

BORAH REJECTS DRY CROWN; HE AWAITS A CALL

Expects Demand from 'Moral Forces.'

can have the nomination if he will take it. But if Borah should leave them waiting at the church the prohibition party would have a ticket in the field anyway.

Borah's message was at length made known to the delegates in a report read by Dr. Clinton N. Howard, the "Little Giant" of Coldwater.

"The senator greatly appreciates the compliment which the convention confers upon him in its willingness to nominate him for President," it read. "He advises, however, that the convention do not make such nomination as such call should come, if at all, from a great united uprising of the people to be expressed at a subsequent convention to be called representing the united moral forces of the nation.

"It is our judgment that this convention should make its own nomination and let future developments determine the action of its nominees."

Half a dozen old time prohibitionists are before the convention as candidates for nomination, among them Dr. Colvin, Dr. Howard, and Frank S. Regan of Rockford, Ill., Dr. Howard, who has been regarded as a favorite, said tonight he would not accept if named, as his work is that of a lecturer. The delegates are to pick their ticket this morning.

For running mate for Borah, D. Leigh Colvin, national chairman spoke of Dan Moody, ex-governor of Texas, who was recently caught in the wet cyclone.

The platform adopted by the prohibition party convention, caused a lot of debate. Its liquor plank read:

"We unequivocally oppose the repeal or weakening of the eighteenth amendment or of the laws enacted thereunder and insist upon the strengthening of such laws. Being unanimously agreed upon the principle, having within our ranks no voters opposed thereto, this party, when placed in power by voters of like mind, can and will coordinate all the powers of government, federal, state, and local, strictly to enforce by adequate and unescapable punishment of all violators of this wise and beneficient law. Concurrently with such enforcement activities a comprehensive and constructive educational campaign will be conducted, stressing the evil effects of alcoholic beverages."

Officers of the Flying Squadron foundation, a pioneer organization in the prohibition movement, today issued a statement declaring that "it is to the interest of the prohibition cause" that President Hoover be re-elected.

Attack State Dry Act.

At the statehouse and at political headquarters wet legislators of both parties made ready to push in effort to repeal the Wright bone dry law, which was put on the books by the Anti-Saloon league and the Ku Klux Klan in the days when they held Indiana in a political dictatorship.

Several repealer bills have been prepared. Walter Stanton of Gary, a Democrat in the house, says he will introduce a repealer without delay. Senator James J. Nedi, Republican, of Whiting, one of the powerful members of the upper house, indicated his group will support the measure.

John F. Ryan, Democrat, of Terre Haute, chairman of the house committee on public morals, announced tonight a resolution will be introduced tomorrow memorializing congress to submit at once repeal of the eighteenth amendment to the state in conventions. He also will have a bill to repeal the Wright act.

CONCENTRATE ON ELECTING DRYS, DR. WILSON'S PLEA

Speaking in Evanston yesterday, Dr. Clarence True Wilson, secretary of the Board of Temperance, Prohibition, and Public Morals of the Methodist Episcopal church, advised drys to "concentrate between now and the fall on the electon of drys in both houses of congress and the state legislatures." He spoke before the world service commission of his denomination at its annual meeting in the North Shore hotel.

"Repeal of the eighteenth amendment," said Dr. Wilson, "requires in the first place, action by two-thirds majority in both houses of congress. If the drys are alert to their responsibilities and their opportunity in the coming campaign, it will be might difficult to find the necessary two-thirds majority."

Dr. Wilson and other dry leaders admitted that the proposal to submit the prohibition question to state conventions would raise dimculties, inasmuch as a member of a convention is "irresponsible," not having to face the consequences of his vote throughout a subsequent legislative career.

"We've spilled the beans"

in the smoker's interest

DO you inhale? "You've spilled the beans!" said the cigarette trade when first we asked this simple question—a question which long has been treated with silence that would "shame a Sphinx!"

Why? Wasn't the subject vital enough to pursue? Or, was there a hidden reason for the general avoidance of the question by others?

Do you inhale? Lucky Strike has chosen to raise this question . . . because certain impurities concealed in even the finest, mildest tobacco leaves are removed by Luckies' famous purifying process. Luckies created that process. Only Luckies have it!

Do you inhale? Of course you do—and so, in the smoker's interest, Luckies have not feared to "spill the beans."

BAIN'S PHYSICIAN AIDS STATE IN CONSPIRACY CASE

Dr. Buhlig Quizzed 2 Hrs. by Prosecutor.

Dr. Walter H. Buhlig, personal physician to John Bain and director in three of the twelve Bain banks, spent two hours on the witness stand yesterday afternoon telling Judge John M. O'Connor what he knew of the banking methods which left Bain and his associates owing depositors $4,500,000 when the Bain banks crashed a year ago.

Bain, who is on trial with his two sons and his son-in-law on conspiracy charges, teetered on a chair in a shadowy corner of the courtroom as the physician testified concerning transactions in the West Englewood Trust and Savings bank, Chicago Lawn State bank, and the Brainerd State bank, in which he was a director. Owing the banks $269,000 personally when they closed, Dr. Buhlig was indicted with the Bains, but obtained a severance, presumably in consideration for his willingness to testify for the state.

Obtains Unsecured Loans.

Prosecutor Edwin J. Raber first sought the reason for withdrawal of all but one of the Bain banks from the Chicago Clearing House association before the crash. Bain, Dr. Buhlig said, informed directors of the West Englewood bank that all of his banks except the Auburn Park Trust and Savings were quitting the clearing house "in order to save money."

"Was there anything said about the clearing house requesting the withdrawals because of the bad paper in the banks," Mr. Raber inquired. Dr. Buhlig could not recall.

Bain and the physician formed a partnership to obtain unsecured loans from the banks in which the physician was a director, Dr. Buhlig admitted, despite the rigid limitation the banking act places on the borrowing power of bank officers and directors. On one occasion, at Bain's request, Dr. Buhlig said, he obtained a $300,000 loan at the Chicago Lawn bank to erect a building at 62d street and Kedzie avenue, and capped that with an $80,000 loan to put up an annex known as the Buhlig building.

Doctor Gets Doubtful Stock.

The larger building, he said, subsequently was turned over to John Bain, Inc., a real estate syndicate, the physician receiving stock of John Bain, Inc., for his equity. This stock is now believed worthless.

While this transaction brought him a loss, another of similar nature brought him a quick and substantial profit, the physician went on. He purchased the property at 79th street and Evans avenue for $75,000, the doctor said, and a few weeks later sold it to the Chatham State bank for $109,000.

On two other properties in the vicinity, Normandy hall and Chatham towers, although holding only a small equity, Dr. Buhlig signed bond issues totaling $600,000, which issues were subsequently sold to small investors through the Bain bank bond departments. Mr. Raber contends that the bond issues were in excess of the actual value of the properties.

Makes Profit for Himself.

Herman Haaker, 3433 West 63d street, formerly a director of the West Lawn State bank, testified concerning the purchase by Bain of a lot at 63d street and Crawford avenue from Haaker's father-in-law for $50,000 cash, subject to a $100,000 mortgage.

Subsequently, he went on, Bain disposed of the property to a syndicate created by himself for $330,000, setting aside part of the property for a bank site at a price of $75,000. Crediting himself with a $51,600 profit on the transaction, Bain nevertheless neglected to meet the $100,000 mortgage and still owes the sum, the witness said.

ONE MAN SLAIN, ANOTHER SHOT IN BOOTLEGGER WAR

New Orleans, La., July 6.—[Special.]—James (Big Jim) Clark, former naval officer, alleged New York gunman, a bottlegger once connected with the I'm Alone, sunken rum runner, was shot through the heart and killed here today by Walton Tamplain, confessed bootlegger, and Clark's pal. Jerry Woods, also a bootlegger, was shot through the right hand in a bootleg feud of several months' standing.

The affray occurred on the front porch of Tamplain's residence, where Woods said he had gone with Clark to get Tamplain to furnish $1,800 bond for the release of a friend's boat seized by the government as a rum runner. Tamplain, according to Woods, owes him $10,000 in their liquor partnership, and when asked to pay Tamplain began firing.

On the other hand, Tamplain told police that he was alone at his desk when a knock came at the door. As he opened it, he said, Clark grabbed him, but he ran into the house, procured his revolver, and "when Clark and Woods again rushed him" he began firing.

A Negro maid told police that she and a brother of Tamplain were at home when the shooting began.

U. S. AUTHORIZES STEEL COMPANY TO FILL IN LAKE

Permission was granted the Inland Steel company by the war department yesterday to construct bulkheads and fill in Lake Michigan east of the entrance of the Indiana Harbor canal. Edward M. Adams of the company explained last night that about 301 acres of new land would be made eventually—a part of the company's expansion program.

The next step is to obtain permission from the state of Indiana to make the fill. Mr. Adams said use of the land will depend on business conditions.

The fill will necessitate the purchase of 1,903 feet of a breakwater. A bill now before congress authorizes the secretary of war to sell this portion of the breakwater to the company for $114,180.

Belleville, Ill., July 6.—(AP)—Because he allegedly sank his teeth in the forehead of Bernard Hutchings, a political rival, Highway Commissioner Frank Reinhardt of Centerville township today was under indictment for "assault with a deadly weapon."

MILLER'S TRIAL IN WAUKEGAN BANK CASE OPENS

Plot to Hide Insolvency Charged by State.

William H. Miller, a former vice president of the old National Bank of the Republic of Chicago, went to trial yesterday before Judge Edward D. Shurtleff in Waukegan on charges of conspiring with officials of the defunct Waukegan State bank to keep that institution open for months after it had become insolvent.

Richard Sherer, head bookkeeper at the Waukegan bank, was the first witness called by State's Attorney A. V. Smith. Over a period of 18 months prior to the closing of the bank in June, 1931, Sherer said he entered deposits totaling $1,250,000 on the Waukegan bank's books to the credit of the Chicago bank.

Deposits Aid Statements.

Each of these deposits, ranging in amount from $100,000 to $500,000, was entered a few days before the state auditor would issue his call for a quarterly bank statement and was withdrawn a few days after the Waukegan bank published its statement, the bookkeeper said. The last and largest of the deposits, amounting to $500,000, was entered on March 18, 1931, three months before the institution finally closed.

On June 17, 1931, the final day the bank transacted business, the witness said, Norman O. Geyer, then president of the bank, dispatched a messenger to the National Bank of the Republic, first with a satchel holding $24,000 cash and later with $40,000 in currency and checks.

Advised to Leave Savings.

Another witness, Charles F. Martin, attendant at the United States Veterans' hospital at North Chicago, testified that he placed his life savings of $1,900 in the Waukegan State bank early in 1931 and that later he asked Geyer's advice on withdrawing the sum for investment in a first mortgage. Geyer, he said, counseled him to leave the money in the bank until he could arrange to lend it out on better security, which he promised to do before June 18. When Martin called to complete the arrangements on that day he found the bank closed.

In the Cook county Criminal court, before Judge Philip L. Sullivan yesterday, Frank Flower, third of the Flower brothers indicted for their operation of the defunct Roosevelt Bankers' State bank, entered a guilty plea as had his brothers, Sam and Alexander.

Conspiracy charges against Louis Frank, former cashier of the bank who turned state's evidence, were dropped on motion of Prosecutor Wilkie Ham. The court granted Frank Flower sixty days to straighten out his affairs before imposing sentence.

RECEIVERS NAMED FOR THREE BANKS RECENTLY CLOSED

State Auditor Oscar Nelson appointed receivers and attorneys yesterday for three state banks recently closed.

J. M. Appel, banker, was named receiver for the Hubbard Woods Trust and Savings bank of Winnetka, closed Feb. 16 with listed resources of $305,696 and liabilities of $246,022. Marshall and Marshall were named attorneys.

Fred W. Allen, banker, was named receiver for the Papanek-Kovac State bank, 886 Milwaukee avenue. The bank was closed June 1 with listed resources of $621,269 and liabilities of $449,239. Paul Klenk was named attorney.

J. A. Schoeppel was named receiver for the Devon Trust and Savings bank, 6333 North Clark street, which closed June 18 with listed resources of $1,230,461 and liabilities of $936,871. Crowe, Gorman and Savage were appointed attorneys.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Creighton Orr, rape, sentenced to two years in Pontiac reformatory; James Simms, larceny, sentenced to one year in the Bridewell; Edwin Mellema, assault to rob, sentenced to one to fourteen years in the penitentiary; Paul Guetter, larceny, sentenced to one to ten years in Pontiac reformatory, and James Jones, robbery, sentenced to one year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Rudolph Desort.

Alleged Aid Accuses Alterie; State Closes Kidnaping Case

The state yesterday closed its case against Louis [Two Gun] Alterie, one time power in Chicago gangland, and Charles [Buster] Brown, on trial in the Criminal court of Judge John J. Prystalski on charges of kidnaping for ransom Edward Dobkin, alias "Shamus O'Brien." Gus Sanger, alleged accomplice of the kidnapers, who turned state's evidence, and Dobkin were the only witnesses called by the prosecution.

LOUIS ALTERIE.

Dobkin, who admitted being acquainted with Brown and knowing Alterie by sight, insisted he was unable to identify any of his kidnapers. Sanger testified Alterie and Brown had taken part in the seizing of Dobkin.

The testimony was started after a jury had been selected rapidly in the morning and qualified for the death penalty. Dobkin was called and told of the kidnaping on March 1, 1931. He was driving in La Salle street when his car was curbed by the kidnapers at Ohio street, Dobkin said. He was taken to a house and placed in a clothes closet while his abductors dickered with him for a suitable release price. The kidnapers asked $25,000. He held out for $2,500, and $8,000 was agreed upon, Dobkin said.

He was released with orders to get the money from a bank, Dobkin said. The kidnapers told him to place the money in two envelopes and pass it over his shoulder without turning when he was tapped on the shoulder. He did as instructed and heard no more of the case until the state's attorney sought him as a witness, Dobkin said.

Handles $15,000 a Day.

Dobkin said he was a race bet commission man and in good times had handled $50,000 a day. Now, he said, his transactions did not run more than $15,000 a day.

Sanger told of the arrangements for the seizure of Dobkin. He said John Pingera and William Thomas, now serving life terms for the kidnaping of Mrs. Georgia Gecht, and Alterie and Brown were members of the gang. He was first approached by Thomas and told to report at a north side hotel, from which Dobkin's garage could be watched.

When Dobkin drove out of the garage Sanger was told to go home by Pingera, who said there were too many in the gang, Sanger said.

Given $1,100 for Help.

After he reached home he received a telephone order to report at Alterie's office, Sanger said, and he then went to the office on Wabash avenue, which he believed was the office of the janitors' union. There, he said, Alterie called him into a private office and gave him a $1,000 and $100 bill.

Sanger admitted he has been indicted for embezzlement and automobile theft but said that both charges were dismissed.

DRAKES ARE SUED FOR $250,000 BY BROKERAGE FIRM

The declaration of Stein Alstrin & Co., a brokerage company, in their $250,000 suit against John B. and Tracy Drake, owners of the Drake and Blackstone hotels, was filed yesterday before Superior Judge Walter P. Steffen. The declaration, which alleged only that the money was owed, was filed by Attorney Robert Cantwell Jr. Attorney Vernon W. Foster demanded that a bill of particulars be filed.

"This is merely a case where two wealthy men played the market and lost," Attorney Cantwell said. "They failed to pay their losses."

"My clients don't know with just what they are charged," Attorney Foster stated. "We should have time to examine the charges and to reply."

COUNCIL VOTES ON MINIMUM RATE FOR WATER TODAY

Establishment of a minimum water rate of $6.12 a year for single homes and of $9.12 a year for all other premises is provided in an amendment to the water ordinance to be acted upon today by the city council. There are no minimum rates for meter service at present.

A. A. SPRAGUE.

The ordinance will apply to only about 2 per cent of the water consumers of the city, it was stated, being those who now use less water than that furnished for the new minimum charge. It will no increase the city's gross revenue in the water fund, the finance committee staff estimated. Commissioner of Public Works Sprague recommended the measure.

51 Cents a Month.

The new minimum is 51 cents a month for a one family house, for which the householder will receive 7,500 gallons of water, and will be charged at the regular rates for additional water used. For two flat and all other buildings, the minimum rate provided is 76 cents a month, for which the building will be furnished 11,250 gallons of water.

Another amendment to the water ordinance, to go before the council today, provides that householders who have meters installed now shall have the option for one year of paying for their water at the metered rate or at the old flat rate based on the frontage of their property.

The council will also receive the new franchise ordinance for the Chicago Tunnel company, which operates the merchandise tubed under the loop. A council committee reached agreement with tunnel company officials last week on the provisions of the ordinance.

Will Ask an Opinion.

Several aldermen said that they would ask legal opinions on one section of the ordinance, which they fear may cost the city, indirectly, millions of dollars.

That is the provision that the city shall pay the first $375,000 toward the cost of relocating the tunnels in the construction of the State street subway, and is obligated to other large payments for relocation in case the subway is extended.

The telephone company franchise adopted last year provides that the telephone company shall not be charged any greater proportion of the cost of relocating its lines in subway construction than that charged the Commonwealth Edison, Peoples Gas, street railway, or elevated companies.

Classified As a Railway.

It was pointed out that the tunnel company might be classified as a street railway company, and that if the $375,000 which the city is obligated to pay for relocating its properties was the whole cost of such relocation, that the telephone company might go into court and shift the whole burden of relocating its lines, estimated to cost $500,000 a mile, to the city.

The council also will be asked to pass an ordinance introduced by Ald. Thomas J. O'Grady [14th], tightening the restrictions on the sale of fireworks in Chicago.

The council committee on committees met yesterday to consider the committee appointments of Ald. Henry Sonnenschein [22d], elected to the unexpired term of the late Ald. Joseph Cepak. Ald. James B. Bowler [22d], chairman of the committee, said that no formal action was taken, but it was understood that Ald. Sonnenschein will receive the same committee appointments which Ald. Cepak held.

CROWE AND AIDS MOVE TO APPEAL GRAFT SENTENCE

The sanitary district conspiracy case was started on its way to the Appellate court yesterday with the filing of a voluminous bill of exceptions with Chief Justice Harry M. Fisher in the Criminal court.

The document contains 7,000 pages and includes 2,000 exhibits. It was filed in behalf of former President Timothy J. Crowe of the sanitary district, Frank J. Link, former trustee, both under sentence of from one to five years, and John T. Miller, once superintendent of permanent plants and structures, who was sentenced to six months in the Bridewell.

Judge Fisher granted a stay until Dec. 1 to give the state's attorney's office time to check the bill of exceptions.

BOHN SET FREE FEW MILES FROM ST. PAUL HOME

Think Kidnapers Got $5,000 Ransom.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 6.—(AP)—Haskell Bohn, St. Paul youth missing since last Thursday morning, walked into a farmhouse near Medicine Lake, near here, late tonight and said two men who had abducted him had released him from an automobile.

He said he wandered into a farmhouse and the farmer notified the sheriff's office here. Two officers brought him to Minneapolis and he was reunited with his father, Gebhard C. Bohn, St. Paul manufacturer.

Before releasing him, young Bohn said, the men had blindfolded him with bandages and tape, which he tore off a few minutes later.

Bohn told authorities he had no idea where he had been held prisoner, except that it was in a basement. The place, he said, was not very far from where he had been dropped off, because the kidnapers drove only about an hour before releasing him.

Uncertain as to Ransom.

Whether any ransom had been paid was uncertain, but young Bohn said that the conversation he overheard led him to believe that a deal satisfactory to his captors had been made. They had demanded $35,000 at first, and later $5,000.

While newspapermen and photographers waited at the courthouse after Bohn had been brought to headquarters, Bohn's father, and the latter's brother, William Bohn, arrived. The Bohns took Haskell and evaded the reporters by crawling through a window.

The ruse was discovered just as the Bohns were getting into an automobile outside.

Fight Photographers.

"I'll shoot the first man who tries to take a picture of us," said Mr. Bohn as their machine sped away.

The farmhouse at which Bohn appeared is the home of Leroy Delth, on the old Wayzata road, about a half mile from Schiebe's point, Medicine lake.

Delth immediately telephone authorities and radio cruiser cars were instructed to pick him up.

The youth was unshaven and his clothes disordered when he returned, but he said he had experienced little discomfort during his confinment. His captors, he said, had treated him well and supplied him with plenty of food.

Thinks Four in Gang.

Before releasing him, he said, the men gave him two $10 bills. Although he could not be certain, young Bohn said he thought the gang included four men.

Earlier in the day St. Paul police had gone to Crookston, in northwestern Minnesota, following a report that a man held here had "confessed," he and two other men had kidnaped Bohn and held him prisoner in a farmhouse near Emerson, Manitoba.

The man held gave the name of Jack Thompson, alias Roy White, of Tulsa, Okla., and he had been held on a petty larceny charge. Late tonight Thomas E. Dahill, St. Paul chief of police, after questioning Thompson, expressed the belief that he had had no connection with the Bohn case.

POSTOFFICE WILL REJECT LETTERS WITH 2c POSTAGE

Lueder Also Warns of Air Mail Increase.

The increase in postal rates will be enforced today and first class mail reaching the postoffice bearing only two cents postage, the old rate, will be returned to the sender, Postmaster Arthur C. Lueder announced yesterday. Chicagoans ignored the advance to three cents an ounce on first class mail yesterday and 30,000 letters reached the federal building bearing only two cents postage. They were marked "one cent due" and sent to their destination, but this practice will be discontinued today.

A. C. LUEDER. [De Gueldre Photo.]

Postmaster Lueder again warned the public yesterday that rates on air mail had also been boosted from 5 to 8 cents for the first ounce, and 15 cents for each additional ounce.

The demand for one cent stamps to add to the two cent stamp on letters yesterday brought the sale of the small denomination stamp to 1,700,000, more than 1,500,000 above the normal day's business. A total of 500,000 new three cent stamps were purchased yesterday.

With the increased postage there was talk yesterday of business houses shifting to the messenger service system of delivery statements and bills to customers instead of using the mails. Postal authorities said that a company would be within the law in using its own employés to distribute bills. The postal law, however, provides a fine of not more than $500 for persons jointly using private means of distribution.

HELD IN BONDS AFTER RAID.

Henry Leuhring, arrested yesterday when prohibition agents under Chief Investigator Eliot Ness raided a 3,000 gallon still at 1543 West 43d street, was held in bonds of $3,000 when he was arraigned before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker.

SCIENCE PICKS BEST CIGARETTE; OLD GOLD WINS FROM ALL RIVALS

75 TESTS ACCLAIM OLD GOLD COOLEST, EASIEST ON THROAT

"O. G.'s Finer Tobacco and its Freedom from Added Flavorings Make it a Definitely Cooler Cigarette," say Noted Authorities

"Conclusive evidence that Old Gold gives a cooler smoke . . . cooler than any of the three other leading cigarette brands . . . has been obtained through the most accurate heat-testing method known to Science," it has been announced by the New York Testing Laboratories.

"Seventy-five repeated tests of the four big brands confirmed this finding," G. Brinton Jack, Jr., Director of the Laboratories, asserted. Mr. Jack emphatically stated that the tests were initiated by the Laboratories solely as a matter of scientific research, and entirely without the participation of cigarette manufacturers.

"Accurate temperature records made of the smoke of each of the four cigarettes completed the proof that Old Gold is definitely cooler than the other brands," Mr. Jack asserted.

"It is not our province in this report to speculate on the reasons for Old Gold's cooler smoking qualities," Mr. Jack stated. "But we are told that Old Gold is a cigarette of the finest and purest tobacco quality . . . without artificial flavoring. This alone might well account for its coolness and mildness, since low grade tobacco, or tobacco containing oily flavorings, has a tendency to burn into hot and irritating fumes." He continued:

"These tests required eight months to complete. We purchased hundreds of cartons of the four leading brands through regular retail channels, and each brand was represented in each of the 75 tests. We employed the Oxygen Bomb Calorimeter, recognized by scientists throughout the world as the most accurate method of measuring the heat given off in the combustion of any organic substance."

Scientists of Two Leading Universities Check Tests That Prove Old Gold Best

Scientists of two leading Universities have checked the tests described on this page and their findings corroborated in every detail those of the New York Testing Laboratories.

Samples of each lot of cigarettes tested have been sealed in airtight bottles:

1. For scientists who may wish to check the tests.
2. To refer to in later years to see what effect the tests have had in improving other brands up to the Old Gold pure tobacco standard.

To any scientific or technical authority, the signed report of these two scientists will be sent on application to P. Lorillard Company, Inc., 119 West 40th St., New York City.

THE EVIDENCE OF SCIENCE

"This is to certify that in 75 repeated cool tests made of the 4 leading cigarette brands . . . measuring the heat content of each cigarette in B.T.Us. with the Oxygen Bomb Calorimeter, it was shown that:

Old Gold averages 112 B.T.Us. Cooler than Brand X
Old Gold averages 155 B.T.Us. Cooler than Brand Y
Old Gold averages 156 B.T.Us. Cooler than Brand Z

"To further verify Old Gold's coolness, the temperature (Fahrenheit) of the smoke of each cigarette brand was checked and Old Gold's smoke was found to be definitely cooler than the smoke of the other three brands."

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

THE HABIT OF LOOT.

President Hoover has threatened to veto the 2,100 million dollar emergency relief bill which was agreed upon by the conference committee of the two houses. Congressmen who conferred with him report that his objections are based upon the following points:

1. He opposes the grant of 325 million dollars for pork barrel public works.

2. He opposes the provision of the bill which authorizes the Reconstruction Finance corporation to lend money directly to individuals who have been refused credit by the banks.

3. And he believes that the 300 million dollars which has been set aside for emergency relief should be apportioned among the states in proportion to their need rather than in proportion to population. As the bill now stands, the 200 million is to be distributed among the states in ratio to their population and the remaining 100 million is to be distributed by the President at his discretion.

The relief bill, at best, is a dubious measure, an unfortunate if inevitable compromise between sound government policy and political expediency. The bill starts from the wholly false assumption that it is the duty of the federal government to support citizens in distress. But even starting from that assumption, it should be possible to draft a measure which, if not wholly acceptable, would at any rate extend a maximum of relief where it is needed with a minimum of expense to the taxpayers.

Congress has shown itself incapable of enacting such a bill. The reason is that congressmen have the habit of raiding the treasury and can't break the habit. They have for so long regarded the federal treasury as a perquisite of office that they cannot think of its being used in any other way. They talk much about the starving and the homeless, but when they set out to help these unfortunates the first thing they do is to assure that the money appropriated will first of all serve political ends.

Postoffice Jack Garner didn't get all the money he wanted to give the boys to distribute in their districts, but he did get 325 million dollars, which is a tidy sum in a presidential year. It will build a lot of unnecessary postoffices, and if carefully distributed can be made to deliver quite a few doubtful districts. It will do so little to relieve unemployment and distress as to be negligible; but that is typical of congressional relief bills. They are not intended, really, to relieve any one but the candidates for office and their friends.

The provision to permit the Reconstruction corporation to lend money directly to individuals who cannot obtain credit at the banks is off the same bolt of goods. The man who is unemployed isn't going to get any of that money. It will go to favored individuals and it will be regarded by them as government loans are commonly regarded, which is to say as gifts. Any one who knows the record of repayments on public reclamation projects, on seed loans, and on drought relief knows what chances the government has of ever getting much of its money repaid. Those who receive any of these proposed loans to individuals will regard them as payment for political services in the past or future and nothing more.

If any reader thinks that these fears are exaggerated let him examine the bill's proposal for apportioning relief to the destitute. It is a matter of common knowledge that the problem of destitution is primarily a problem of the cities. This bill, instead of recognizing that fact and providing for the distribution of the money to those who need it most, proposes to distribute 200 million dollars to the states directly in proportion to their populations and regardless of the need for relief. The result must be that many states can get more than they can properly use and other states will be able to borrow much less. Federal relief thus becomes another form of political patronage, and the sense of outrage at this scheme of distribution is heightened when it is remembered that it is precisely those states in which the greatest need is found that pay an overwhelming proportion of the federal government's revenues.

JAPAN AND NAVAL REDUCTION.

The Associated Press correspondent at Tokio reports that a foreign office spokesman says that instructions "equivalent to a flat rejection of the American proposal for reduction" have been sent the Japanese delegation at Geneva.

A few facts regarding naval developments since the Washington conference of 1922 throw some light on this action. Since that memorable occasion, at which the United States gave up the naval primacy that was then actually within her grasp and voluntarily canceled her ability to engage in any offensive naval operations in Asiatic waters by pledging herself not to develop naval bases there, the other naval powers have built or authorized funds to build as follows: France, 152 modern combatant ships; Japan, 126; Italy, 109; Great Britain, 96, and the United States, 36.

In 1936, at the expiration of the Washington treaties, the strength of their fleets in modern combatant ships will be: Japan, 156; France, 153; Italy, 115; Great Britain, 110, and the United States, 68. This will leave Japan 7 modern ships below the maximum allowed by the treaties; Great Britain, 80 below, and the United States, 118.

In other words, Japan will have nearly three times as many modern combatant ships as the United States.

The Japanese governments are as little likely to be deceived by diplomatic pronouncements as any in the world. Nowhere does our doctrine of "a navy second to none" or our untouched building plans make less impression than in Tokio. Japanese statesmen see very plainly that our acts do not match our words, and watching the actual course of events they observe that since 1922 our relative naval strength has steadily declined. Quite sensibly they are disposed to let this tendency proceed as long as it will and they will not favor any interruption of a process which is rapidly advancing Japan toward an unchallengeable domination of the Pacific.

MR. GARNER RUNS OUT.

Adjournment, in haste and dismay, saved the Democratic candidate for Vice President from colliding with the speaker of the house of representatives violently and with probabilities of great damage to each of them. The house of representatives was in session with the modification of the Volstead act in order. Mr. Garner, like one of the characters in the Marx Brothers, finds that some people are disposed to think he looks alike. In the speaker of the house of representatives they seem to identify the candidate for Vice President. Congressman Britten, for instance (a wet Republican would think of this mischief), recalls that Mr. Garner in one political personality was nominated on a platform demanding "immediate" passage of an act legalizing beer. In another political personality Mr. Garner never heard of it.

Such duality has not been unknown in Washington, but it never before occupied such high position. It has not been out on the house tops. There have been statesmen who had a dual personality enabling them to vote dry and keep on a friendly footing with the bootlegger, but the element of private choice entered this complication. It was combination of leisure pleasures and public duties.

Mr. Garner's duality is, however, political. As speaker of the house he can do more than any other man in congress to make good the promises which he as candidate for Vice President is expected to defend and promote. Not another man, big or little, in the Democratic party has the opportunity which Mr. Garner now has to submit proof that the Democrats in Chicago were speaking of things the Democratic party in Washington intended to execute.

It is true that Mr. Garner took his place on the Democratic ticket in consequence of a bargain which lacked much of the higher purpose. His fellows held out on the Roosevelt management until they had their price and when they had it Mr. Garner was on the ticket and Mr. McAdoo was headed for some future benefit. If congress had adjourned before the Democratic convention was held this bargain might have been satisfied without extraordinary embarrassment, but with congress in session and Mr. Garner presiding over a Democratic majority in the house his double personality became one of dynamite associating with a percussion cap and a hammer.

Mr. Garner may be assured that he does look alike. The man who accepted nomination on that "immediate" resolution is speaker of the house of representatives. There is a natural curiosity to know what he intends to do and there will be a continuing curiosity to know why he didn't.

MR. VINES THE AMATEUR.

Young Mr. Ellsworth Vines, who is bringing the Wimbledon tennis cup home to America, says he is thinking of turning professional.

That raises the question whether a man who is thinking of becoming a professional is not, for all practical purposes, a professional. The bar has been raised against professionals because the professional does not play for fun but to earn his living and his code of sportsmanship is supposed therefore to be of a different sort from the amateur's. The amateur who plays with a professional is in danger of becoming contaminated, or so, at least, the officials of the amateur federations pretend.

If Mr. Vines is thinking of becoming a professional, his play on the courts may reasonably be expected to reflect that fact. He will seek to build up as big a reputation as an amateur as he can in order to cash in on that reputation when he quits the tennis game for the tennis business. In an amateur tournament, then, he is as much a money player as he will ever be when he tours with Bill Tilden. Once the possibility of becoming a money player enters an amateur's mind, he is no longer an amateur because he can no longer play just for fun.

Nevertheless, the officials of amateur tennis will not fire Vines from the ranks. The reason they don't fire him is that they know their creed is bunk. No one good enough to play at Wimbledon is an amateur in the sense that he plays for fun. Mr. Vines takes his tennis at least as seriously as Mr. Ruth takes his baseball or Mr. Sharkey his boxing. He is as much a professional in mental attitude today as he will be should he decide to take cash payment for his appearances.

The distinction between amateurs and professionals comes down to this: The professional makes no secret of the fact that he gets paid; the amateur sometimes does. Unless it is dishonorable to make money it is difficult to see wherein the moral superiority of the amateur lies.

CHICAGO TAXES DRIBBLE IN.

[The Bloomington Pantagraph.]

The state treasurer of Illinois received a check for $100,000 the other day, it being a payment from Cook county of part of its delinquent taxes due the state.

That is a sizable piece of money, considered in the ordinary business transactions of a private corporation. But it is only a drop in the bucket for the state treasury, and about the same when compared with the amount of back taxes which Cook county still owes the state. Auditor Nelson estimated recently that at least thirty-three million dollars is overdue to the state from Cook county for 1930 taxes. No figures on the delinquent revenues for 1931 are given.

Chicago people are now paying their back taxes for the last three or four years in installments. Residents of other communities of the state have paid all their taxes up to 1932, or else have forfeited their property by tax sales.

TURN ABOUT.

"I see, Miss Smithers, that you have spelled 'receive' with 'ei' in one place and 'ie' in another."

"I'm sorry, sir. That was a slip. Which one shall I correct?"

"M'm—er, why, the one that's wrong, of course."—The Humorist.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

OH, YOU COCOS ISLAND!

And now they're denying they found the buried pirate treasure on Cocos island. And just when we were getting ready to start right out for Cocos island. In these days of falling stocks and bonds and financial nightmares every few minutes Cocos island fell on our ears like a soft and gentle benediction. There's a luring, tempting sound in the very words Cocos island. As we say Cocos island aloud we can see a vision of lonely palm trees nodding in the spice laden breeze and the blue ocean sends in long flume capped breakers to roll on the white coral sands. It wasn't so much that we wanted to dig down and find treasure chests full of pieces-of-eight and golden doubloons.

Even if we came back with our pockets full of pieces-of-eight and golden doubloons we'd probably have trouble with the street car conductor when we handed him one of the darned things and demanded change. No, it isn't the desire of wealth that lures us to Cocos island. The government would probably grab most of it for income tax anyhow, and the rest would go for three cent stamps and gasoline for the old bus. But Cocos island! Palm trees, white sand, blue ocean! And far, far away.

And no politics. And nobody running for President. And no vice presidential candidates to give us a pain in the neck. Just the nodding palms, a beautiful bulbul singing on a hoogloog tree to his mate and a far-off sullyglubber building his nest in the old chugwood tree. No unemployment, no hit-and-run drivers, no congress, no farm board, no 18th amendment. Just peace and quiet and the gentle murmur of old ocean. Oh, Cocos island, we would fly to you this moment only we haven't the money to buy a ticket, and, besides, we haven't the faintest idea where you are.

LIZETTE.

The stars besprinkle the skies, Lizette,
The roses are gemmed with dew,
But the light that shines in your eyes, Lizette,
For me is more tender and true.

The rose in your dusky hair, Lizette,
Glows deep, but it never can speak
To me like the radiant blush, Lizette,
Of the rose that mantles your cheek.

Deep in its petals there lies, Lizette,
The nectar the honey bee sips;
But, ah, how little he knows, Lizette,
Of the dew of your curving lips.

Though kingdoms may rise and fall, Lizette,
And war sound its wild alarms,
There's only one kingdom for me, Lizette—
The kingdom of your dear arms.

WILL F. GRIFFIN.

THE HIGHLY ESTEEMED DRYS in national convention in Indianapolis threaten to draft Bill Borah as the presidential nominee of a third party. But, shucks, if and when Bill gets in the new party he's liable to walk out on it. Mr. Borah's one notion of good, clean sport is to tell his own political party to go and take a jump in the ocean. And he doesn't care what party it is or what ocean.

AND JUST AS WE WERE FEELING HAPPY because the pictures of the delegates and the delegates' wives and the alternates and the alternates' wives and candidates and candidates' wives had faded out of the newspapers, dinged if we don't have to see pictures all over the place of Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton and David and Aimee's ma and Aimee's ma's husband, What-a-Man Hudson. Doggone, we just can't get any rest, nohow.

JUST A DREAM.

Though mine's the genus most composed
Of simple, dreamless eggs,
I dreamt a dream the other night
That all description begs:
Methought a movie actress posed
And did not cross her legs.

MANUFACTURERS' NEWSBOY.

TAMMANY wants Mr. Roosevelt to run for governor again this fall and Cactus Jack Garner has announced that regardless of his nomination for the vice presidency he will run again for congress down in Texas. Somehow it doesn't look as though the Democrats felt just absolutely certain of electing their national ticket in November.

WE WISH THE POETS could get some stamp money from the Reconstruction Finance corporation. This new three cent postage thing has hit them an awful wallop and while they are trying to meet it by inscribing their odes on postal cards they are obliged to write in such small letters it's almost impossible to read them. We are figuring yet on whether a postal card poem we got yesterday morning is a "Oh, love, how sweet thy kisses be," or a "Come, cold death, I fear thee not," thing. Something has got to be done about this.

UNMAILED LETTER.

I did not dream that in this perfect place,
A night could come, so dark and endless long,
That I could not remember your warm face
And consequential making of a song.

Long sang I, once, solely because of you—
And later when I heard you'd gone away,
I walked barefooted in the morning dew,
Became conversant with the new-cut hay.

And nature said: "When I have lost a love,
A May-brought tulip or a pansied spring,
I seek a new one. Then a free-winged dove
Brings me a message worth remembering."

And as you go . . . I draw near to myself,
Return this unmailed letter to the shelf.

AVOID SUNSTROKE.

If a person would escape sunstroke the most important requirement is that he avoid undue exposure to bright sunlight. If he would escape heat stroke the most important requirement is that he avoid becoming too hot, either because of making more heat than he can get rid of, or of exposing himself to extreme heat for too long.

Physicians try to make a distinction between these two conditions, but their success is unsatisfactory. Perhaps the safer plan is to throw the two into one group and say that to escape that form of shock which throws the heat regulatory apparatus out of working order one should avoid undue exposure to sunlight and heat, whatever its source.

Shattuck and Hilferty made a study of sunstroke and heatstroke in the United States and parts of Canada during the first thirty years of this century. Any one who reads the report of this study sees the need of better records of the effects of heat. The only reports we have relate to fatalities. In hot weather the newspaper stories ascribe deaths from many causes to heat, and physicians reading these stories fall in line and are very careless in writing in causes in the reports made to health departments. The study shows that the records vary enormously from year to year in the toll shown as due to heat. It is the very hot summers that push the rate up. In some summers there are almost no deaths charged to heat. About once every ten years there comes a season with a record about ten times the average. These years are the ones in which the weather is extra hot.

Humidity and rainfall seem to be minor factors. Nor do winds seem to be of importance, except as they increase heat. As an illustration, there is one city where the torrid weather is nearly always in connection with southwest winds maintained for several days without change.

Sunstroke and heatstroke are tending to become less fatal all the time. Another conclusion reached, in the study, is that clothing is a factor in sunstroke and heatstroke. Persons who dress wisely in hot weather are not in much danger.

Drinking alcoholic beverages is another factor. There is a general notion that black people are immune to stroke. This is not correct. The records show that, proportionate to population, they have more stroke than white people. This may be because they are more exposed—they work more in the bright sunlight and they hold the hotter jobs. British experience in India shows that where whites and Indians are exposed in the same measure the whites suffer more from heatstroke.

Babies and very young children are made more uncomfortable than adults, especially if cholera infantum is counted as a form of heatstroke. This is as we would expect, since babies have more skin for each pound of weight than adults have. But from early childhood, through youth, adolescence, and maturity, there is not much fatal heatstroke. As age advances the toll mounts. Babies and old persons should be especially protected against heat.

WARTS AND HEAD NOISES.

A. L. W. writes: It has been a long time since you have turned your guns on warts, and it has been more than half a century since I have had a personal interest in them. I have been so in the habit of thinking out my own problems that when a wart appeared on my finger I applied some plaster and made the slickest sort of a job of excavating, but it didn't stay excavated; came back bigger than before and a bit tender, probably due to overlap of the plaster. Being out of spunk water I crave a boon of science. Will you kindly?

With full realization that a single case proves nothing, let me explain how I cured head noises. I am one of the long leans you tell about, with fallen stomach and full cargo of ailments that do not amount to disease. I am totally deaf as to one ear from hardening of tissues, and from ruptured drum as to other. Have listened to much subjective crooning, and have had recurrent, pulsating disturbances accompanied by a tremolo that worried me a bit. My cure was not aimed at this particular misery, however. I realized that to avoid apoplexy and heart disease I must cease making so much blood; in other words, cut down my rations. I had an enormous appetite, was married to a wonderful cook, and had a perfect digestion. The job was no light one.

I don't know what I have done as to my chief objectives, but I have cleared up a list of minor symptoms as long as your arm. This sounds egotistical. Perhaps it is, but I overcame gluttony, restored a degree of normality of appetite, and my troubles left me—head noises with the rest.

REPLY.

I think you will need to have these warts burned off by your physician. He will probably use an electric spark.

You deserve to get rid of your warts for telling us how you got rid of your head noises.

SORE TONGUE.

K. T. writes: I had a sore tongue which lasted six months. After trying many treatments a surgeon removed a hardened patch on my tongue by the electric method. After that the soreness quickly stopped and I was well. My teeth and tonsils were all right. I have been well since, and that was seven years ago.

REPLY.

It is probable you had a patch of leucoplakia. These are generally attributed to smoking or ragged teeth. When neglected they often change to cancer. Cure generally follows a minor operation.

HAY FEVER.

J. J. G. writes:

1. My son has contracted hay fever. Will you please tell me the cause of it?

2. I am also troubled during the hot weather with small water blisters on my hands and feet. Is this caused by too much acid?

REPLY.

1. Hay fever is caused by pollen. As a rule tree pollen is the cause of spring hay fever, grass pollen of that which appears in the early summer, and weed pollen that of the late summer and autumn.

2. This disorder is known as pompholyx. Some cases are due to skin fungi, such as ringworm, and some to heat. Too much acid is not reckoned among the causes.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JULY 7, 1916.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—President Wilson took two definite steps to forestall criticism of the retention of the militia on the border doing the patrol duty of regular troops. The movement in congress for the recall of the guardsmen and the substitution therefor of regulars, described in THE TRIBUNE this morning, resulted in the following action: Secretary of War Baker instructed all army department commanders to discharge from further service all National Guardsmen having dependent families. Subsequently the war department called out the regular army reserves, consisting of between 4,000 and 5,000 former regulars, to fill the gaps in the new regiments created by the recently enacted army law. The first order applies to guardsmen who have reached the border and also to those who are on the way there or in the state mobilization camps preparing for departure.

MEXICO CITY.—Newspapers print dispatches from Washington saying that the United States government has definitely abandoned "the armed intervention which it had in project." Jubilation is expressed over the statements of Secretary Lansing, which are considered as favorable to a peaceful solution of the difficulties between Mexico and the United States.

LONDON.—The kaiser's determination to stifle the new British offensive and the equally determined efforts of the allied forces to hold the initiative have produced a temporary deadlock on the western front, none of the official statements today claiming any important advances. The situation is believed to be a lull before the storm which is to come with the next stage of the big battle.

CHICAGO.—John T. McCutcheon of THE TRIBUNE headed a list of 150 applications for instruction in aviation and enlistment in the First squadron, U. S. Central Aviation reserve, at the meeting of that organization in the Auditorium hotel.

PETROGRAD.—Nearly a half million Austrians and Germans have been put out of commission since Gen. Brussiloff began his great advance a month ago today. The war office announced the capture of more than 10,000 Teutons, of whom 5,000 were taken on the Dniester front. The success of Gen. Letchitzky's advance west of Kolomea, where he has cut the railroad into Hungary at Mikuliczyn, is emphasized as a new body blow to the Austrian defense of East Galicia. Northwest of Kolomea his troops are within ten miles of Nadwoma, well to the rear of the Austrian right flank facing Toropol, between the Stripa and Zlota Lipa rivers.

LONDON.—High tribute to the valor of the enemy is paid by Vice Admiral Sir John R. Jellicoe, commander in chief of the British home fleets, in his report to the admiralty on the naval battle off Jutland on May 31 between the British and German fleets. "The enemy fought with the gallantry we expected of him," the vice admiral's report reads.

Every Man's University

Questions and answers prepared by members of the faculty of the University of Chicago outline what they consider a well educated person ought to know. Today's instructor is Herman Schlesinger, professor of chemistry.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

What are acids, bases, and salts, and how are they interrelated?

YESTERDAY'S QUESTION.

ANSWER.

The numbers of molecules contained in ordinary quantities of material are so vast that they convey little meaning, and indirect representation is more significant. To remove the air molecules from a one quart jar at the rate of one billion molecules per second would take about 880,000 years. Solids and liquids, which are much more dense than air, contain even greater numbers of molecules per unit volume.

Molecules are not compact, but are built of atoms, and these in turn of electrons and protons, all with empty spaces between them. Hence, the diameter of a molecule must be interpreted to mean the diameter of that portion of space which, because of repulsion, no other molecule can occupy. In this sense the diameter of molecules roughly bears the same relation to that of a small pea as does the diameter of the pea to that of the sun.

THE LAW FORBIDS.

Chicago, July 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I would like to know if there is a law against taking wreaths from the cemeteries, cleaning them, and selling them back to the florists. I understand they should be burned up. What is the penalty, if any? E. R.

Chapter IX., entitled "Health," in the city code, paragraph 2,435, reads in part as follows: "It shall be unlawful for any person, firm, or corporation to sell, offer for sale, or to purchase or receive from any cemetery except for the purpose of destruction any wire or floral design, moss, or other substance used in filling the same, when such floral design, moss, or other substance has been once placed on or adjacent to the grave of any person buried in such cemetery."

PARKING.

Chicago, July 1.—[Friend of the People.]—What can be done about a man who spoils the appearance of our neighborhood by parking his trucks in the vacant lot nearby and drives across the pavement each morning? Our improvement club has failed in its efforts to have him removed. M. H. A.

The owner of the trucks was found and it was learned that he has the permission of the owner of the property to park his trucks there. He was informed that he was to use the alley when driving into this lot, and not to drive over the sidewalk, or he would suffer the consequences. He denied that he or his drivers used the sidewalk as alleged. He stated that there would be no further cause for complaint. Officers have been instructed to continue their observation here, and to take such action as is necessary in the event that any such promises are broken.

BARGES AND RAILROADS.

Chicago, June 11.—I was very much interested in your editorial of June 13, "Railroads as Barge Owners." Either your editorial writer is purposely withholding some of the facts in connection with barge line operation, or he is not familiar with all of the cost that would be incurred by a private corporation in operating river barges. One of the reasons the barges can now take business away from the railroad is that their rate is fixed at not more than 80 per cent of the rail rate. The federal government furnishes the capital for the purchase of equipment and, under the law, no taxes can be assessed on this property. In addition, the various municipalities on the rivers have built water terminals, or freighthouses, at the expense of the taxpayers, and then leased them to the government owned barge lines at a figure that pays only a small proportion of the interest on bonds.

Your editorial writer states correctly that under present laws the railroads are forbidden to operate these lines which parallel their rails, but even were those laws repealed and the railroads purchased the equipment now owned by the government [which is only duplicating existing adequate facilities], they would immediately have to increase their rates to earn interest on the investment and taxes that would be assessed by state or local authorities. When these expenditures are added to the present cost of government operation there would be no advantage to the railroad company, nor to the public, in purchasing these barge lines. I assume, of course, the government would continue to maintain the waterway. The facts are that the barge lines are not creating new business, but so far have largely taken away business from the railroads that could have been handled just as cheaply by the railroads had the barge lines not been subsidized by the federal government, which is admitted in your editorial.

If you had stopped after the second paragraph I would think it very fine, as the government is in the anomalous position of sustaining the credit of the railroads and at the same time undermining that credit through the construction of waterways, and congress is unwise in appropriating money for this purpose.

WEST PARK PAY.

Chicago, July 1.—The papers have stressed the predicaments of the teachers who have gone four or five months without pay while the west park employés have been desperately striving to exist for 11 months without any pay. We do not ask for pity, but do ask for some fairness. The teachers should consider themselves fortunate to have three months during the summer to get some employment that will at least pay their expenses and feed them. The teachers' scrip also brings in a fair cash exchange rat which will carry them through these times safely. But the west park employé is again helpless. Yes, they issue tax anticipation warrants, but we can ge only 50 cents on the dollar for them, and there is not a store or business concern in the entire city that will accept them. WEST PARK EMPLOYE.

850 OR 1,400?

Chicago, June 27.—What's the matter with your reporter? Is he blind in one eye or did he not learn to count when he went to school? There were between 1,400 and 1,500 people at the dry rally last night. He says 850. Still that's not so bad. It is more than a half truth and that's a high batting average on prohibition news in the wet press.

MARIE LARSON.

THE TEACHERS' INCOMES.

Chicago, June 27.—Why can't we have a clear statement of the Chicago school teachers' financial situation instead of so much misleading propaganda and pitiful stories of privation for the purpose of arousing perhaps undeserved sympathy? This is not an argument against paying the teachers. Common honesty requires that. But in an emergency like this one they are evidently putting themselves in a preferred class. Ten months is a school year and two school years is twenty months' work. The teachers' salaries are in arrears five months in that time and the average amount due each one is $1,500. Therefore they have been paid for fifteen months, or $4,500 each, or $2,250 apiece for two years.

Why are they sleeping in the parks or wearing newspapers in their shoes on that income? I can refer you to thousands of men with families to support whose incomes have not been one-half that amount who are bravely carrying on and whose plight never makes the front page.

Many of the teachers are single women with no dependents, many are married with husbands working, and in many cases there are several teachers in one family. I am just wondering why so many columns are devoted to the teachers while no attention is paid to the thousands of others who are worse off, with no job and no money coming in.

Do not the teachers' mouthpieces (union officials) know these are hard times for others also? Rents, clothing, and food have gone down at least 25 per cent in two years, which partly offsets their salary arrears.

HENRY O. LARSEN.

THE SCHOOL TEACHER—AND OTHERS.

Chicago, June 23.—May I use your column to thank Mr. Carey Orr for his dramatic cartoon in Monday's TRIBUNE? The only pity is that this solitary figure, weeping over her pitiable financial plight, is not only an argument to pay the instructors in our city schools but is also the argument by which the vast superstructure of administrative people get their salaries as well. When she is paid they also get their salaries by virtue of her pathetic appeal.

There is no question but that our educational system is as guilty of maintaining bureaucracies as our federal government is. There is our large army of superintendents of this thing and that thing; our directors of this department and of that department, and assistants to these directors, and our supervisors, and what not.

Time was, perhaps, when teachers were not as well educated as the heads of these various departments, but the chances are now that they have as many degrees and as much ability as the department heads, and the work, in large part, could be directed as well by committees of teachers. It would seem almost that the time has come when our schools should cease having costly efficiency experts, so much a part of the trades, and function more as our universities function. The talent among our university and college instructors is retained for instruction and not relegated to offices.

I wonder, in passing, just what kind of a plea a composite picture of all of these department heads would make in a cartoon, even under the artistic and appealing pen of Mr. Orr, and just what his sympathetic imagination, however inspired, could make of their plight before the long suffering taxpayers.

AUSTRALIAN LAW RUINS FARMERS' HOPE OF PROFITS

Government Lays Down Multitude of Rules.

Here is the fifth of a series of articles by Mr. Kinsley, who was sent by The Tribune to get an American observer's viewpoint of conditions in Australia. Another article will appear tomorrow.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BRISBANE, Australia, June 18.—[By mail.]—Brisbane is a lordly and cultured city, resting on the banks of a wide river that takes deep traffic from the sea, much as London spins its web on the Thames. It may one day be the seat of millions, as its residents hope, but it has lost population during the last year, while the rest of the state has gained due to the restless movement of workers north into the tropic belt.

But the city is all, save a handful, scattered over this vast gray land that stretches out to the westward, the sheep land, the cattle stations, the Darling Downs, where the wheat grows, the fruit belt and the forest. Further westward for hundreds of miles is the desert and more mountains, with its call to adventure and pioneers. Airways go out west and railroads tap it, but it will be many generations before white Australia fills this wilderness, if ever. To the north is the golden fruit and sugar belt and the coral seas calling to pleasure and sport and idleness in winter warmth.

Farmers Avoid Many Laws.

Rattling along on this western line, talking with farmers and herders, one gets a different view of this county than that obtained in the city, with its noisy streets, its long suburbs of bungalows built on stilts, where poinsettia trees flame in green yards and boys run barefoot in these fall days. A different view from that of the loafing race track men, with their long noses and shrewd faces, who sit around the hotel lobbies waiting for their day at the track.

The farmers have a hard problem, and they, too, are largely dependent upon the government. The tariff and government bounties and bonuses mean all to them. At the price they have to pay for labor, under state awards, they could not compete with the world.

"The government is in everything and has a law for everything, but you find that you do not have to obey all the laws," said an English-Canadian farmer who has been here ten years.

Producers' Prices Slashed.

"I went into the dairying business once, and found after a year that I was supposed to register my cattle every year and that I had to have things built just so in the barns; so many cubic feet for each cow, etc. It would have ruined me to comply. So I asked an old Scotch farmer, and he said just not to register. So I didn't, and nothing happened.

"The government led me into the tobacco business and put up a big excise tax on foreign tobacco. I spent three hundred pounds in putting up barns. By that time the government found its income being cut so seriously by the people all turning to smoke Australian tobacco because of its cheaper price that they cut the price, and now I will be lucky if I make expenses and I may not be able to sell my tobacco at all.

"I thought I was in a mad house when I first came here. The government settled all the prices and wages and the unions were top dog. A union man was not only as good as you—he was better. He owned the railroads, for instance, and still does. They get what wages they ask and three weeks' vacation a year with free passes for themselves and families to go anywhere they want.

Good Day's Work Draws Fine.

"Industry is regulated to the lowest pitch. If a man is a car washer, that is all he can do. If a man is a bottle washer, he cannot put caps on bottles. I was in court one day when a pattern maker was called in any fined because he had made 14 patterns in one day when he was only supposed to make 12. He said he could not make less than 14 and keep busy, but they fined him just the same.

"The other day several officials and inspectors traveled 300 miles to sit in a case to decide whether a young laborer should be fined for taking half a day off for the races without leave. This spirit enters into everything. I had to go to town the other day on tobacco business and it took me all day with government officials to do business that should have been done in ten minutes. They were in no hurry and stopped to yarn and have tea and all sorts of puttering things."

MARRIED 50 YEARS

MR. AND MRS. JOHN REICHEL.
[H. A. Atwell Photo.]

BROKER JAILED AS EMBEZZLER; DROP CASE LATER

Harry Paul, 46 years old, a grain broker living at 708 Hidgewood drive, Highland Park, was arrested yesterday and spent the day in the Lake county jail at Waukegan charged with the embezzlement of $7,150 from the East Skokie drainage district. The charge against him was dismissed late in the afternoon.

Paul was treasurer of the drainage district until a few months ago. The alleged embezzlement was discovered in an audit of the district's books, and William F. Plange of Deerfield, president of the drainage board, signed the complaint against him.

The case was taken before Justice of the Peace Harry Hoyt at Waukegan, who held Paul in bonds of $14,000. Later in the day he dismissed the charge at the request of Attorney Bernard Decker, representing the drainage board. Decker said that Paul had admitted the embezzlement, saying that he had lost the money. The case was dropped when he made a property assignment and promised to restore the funds on the installment plan, Decker said.

Woman's $50,000 Love Suit Ends; Settlement Reported

The suit in which Miss Clara Rehn, 3908 Dakin street, asked $50,000 of Arthur Pedersen, 5826 Glenwood avenue, on a charge of breach of promise, was withdrawn yesterday before Judge Joseph B. David. It was understood the case had been settled, but J. J. Cook, Miss Rehn's lawyer, refused to confirm the report.

Wed in Germany

Mr. and Mrs. John Reichel will celebrate tonight the golden anniversary of their marriage at their home, 2517 N. Sawyer avenue. The couple were married 50 years ago, July 7, 1882, in Stammbach, Germany. Two years later they migrated to Chicago's west side where they have lived 48 years.

Both are 73 years of age. They have five living children, all of Chicago: Mrs. Walter E. Olson, 3726 Sheridan road, wife of the president of the Olson Rug company; Mrs. Adam Wiedow, 4443 North Tripp avenue; Mrs. William Niehaus, 1723 Rascher avenue; Charles J. A. Reichel, 2912 North Cicero avenue, and Christian Reichel, 4620 North Kostner avenue.

40 EPISCOPALIANS OFF FOR CHURCH PARLEY AT TOKIO

A group of about 40 Episcopal clergymen and laymen, led by Bishop Francis M. Taitt of Pennsylvania, will leave Chicago tonight for Tokio, Japan, where an international conference of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew will be held late this month. Participating in the conference will be 200 Japanese, Chinese, Corean, and Manchurian churchmen.

The pilgrimage, planned by Prof. Paul Rusch of St. Paul university, Tokio, will tour the six dioceses that make up the Nippon Seikokwai, or Holy Catholic Church of Japan, which is virtually an autonomous church organized by the American Episcopal and Anglican churches. The party will return about Sept. 1.

SABATH REFUSES DIVORCE RULING IN FISHER SUITS

Superior Judge Joseph Sabath yesterday refused to rule on the divorce sought by Dr. George Carl Fisher, 7858 Kingston avenue, on grounds of adultery, or the cross bill for divorce on grounds of cruelty which was brought by his wife, Mrs. Miriam Chickering Fisher, 7020 Chappel avenue.

After attorneys for both parties concluded their arguments, Judge Sabath announced that he believed Dr. Fisher had condoned his wife's alleged adultery by his failure to file his divorce suit until four months later.

The judge instructed Attorneys Benjamin B. Davis for Dr. Fisher, and Charles Cooley, counsel for Mrs. Fisher, to prepare briefs on this point. He said he would make his ruling after he reads them.

ILLINOIS CROP PROSPECTS ARE REPORTED FINE

Much Corn Waist High; Some in Tassel.

BY PAUL POTTER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., July 6.—[Special.]—Almost ideal growing conditions for farm and garden crops are bringing a large degree of satisfaction to Illinois farmers these days. They report the best corn crop prospects since 1925, good soy bean and hay crops to repay them for two previous dry summers, and an almost normal amount of hogs, cattle, and sheep, which, taking the state as a whole, are being fed for marketing on a steadily rising market.

The old farm rule that "corn knee high by the Fourth of July will soon be laid by" is not applying to the immense fields of green foliage this week. Most of the crop is waist high, some of it as high as the farmers' shoulders, and a few fields were seen in full tassel in today's crop survey by THE TRIBUNE.

Rain Speeds Growth.

Early estimates places the corn crop at more than 355 million bushels, which is 58 million bushels more than the 1928 to 1930 average for the state. Intermittent rains in June and again this week have caused the crop to shoot from the rich black Illinois soil in a manner to please the entire countryside. In towns as well as farmsteads, the topic next to politics nowadays is the improved market for meat animals and the fine crop outlook.

Add but one discouraging note to this, however, as some localities report infestation of chinch bugs moving over from threshed wheat and barley fields to devour the marginal rows of corn. Farmers in these areas are busy digging earth trenches and pouring creosote into them to check the invasions, which are too small as yet to threaten serious damage.

Plan to Sell Wheat.

Small grains, except in the northern counties of the state, are already harvested or were yielding to the binder knives today. While grains still remain under the cloud of low prices due to government surpluses, farmers are planning to sell wheat for immediate cash, but feed all other crops possible to live stock.

Northern and central parts of the state have much better field crop and live stock prospects for the season, dryness and frosts killing much of the fruit and grain in Egypt. However, small berries and fresh vegetable crops covering an increasing acreage in southern Illinois, still found ready market demand. Of not the last importance is the area of fifteen hundred acres of cotton planted along the Ohio river.

CHAIN STORE RAIDED AT TERRE HAUTE; TWELVE ARRESTED

Terre Haute, Ind., July 6.—[Special.]—Several hundred persons visited a chain grocery in West Terre Haute Tuesday night following a meeting of unemployed and took a large amount of goods from the store. Twelve alleged members of the crowd were arrested and are held in county jail on charges of grand larceny and conspiracy to commit a felony. Vern Critchlow, manager of the store, and Harry McIntosh, an employé, were not harmed. The goods consisted of meat, canned goods, flour, sugar, crackers, coffee, bread, other foodstuffs and cigarets and tobacco.

4 MEN ARE DROWNED WHEN ILLINOIS RIVER COFFERDAM BREAKS

La Salle, Ill., July 6.—(AP)—Four workmen were drowned late today when an Illinois deep waterway dam on which they were working collapsed in the Illinois river.

The dead are W. O. Skipper, 23, of Chicago; W. E. Drake, 32, of Brainard, Ill.; William Llewelyn, 22, of Grayville, Ill., and I. M. Fairman of Baraboo, Wis. None of the bodies was recovered. The men were employed by the Bates & Rogers Construction company of Chicago.

Two other were injured. They are Frank Butler, 23, of Chicago, former football player at Tilden High school and at Notre Dame university, and Frank Trader, 23, of Dubois, Ill.

Engineers in charge of the work said they could not explain the cause of the cofferdam giving way. The structure was being built at the outskirts of La Salle at a point where the river is spanned by a bridge.

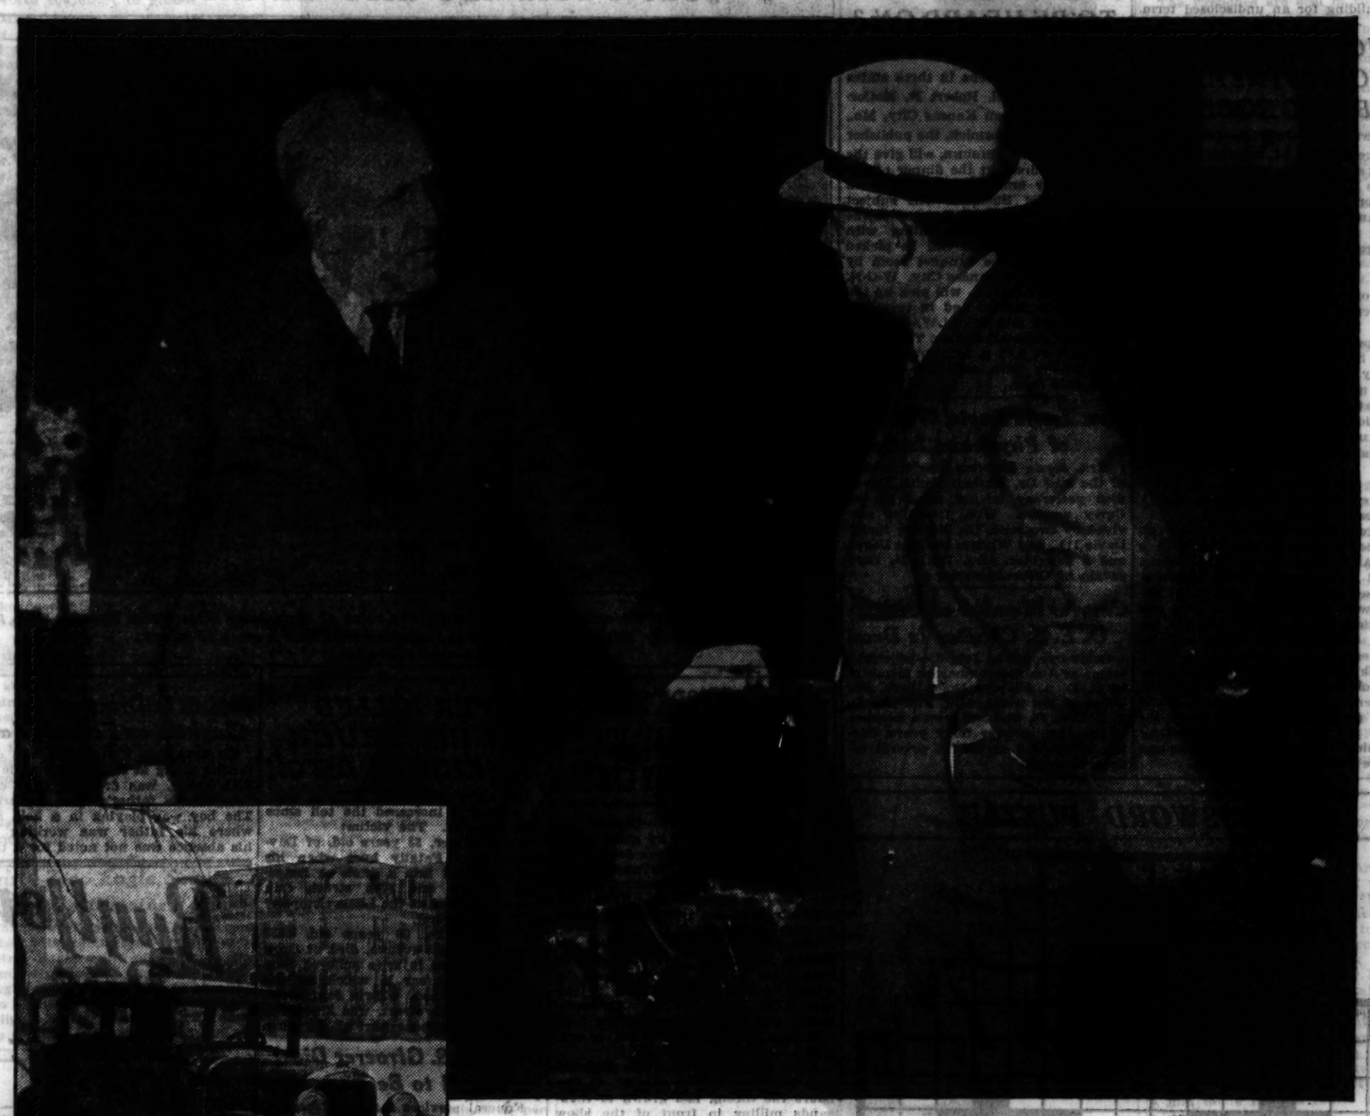
HE KNOWS what he's talking about!



"I've been looking at motors from the inside for many years and I have yet to find a motor properly cared for that wears out," said J. A. Bonell of 1206—3rd Street, Brookings, S. D.

An Interview by
ROBERT J. CASEY

J. A. Bonell of Brookings, S. D., is an authority on automotive engines. He stood by, watching with an appraising eye, while a service station attendant serviced his Studebaker car.

"Iso-Vis," he ordered. "I think I can take about two quarts more.

"I've been looking at motors from the inside out for many a year," he told the inquiring reporter a few minutes later as he drove his car through heavy going to demonstrate the smooth, powerful operation of the engine. "And I've come to the conclusion that lubrication is the last thing that will hurt them.

"This is a fair sample of the winters we get up here. But weather never bothers me any more as far as engine operation is concerned. The oil takes care of that for me. I have driven this car 43,000 miles with virtually no repair bill, and in spite of all I've heard about too much lubrication, no carbon. I had the head taken off at 40,000 miles because it seemed like the right thing to do and while it was off I had the repair man grind the valves for the same reason. He ground them in twenty minutes. Which is proof enough of my theory.

"The car gets plenty of hard usage. I drive to Minneapolis and back once every six weeks and last summer I went on a long tour East. I haven't yet found a motor properly cared for that wears out."

Mr. Bonell's 43,000 trouble-free miles prove again what Iso-Vis has demonstrated in laboratory tests and in A. A. A. tests on the Indianapolis Speedway—Positive Lubrication Protection. Iso-Vis (a Standard Oil product) will not thin out from dilution. See the Ball and Bottle Test at Standard Oil service stations and dealers.

STORE OFFICIAL'S WIDOW SUED FOR BILL OF $10,000

Receiver Lists Purchases of Mrs. Louise Stevens.

Mrs. Louise Stevens, 1412 Astor street, widow of Clyde G. Stevens, vice president of the State street store of Charles A. Stevens & Bros. until his death several years ago, was sued in Circuit court yesterday by the Chicago Title and Trust company, receivers for the store. Unpaid bills totaling $10,142 were charged against her.

The suit asked $15,000 and attorneys for the trust company explained the difference in the sums as representing interest at 5 per cent which might accrue before payment is made, in addition to court costs.

List Items Purchased.

Attached to the declaration of the suit were 70 pages of itemized purchases, showing each article allegedly bought but not paid for by Mrs. Stevens. The purchases were made between Nov. 1, 1929, and the date of the receivership, Feb. 2, 1932.

The price list disclosed pajamas at $85 and $57.50 a pair and underwear at $16.75 a suit. There were corsets at $49.50, hose by the dozen pairs, five and six hats at one purchase, eight pairs of gloves, and an ice tub at $9.50.

Husband Died in 1929.

Her husband, Clyde G. Stevens, was a son of John H. Stevens, one of the original members of the concern. He was the nephew of Charles A. Stevens and died Jan. 28, 1929, at the age of 47 years.

Mrs. Stevens operated the Stevens shop in the north end of the Stevens hotel for a time. Last March she signed a lease for a store on the first floor of the 700 North Michigan Avenue building for an undisclosed term.

TRIO SENTENCED FOR STREATOR BANK ROBBERY

Ottawa, Ill., July 6.—[Special.]—Clarence C. Goss, 34, Streator assistant police chief; George Kmetz, 39, Streator policeman, and Joe Casmano, former bootlegger, were today each sentenced to serve terms of from one to twenty years in the Illinois state penitentiary for the $52,000 robbery of the Union National bank at Streator. The trio all pleaded guilty to charges of robbery.

CLARENCE GOSS.

They and Frank Cingerani of Streator were to have gone on trial next Monday on indictments charging robbery with a gun. After sentences had been passed Russell O. Hanson, state's attorney dismissed indictments charging the three with robbery with a gun and with kidnaping T. E. McNamara, assistant cashier of the bank, and his daughter.

Chuck Tilden, Chicago cabaret owner; Jacob Pearson, and Louis Katzint, who were arrested as members of the robber gang, were released from the county jail here in a raid staged by five Chicago gunmen three weeks ago and are still at large.

MOB NEW YORK STORE TO GET ONE DAY JOBS; ELEVEN CUT BY GLASS

New York, July 6.—[Special.]—Eleven girls were cut by glass when a show window of a Bronx dress shop gave way today as 2,000 women and girls stormed the place seeking 40 one day jobs as saleswomen. None was seriously hurt, but two had to receive hospital treatment.

The jobs had been advertised by Kessler Bros., who were preparing to hold their annual one day sale in which 1,000 dresses are sold to the first 1,000 customers for $1 each. Irving and Murray Kessler, the firm members, said they intended to employ about 40 women.

Long before 7 o'clock the girls began forming in line. Inside of two hours the throng had grown to thousands milling in front of the show windows of the shop with its 50 foot windows.

The store was to be opened at 10 o'clock, but before that time the crowd's pushing thrust 11 girls against one of the plate glass windows, which gave way.

Two ambulances and a detail of police finally dispersed the women.

Wife in Court Today in Suit Against Waller

Mrs. Alice Miriam Hall Waller of Coronado Beach, Cal., will appear before Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude today in her divorce suit against Edward C. Waller Jr., who was one of the city real estate "experts" some years ago. Mrs. Waller charges that her husband deserted her on Nov. 1, 1929. Judge Trude recently held that Waller was a legal resident of Chicago and that the divorce could be filed here. The question of the alimony and support to be allowed under the decree will not be considered today, Judge Trude has indicated. He will refer this matter to a master in chancery for extended hearings on the ability of Waller to pay.

LEAGUE OPENS UP ARMS FOR TURKS; CHEERS KELLOGG

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, July 6.—Twelve years ago the Turks were bitterly arraigned on the floor of the league of nations as a lot of savages. Today a special assembly was held to invite them to join.

Former Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg, with about 20 members of the American disarmament delegation, stole the spotlight, however. The visit of the co-father of the peace pact of Paris caused great rejoicing.

The American delegation is exploiting Kellogg's presence here. They attempted to arrange an enormous dinner tonight at which the former secretary of state would urge the need of real disarmament.

Premier Edouard Herriot of France, Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain, and Chancellor Franz von Papen of Germany were held up at Lausanne, however.

Turkey Accepts Bid.

ISTANBUL, Turkey, July 6.—(AP)—An invitation to join the league of nations was accepted by Turkey at a special meeting of the national assembly today. It was received with enthusiasm and accepted by a majority vote.

RACKETEERS PREY ON FAMILIES OF DEAD PERSONS

A new racket which makes use of obituary notices in newspapers was revealed yesterday by Gordon Smith of the Better Business bureau.

The racketeers, according to Smith, obatin names from the notices and then hasten to the home, announcing that they have a package for the dead person. Told of the death, they express sympathy, then explain that the dead person had ordered a Bible from them. The victims, said Smith, frequently accept the book and pay an exorbitant C. O. D. charge—sometimes from $3 to $5 more than the Bible is worth.

Smith also warned housewives against paying express charges to bogus messenger or delivery boys on unexpected or unordered packages. Numerous complaints have been received of fake messengers purporting to represent the nonexistent "Interstate Express company." These messengers, according to complaints, make collections on boxes which are subsequently found to be empty.

Tale of Slayer Is New Novel by Vicki Baum

Introspective Life Subject Matter of Book.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Secret Sentence," by Vicki Baum. [Doubleday-Doran.] Published yesterday.

As remote as possible from the sweep and character of "Grand Hotel" is Vicki Baum's latest translated novel. Where "Grand Hotel" was a pageant of life illuminated only rarely by flashes into the inner consciousness of its characters, "Secret Sentence" is the story of a lone man and his introspective life. The other characters are drawn very sketchily and have life only as they vivify the main character. He is a young law student, fired by the belief that the cause of the intolerableness of life in Germany just after the war would be removed by the death of the prime minister. "Secret Sentence" is the story of his murder of the prime minister and the expiation of his crime.

VICKI BAUM.

Last year a novel called "The Hero," by Alfred Neumann, was published, likewise translated from the German. It was also the story of a young man who murdered the prime minister of his country and atoned for his crime. Until the expiation the characters in the two German novels are much alike.

The hero of "The Hero" goes mad slowly, but with tremendous impressiveness to the reader. The hero of "Secret Sentence" goes through incredible tortures of fear that he may be caught, lives on the lowest possible human scale, denies himself all human companionship, and finally, after thinking he had found asylum in an institution for the insane—as a gardener—is captured, but by a fluke of fate is given the chance to live, and makes of his life a peaceful, calm expiation. Of the two books "The Hero" is infinitely the more impressive and the more realistic. Vicki Baum's "Secret Sentence" seems something of a psychological stunt not entirely brought off by the author.

Obviously, the period immediately following the war is excellent fiction material—reconstruction in any country is difficult and pictures of it are intriguing to reader and writer alike. Germany offers especially rich fictional material to the writer. Vicki Baum has succeeded, it seems to me, only moderately well in drawing that picture in its most memorable details. She is at her best in drawing pictures, but she has not used her genius in "Secret Sentence." She is not a great psychological novelist, and the material of "Secret Sentence" demands infinite skill in that field.

It is not often that I mention book jackets, for they have no place in literary criticism, being ephemeral at best. But they do sometimes lead the reader so astray that one feels one must mention them. The dust jacket of "Secret Sentence" is as misleading a document as I have seen lately. It pictures a young man held to the breast of a beautiful young woman, his fingers caught in the chain which would serve as her shoulder strap if it hadn't fallen into disuse—the sort of picture which the movies have educated us to believe symbolizes the chains of passion. It might serve for a ballyhoo jacket for "Of Human Bondage," for instance, or a less important book on the bonds of sex.

The hero of "Secret Sentence" had only one love in his life—an almost silent one for a little German peasant girl (who certainly never could have looked like the gal on the jacket) and his only bondage in sex was a short one with an old, bizarre Russian dancer who belonged to the dame fatale school, certainly not to the beautiful young vamp class.

The reader will be extremely disappointed if he thinks that the jacket of "Secret Sentence" pictures its contents—which are as little concerned with love or sex as any book of the season.

Published today is a novel by a young gentleman who has been so well known in English literature for the last fifteen years that it is difficult to believe that he is at the moment only 24 years old. When he was not yet nineteen years of age Alec Waugh published a novel called "The Loom of Youth," which had a remarkable international success. Since then he has published nine novels (including the one issued today) and two very popular books of travel. "Hot Countries" and "Most Women." "Tropic Seed," today's contribution, combines travel and romance in a story of several generations of French émigrés on the island of Martinique. Through the line run a passion for adventure and playing for high stakes in love, life, and money inherited from a buccaneer ancestor. Admirers of Alec Waugh will find him at his most delightful in "Tropic Seed."

Crippled Children Go to Wisconsin Camp for Summer

More than 150 crippled children from 5 to 15 years old departed from the Union station yesterday on the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad for Burlington, Wis. They will spend the remainder of the summer at Brown's lake, three miles from Burlington.

The camp, which includes dispensary service, teaching, instruction in swimming and recreation, at which the children will vacation, is own by the Outing Association for Crippled Children, supported by individual subscriptions. It had its origin 32 years ago in a two weeks' outing at Ravinia for crippled children, sponsored by Mrs. Emma S. Haskell, president of the association.

The children were selected from pupils at the Spaulding and Yahn public schools and patients recommended by the social service departments of hospitals as those especially in need of sunlight and fresh air. They will remain at the camp until fall. Transportation was provided free, according to a custom of years, by the Milwaukee road.

Newest Dance Frocks Made for Glamour

Romance Gets Attention of Designers.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

INDEPENDENT, rebel, individualist, or whatever you try to be, have you listened to some of the masculine insinuations that a gal simply isn't properly provactive in the season's much discussed washable dance frocks? A bit of questioning divulged the information that the dancing males aren't so sold on gingham gowns, with emphasis on the gingham plaids.

Whether these scornful cavaliers are abusing the ginghams because it is the one material they are sure they know, or whether the plaids are too reminiscent of certain gingham clad pigtail nuisances of pre-dancing age, is a well cherished secret.

Their case sounds like this: After a day of business, after hours of fencing and fighting, surrounded by efficient office females appareled in practical frocks, they think they deserve a distinct change of scene. They want the same gals, but with a difference. They pathetically plead for glamour, romance and story book sirens garbed in all the glory of slinky satin and silks. And why not?

If you circumspectly plan your clothes to keep your man—and what girl doesn't?—you'll start looking for some good looking feminine fripperies to regain the romance you have lost. Just enough of some lovely new dresses have been unpacked to make it worth the effort to please.

Dance dresses so modestly priced that any summer clothes allowance will accommodate . . . some of the newest models matched with alluring little shoulder capes to hang lightly and thinly and picturesquely on the warmest summer nights.

A particularly clinging dance ensemble is made of thin silk crêpe with long, long lines that end in a modest swirl around the ankles. The back is cut with two cross-over straps; the front neckline is square, with two glittering brilliant clips to accent the square cut décolletage.

The climax is reached in the waist length cape that is edged with ostrich bands deep and wide, the most captivating and charming lure any fashion-wise dancer can wear. This new creation is frostily perfect in white—satisfyingly mysterious and slinky in black and a regular snare in a sublime shade of pink. Step out and take your choice and be the life of the next party!

Scarlet velvet sash ribbons that trail way down to the floor and tie grandly at the waistline make the smartest model of thick crinkled white mourning crêpe material—that new stuff that has just been successfully launched for summer. You have read lots about simple dresses, but this model is so simple in design and cut that its starkness will make you gasp; but the red velvet cash startles it into a wicked sophistication that will make any escort breathlessly attentive.

A black and white dotted chiffon worthy of special appreciation is made with yards and yards of material in the skirt and some more used lavishly to drape the bodice. So far it isn't unusual, but after you twist a tangerine and jade green sash around and then tuck a bouquet of gay nasturtiums in the sash you'll buy a frock of colorful distinction, a dance frock that will change a wilting, drooping wall flower into a dashing, daring dancer without a care in the world beyond captivating the stag line.

Introduces Fiance to Friends

MISS BETTY CROSSETT AND JOHN L. MOTHERSHEAD JR.

Brain Enough to Know Your Perfumes Well

Even Learned Gentlemen React to Their Charm.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

While the rest of the world is arguing about whose brains are keener—men's or women's—you steal a march on the debating sisters by sidling up to the perfume counter and stealing away with a ravishing new summer scent.

"Brains enough for any woman," say I, "to know her perfume stuff." Well, any way, brains enough for the occasion on which you've staked your heart.

I speak of comparative brain measurements because Cornell recently decided after an exhaustive study of male and female brains that women don't lag behind men when it comes to gray matter.

Just as if we girls care whose brain weighs more. It's the way it's used that matters. We've brain enough to know that. And we've brain enough to know that the great majority of women aren't as interested in competing with men as they are in competing with other women for favor in male eyes. Which brings us up to this perfume theme we adopted for today. Perfume is the one lure artfully done that gets the brainiest of them. A most learned gentleman once reproved his bountifully brained wife with: "Why can't you ever smell of something beside soap and water?" Replied she: "O. k. I'll stock up tomorrow!"

Summer time has certain little perfume rules of its own. No more should you wreath yourself in an aura of heavy perfume for wear under a summer moon than you would don your fur coat for the occasion. There are perfumes that are cold weather perfumes and there are strictly summer scents, classified broadly as simple light flower odors. Extracts that are as dainty as milady's crisp organdy.

Do a bit of scouting around the perfume counters. You'll find just the right and charming scent. And, happily, today you do not have to pay a million dollars for something that will tickle the senses, your own and the B. F.'s.

There are scents like lavender for the cool linen frock, fern for the pastel chiffon, and bouquet scents for other summer dresses. Just remember it's a summer girl you are fitting out in scent.

Olivet Institute May Be Forced to Close Outing Camp

Unless additional funds are obtained through contributions Olivet Institute camp, which has been maintained for the last ten summers at Lake Geneva for underprivileged children and their mothers, will close, it was announced yesterday by Evan Evans, chairman of the board of the north side social settlement which supports the camp.

Plans originally were made for caring for 1,000 mothers and children this year. The first contingent of 200 is ending its stay at the camp. No additional groups can be sent there unless aid is forthcoming, said Mr. Evans.

Thirty-five cents a day will support a child at camp. Fifty cents will support an adult, Mr. Evans said.

Betty Crossett and Fiance in City for Visit

Many Parties Will Be Given for Couple.

BY JUDITH CASS.

PRETTY Betty Crossett's Chicago friends are having a chance to meet her "young man" before she becomes Mrs. John L. Mothershead Jr., for Miss Crossett, Mr. Mothershead, and her grandmother, Mrs. James A. Rankin, arrived yesterday morning from Pasadena to spend a few days here en route to Wianno, Mass., where Miss Crossett's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Crossett, have a summer place, and where Betty is to become Mr. Mothershead's bride on Aug. 9.

The service is to be read in the garden of Lynwood, the Crossett place, by the Rev. Dr. Duncan Browne of Chicago. Attending the bride will be her two sisters, Mrs. Edward S. French and Miss Carolyn Crossett, and Morris Mothershead will come from Pasadena to be his brother's best man.

Last night Mr. and Mrs. French, who are spending the summer in the Crossett apartment at 1200 Lake Shore drive, gave a cocktail party for their sister and her fiancé, and tonight Miss Margaret Carr and her brother, Robert A. Carr, will entertain at dinner at the Tavern for Miss Crossett and Mr. Mothershead. There will be lots of other informal entertaining for the young couple before they leave with Mrs. Rankin Sunday evening for the east.

Mr. Mothershead and his bride will sail the day after the wedding to spend a year abroad.

The Frenches are still in the bride and groom class, the former Ruth Crossett having become the bride of young Mr. French on April 30 at the Chicago residence of her parents, Dr. Browne officiating. Their wedding had been planned to take place early this summer at Wianno but they decided to have it earlier before the Crossetts had opened their summer place, so it was held here instead.

Mrs. Crossett is opening her summer place tomorrow for a sale of the Chicago Woman's exchange, which also will hold a sale at the Sippican Tennis club in Marion, Mass., today and tomorrow. Mrs. Edward I. Cudahy and Mrs. Philip Reed, two Chicagoans who summer at Marion, will be in charge of the sale there.

Children's Horse Show Sunday.

I know where every one in Lake Forest who has a youngster will be next Sunday morning—at Misery Farm, where Libby Chase's riding classes will be having a horse show! And such a horse show it will be! Nobody over about 17 among the participants, and most of them much younger.

Miss Chase tells me there is to be an ice cream wagon and an organ grinder with a monkey as added attractions and that the program of events will start at 10:30 o'clock.

Some of the little tots who will ride are Phelps Swift, Johnny Templeton, Scotty Welles, Richard Taylor, Eddie Cudahy, "Sissy" and Joan Forgan, Vernon Armour, Dorr Carpenter, Bobby Welles, the Aldis twins, Peggy and Ruth, Betty Swift, the Austin Niblacks' son, the Russell Kelleys' son, and the junior William R. Odells' child.

Some of the older ones who will demonstrate their skill at jumping are Annie May Henry, Betty Mead, Kay Goodman, Shirley Hopkins, Bill Spalding, young "Phil" Armour and his cousin, young Lester, Philip Poole, the four Hughes boys, and "Sissy" Minotto, who will be here then from Santa Barbara where her family is spending the summer.

The picnic that Mrs. Richard Bentley is having for members of the Girl Scout committee working for the Monday night concerts to be held next season at Orchestra hall is today instead of tomorrow, as announced previously. The hour is 1 o'clock and the place is Mrs. Bentley's lovely home in Lake Forest at 1421 North Lake road.

Mrs. Robert C. Wheeler is departing tonight to join her daughter, Miss Winifred Wheeler, at Harbor Point, where they have a cottage for the summer. Mrs. Wheeler returned to town to meet her son, Robert T., who is just home from a round of visits in the east.

Miss Martha Fitts is spending this week with her sister, Mrs. John Hinton, at Fort Sheridan, while Lieut. Hinton is in camp. Miss Fitts has started a portrait of her mother, Mrs. Charles F. Fitts, now that she has finished one of her father, and although this week is a vacation for the busy young amateur portrait painter, she took her paints to Fort Sheridan with her for she thinks she may do some sketches of her three little nieces and nephews.

Lowdens to Go to Thousand Islands.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank O. Lowden are planning to go to Castle Rest, their estate in the Thousand Islands, the latter part of this month, and their daughters and their husbands, Dr. and Mrs. Phillip Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Albert F. Madlener Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. John B. Drake Jr., will all join them in Canada later in the summer.

The Drake youngsters are with their grandparents now at Siniissippi Farm at Oregon, Ill., and the Madleners and their children are at Lake Geneva.

William A. Bond of the Webster hotel has gone to visit his youngest daughter, Mrs. John Baxter, at her country place at Frankfort, Mich. Next month he will go east to visit another daughter, Mrs. Robert Massey of Philadelphia, at her country place on the sea shore.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Graf of 4830 Woodlawn avenue are not going west to their ranch this year, but will spend the balance of the summer at their cottage at Roaring Brook, near Harbor Springs, Mich. Miss Barbara Graf returned last week from a round of visits in the east after the Yale prom and went up to Charlevoix for the week-end. She will leave tomorrow with her family for Roaring Brook.

Mr. and Mrs. Carter H. Harrison will depart the latter part of next week for their Huron mountain lodge. They postponed their departure for the Democratic convention and now they're waiting to see their grand-

Hits Soviet Women for Copying Beauty Ideas of Capitalists

MOSCOW, July 6.—(AP)—In the matter of lipstick and similar decorative effects, the communist women of Russia are almost as bad as their capitalistic sisters of other lands, Beatrice Webb said today.

Mrs. Webb, 70 years old, British Socialist, is the wife of Sidney Webb, Lord Passfield. She gained her impressions about feminine beautifying in an eight week tour of Russia.

"The use of rouge, powder, and lipstick," she said, "is characteristic of a decadent capitalist civilization, a barbaric fashion practiced by primitive races."

She wants the government to ban the lipstick by official decree. And she is none too pleased with the dresses she saw young women wearing in a Caucasian resort. Too smart for good communists, she said.

I Like You So Much

BY MAY EDGINTON

SYNOPSIS.

Gold Franklyn calls Dr. Elverton, who has a surgery in a poor district of London, to attend her indolent young half brother. The doctor offers to give Barney Pierce, a well-to-do accident victim, a lift to his destination, and Pierce waits while the doctor makes his call. He catches a glimpse of the pretty young creature who summoned the doctor. Both men are impressed by the pluckiness of the orphan girl and take her troubles seriously to mind. The doctor is to sail the next week to New York and Havana on a leave, taking the ship doctor's place. Mrs. Doris Hathaway, a widow friend of Pierce's, is to sail on the same boat. She wants a maid-companion for the Atlantic crossing. Pierce calls on Doria, whose bills he has been paying for some months, to bid her adieu and farewell. Next morning the doctor calls on Gold. He tells her her brother should be made to stand on his own feet and sends her to see Mrs. Hathaway. Gold secures the job. Pierce reverts putting Gold under the demoralizing influence of Doria. He decides to sail himself. He comes across Gold standing forward on the boat, alone, at dark.

INSTALLMENT X.

SOME WOMEN PREFER RICH MEN.

After a pause Barney said, rather sardonically: "Ah, it is just a question of living a little longer, and selecting the thing worth feeling about. Which means rejecting most things."

"Don't tell me then!" said Gold.

"Why not?"

"I'll reject things for myself when I have to. If I have to. At present I don't reject anything."

She remembered Gip. Ah! but that wasn't rejection. She had only listened to the wise advice of a wise man against the turbulent softness of her heart. She added: "I've had too little yet to want to throw anything away. Perhaps you've had too much."

"Perhaps I have," said Barney Pierce slowly.

He looked at her profile, rapturous, dreaming.

"Too much means as much as one wants, doesn't it?" he asked.

"I don't know. I want to look at this sea. I can't have too much."

"You don't know life yet," he said meditatively.

They stood close together in silence, till he asked: "You are sure you don't mind my being here? I don't spoil the enjoyment?"

"But you couldn't!"

Barney Pierce thought: "I wish I could open my coat and ask her to take a wrap of it round herself." Then, almost as he thought it, she turned and said in a less abstracted voice:

"What were you thinking?"

"Shall I tell you?"

"That's what I asked."

"No, I am the most selfish fellow in creation. Please meet me—my name is Barney Pierce."

"Well, I was thinking that I wished it wasn't impossible for me to ask you to share this big coat. Because you aren't wrapped up enough."

"I've nothing with me thicker than this."

"And it's impossible to share mine?" He thought: "If I go back to my cabin and get another, she'd probably have vanished before I come back."

"I don't want it, really. It doesn't matter."

He got out of the coat and put it round her. "There. Have it all. I really am sensibly dressed. Men always are."

"And women never. I know all about that." She snuggled into the coat. "You're very good, but——"

"No, I'm the most selfish fellow in creation. Please meet me—my name is Barney Pierce."

"Mine is Gold Franklyn."

"You're traveling alone?" He wanted to hear the way she would speak of Doria.

"No. I'm with a rich woman——" she believed little of Doria's hard luck story; how could one, after that suite at Claridge's, those clothes, those flowers?—— "and I must soon be off to my duties. She will expect me."

"Ah. Yes." He had a wish—of which, after, he was faintly ashamed—to see if he could get a whine, or a bit of treachery, out of this girl. Knowing what her quarters were like, as compared with Doria's: "I hope you have a good cabin?" he said.

"Would it?"

"Well, you know it would, unless you're very discontented by nature. Do you travel very splendidly then?"

"As a matter of fact," said Barney, and paused. It had not occurred to him, such was his assumption of women's acquisitive outlook, that here was a girl who would readily and cheerfully make acquaintance with a man of most modest means. But though it would have pleased him to let her go on readily thinking thus of him, he knew that it would be impossible. There would be Doria. So he said:

"Well, as a matter of fact, I always travel in beastly luxury. They know me on this line, and I—I——" he paused, "I get every consideration."

She looked at him quickly, and guessed:

"You're rich?"

"That is a matter of opinion."

In a moment or two he asked a little mockingly:

"Why?"

"The company of a rich man is very soothing," she said; and laughed; and stroked the big coat. She was thinking of all the poor people she had known; how she only knew poor people; and how, brave as they might be, yet their unceasing perplexities, fears, and strivings wore their souls and bodies threadbare. She and Gip were far too young as yet thus to be worn threadbare, but the fears and dangers of sharp poverty had touched them wearyingly, nevertheless.

The soothing company of a rich man. . . . Yes, it would be just that—soothing. Like a lullaby. Then the rich man answered: "Most women prefer the company of rich men; you need not tell me, little girl," and his voice had an echo in it, metallic. As if her words, so careless and, if he only knew it, springing from a wistfulness entirely unacquisitive, had struck upon a hard spot, back came that clang of the impact.

In the growing darkness she felt rather than saw his smile of irony, and she resented it, in spite of his kindness and the coat which wrapped her warmly.

"I didn't say 'prefer.' I don't mind if a man is rich or poor."

"Don't you?"

Again she thought of Gip, and said: "So long as he is a man."

"I suppose you are laughing at me?" Her voice was quick but cold.

"I laugh at most things," he admitted.

"From your heights you can," said the girl.

"You look at it like that, do you? Olympian laughter, eh?"

"I see you feel like a god," she nodded.

He laughed again, persisting: "But do tell me your definition of a real honest-to-God man from your point of view."

"It's any woman's point of view."

"Perhaps you don't know your sex as well as you think. Well, what is it?"

"He must be strong. I don't mean physically." She considered for a moment again and thought of Elverton. Admiration cadenced her voice. "I know a man who looks tired to death; quite a frail looking man. But he is strong mentally and spiritually."

"How strong?"

"O, stronger than I am. Most women want a man to be stronger than they are—much stronger."

"What else?"

"A good soldier, eh? He must be a conqueror?"

"He need not be a conqueror. He might stay, quite obscure, in the ranks all his life."

"Would that satisfy a woman?"

"Yes."

"No," said Barney Pierce. He added: "I suggested that you didn't know your own sex very well."

Bread Can Be Served Down to Last Crumb

Not One Crust Eludes Thrifty Cook Today.

BY MARY MEADE.

HAVE you ever, with great economical fervor, resolved to be the smart housekeeper and, by using up every conceivable left-over, justify the purchase of that greatly desired new hat or tricky household gadget? If so—and show me the woman who hasn't—bread crusts, dried toast, left-over quick breads and rolls were among the first foods your economy campaign attacked. Everything, you decided, must be saved.

But stale bread—especially if you have a family of picnickers who cut crusts from sandwiches and donate the "heels" to the crumb box—stacks up most alarmingly, once we begin to hoard. And too often bread which has been saved thus for some vague future use is thrown out in the end because of spoilage or simply due to "its own too much."

Therefore the question this morning is—what to do with bread, crumbs, and crusts that are no longer fresh? And the tempting, palate tickling answers we have unearthed from our own files, old recipe books, and the scrap books of friends make me truly envy the woman with the generous crumb box.

For instance, one swift glance shows me an attractive display of bread puddings, custards, scallops, sauces, stuffings, omelets, fritters, croquettes, and even stale bread muffins, cakes and flapjacks. The possibilities are almost boundless, for after all bread is merely a quickly available form of flour, and has the advantage of being already cooked, leavened, flavored, and ready for use.

For convenience, plan to keep three different types of bread left-overs on tap. I find a jar for large pieces, another for stale bread from which the crusts have been removed, and a third for completely dried out crusts which have been run through the meat chopper, best fill the bill.

Often the large pieces come in handy for cream toast or even for French toast if they are not too dry. Soft, partly staled bread makes good binders for scalloped corn, tomato, potato and apple scallops, by simply soaking it in warm milk or other liquid and using it for thickening. Toasted, buttered bread cubes give a crunchy top to such scallops.

Eggplant, tomatoes, peppers, and onions, hungry for stuffings, also look to the bread jars for fillings. Many kind of griddle cakes, waffles, and steamed breads are improved by the use of bread crumbs substituted for part of the flour. Bread dishes, reinforced by nuts or peanut butter, make excellent meat substitutes and luncheon dishes. And a thousand uses turn up for finely ground crumbs when French fried foods are the order of the day.

The recipe that follows is an excellent user-up of not-so-fresh bread:

FRUIT-NUT BREAD PUDDING.

1 cup stewed raisins
1 cup pitted dates, cut in pieces
½ cup chopped nuts
4 cups toasted bread cubes
1 cup hot milk or cooking juice from raisins
6 rounds buttered bread.

Blend all ingredients except the last and turn into individual baking cups. Cover each pudding with a bread round, butter-side up, and bake in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.] about twenty-five minutes.

PEACH BETTY.

No. 2 can sliced peaches
2½ cups stale bread crumbs
1 cup sugar
¼ cup butter, melted

Butter a round baking dish and place in it a layer of peach slices. Sprinkle with a coating of crumbs, sugar, and butter. Make a second layer of peaches and more of the crumb mixture, alternating the layers until ingredients are used. Bake in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.] about three-quarters of an hour. Serve hot with cream or hard sauce.

Of course, there are many Betty variations. Cherry and pineapple make a luscious combination. Rhubarb and strawberry are simply mouth-watering.

¼ cup bacon fat
¾ cup molasses
½ teaspoon soda
½ cup chopped raisins or dates
¾ cup fine dry bread crumbs
1 cup pastry flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons ginger
½ teaspoon cinnamon

Pour the boiling water over the fat and stir in the molasses, bread crumbs, fruit, and seasonings. Add gradually the sifted flour, baking powder, and soda, and beat well. Turn into a large flat greased pan and bake about forty minutes in a moderate [350 degree F.] oven.

daughters, Lucy and Edith Harrison, who will arrive from Europe next Tuesday with their mother, Mrs. Carter Harrison Jr., after a year of study at Lausanne, Switzerland.

Notes of Travel, Summer Homes.

Stuyvesant Peabody Jr., the older of the Stuyvesant Peabodys' two sons, is to sail tomorrow on the Veendam for what used to be called a "grand tour" of Europe. He has bookings to tour nearly all of the continent.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Eldridge and their daughter, Miss Barbara Eldridge, opened their summer cottage at Roaring Brook last week-end.

Mrs. Sewell Avery and her children will leave today for the family summer place at Les Cheneaux Island. Mr. Avery, who is in New York on business, will join his family for brief visits later in the season.

Mrs. William F. Burrows Jr. has returned to Lake Forest from motoring her daughters, Peggy and Ruth, up to Washington Island, Wis., where they are attending the Mabel Katherine Pearse camp this summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Isham are at the Drake hotel for a few days' visit before continuing a trip across the continent to their Santa Barbara residence.

From the White mountains comes the news that Mrs. John J. Glessner, president of the White Mountain Garden club, is having the first meeting of the season at The Rocks, her Littleton estate, today, serving luncheon to the members.

Mrs. Glessner's lily pool is surrounded by a mass of purple and white iris just now, so our correspondent writes, and all along the wooded road between the estate and the four corners are Canterbury bells, honeysuckles, and lemon lilies, interspersed with flowering shrubs and ferns, against a background of lichen covered stone walls. The Glessner gardens are among the most famous in the White mountains.

Our correspondent adds that a downpour of rain on the Fourth dampened the ardor of golfers and horseback riders, but that the bridge enthusiasts welcomed it. That night the "bridgers" donned heavy coats and sallied out to watch the beacon fires on the crested ridges of the Presidential range and the display of fireworks on the summit of Mount Washington.

The Mount Washington hotel at Bretton Woods has opened for the season and already there are a few Chicagoans there. The Mount Washington is owned by the Princess Aymon de Faucigny Lucinge of Paris, the former Mrs. Joseph Stickney. Her first husband, noted coal baron, built the great hotel as his own monument, saying that he preferred leaving to his native state the most beautiful hotel he could build, rather than to have the finest mausoleum that could be constructed. The princess lands in New York this week, and will go very soon to the Mount Washington for the summer.

Banishes Song Group Custom, Wins Praise

Elaine De Sellem Offers New Arrangement.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

To Elaine De Sellem goes the credit for having designed as original a group of songs as has been heard in a full season. Appearing in Kimball hall yesterday afternoon, the Chicago mezzo-soprano banished the whole idea of song groups in the customary Italian, German, and French, with an aria or two thrown in for extra gorgeousness.

Instead she put together a group of songs in dance rhythm, and it was a refreshing change. It brought to hearing a minuet, and gigue, and a gavotte of the old dances, a tango and a waltz of the new. The tango was by Carlos Pedrell, given its first American performance here and turning out to be an agreeable tune. The waltz was an arrangement of the Spanish waltzes that Chabrier assembled and called "Espana."

This was the first of the American Conservatory of Music summer recitals, and Miss De Sellem's associate was Tomford Harris, pianist. He is an artist of distinction and power, a fact which permitted him to make a success of music which ordinarily belongs to the winter season. The Bach-Busoni Prelude and Triple Fugue in E flat, for example, is a work of uncommon avoirdupois. This was followed by a Chopin group, and later by some modern works by Szymanowski, Millhaud, and Necil Kasim. Incidentally, Miss De Sellem continued her services to novelty with a first performance of a song by Yejo Klipinen, an excerpt from "Johnny Spielt Auf," and the "Mona Liza" from Robinson's delectable and irreverent "Loose Lyrics of Lovely Ladies."

Whatever may happen to music this season, the idea of opera is not dead.

Innocence Not Inconsistent with Knowledge

Child's Questions Due Truthful Answer.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

"I don't believe in these correct answers to children's questions about where babies come from," repeatedly says a woman I know, who belongs to the generation preceding ours. "I think all this sex education, too, is terrible. They'll know all these unpleasant things soon enough.

"And, besides, I think it takes away something. It takes the bloom off youth. Children and boys and girls lose something when they know these things."

O, but they don't lose something. They gain.

It doesn't take the bloom off. It helps to preserve it.

But there are many women who feel this way. They think of the subject as unpleasant, of the body as something to be ashamed of, and are never quite natural within sound of the word "sex."

I myself wish we had some other word to describe all we mean by sex. So much secrecy and distortion have surrounded it that the word repels some people. But we have no other word, so we must use it.

And we must slough off some of the old ideas which are called modesty, but are really prudery. We must stop wrapping in cotton wool that something called innocence which is only ignorance.

Prudery and ignorance we do away with if we start at little childhood with these varied aspects of knowledge we call sex information. And true modesty and real innocence we preserve if we are frank and intelligent in answering our children's questions and later adding what they need to know on the subject of sex.

Any one who has babies and has gone with them step by step along this road looks with happiness and satisfaction at a task well done. The combination of naturalness and matter-of-factness, of respect and sometimes love, and of that sense of the miraculous which some aspects of life command, even to a child, is evidence of the wisdom of sex education.

If you want explanations of why these questions should be answered or how to answer them, our Sex Education booklet will help you. It will be sent on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Cast to Film 'Cavalcade' to Be All-British

British Writer Arrives to Arrange Story.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., July 6.—Capt. Reginald Theyne Berkeley, ex-member of parliament from Nottingham, England, is to arrive here next Tuesday to prepare for the screen treatment of the Noel Coward story, "Cavalcade," which Fox is filming with an all-British cast, staff, and British born director.

Berkeley is a playwright, author of "Eight O'Clock," "French Leave," "Mr. Abdullah," and other stage pieces.

Frank Lloyd, who was born in Glasgow, but who has been in America so long and so successfully that every one thinks of him as an American director, will direct the film version, though Lloyd's selection is something of an afterthought for the Fox company sent Frank Borzage, director, to London to familiarize himself with the stage presentation of "Cavalcade" on the understanding that he was to direct the filming.

Lee Tracy is cast to play the rôle of the mayor in Columbia's "The Night Mayor." Tracy flew here to take the part. Evalyn Knapp plays the feminine lead. Eugene Pallette plays the rotund German politican, Warren Hymer the hard looking Irish politician, and Donald Dillaway the reporter. This story was written by Sam Marx, scenario editor at M. G. M., and was bought by the rival studio.

Evalyn Knapp, by the way, has been placed under a five year contract with Columbia.

The short reel comedies, in which Mary Prevost and Raymond Hutton got their movie start, are providing the meal ticket again for these two troupers. In their case, however, they are playing in short reelers of more than ordinary importance, being part of the cast with Jimmy Gleason making the Warren Doane series at Universal. Vince Barnett, the professional insulter, is another member of the cast.

An item appearing in this column about the popularity of jungle stories made it appear, through an error in transmission, that M. G. M. was following up its "Tarzan" hit with a female Tarzan story in "Fury of the Jungle." It is the Columbia studio which is grooming the feminine Tartan.

Says Bing Crosby: "The way to become a successful singer, as I found it, was to study law. I saw there might be hard work, but no money, in the law business for me. More money and more fun singing, so I sing." He got his start at it as a singing trapdrummer in an orchestra composed mainly of college students in Spokane.

One of his law school friends, who also was in the orchestra as pianist, was Al Rinker, who now is pianist with Blanche Sweet's vaudeville act. Crosby says that if he ever loses his voice or his livelihood as a singer he will become a short story writer—another job without manual effort, which promises fun and money.

The Wisecracking Girl Often Minus a Masculine Ear

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"I just came back at him with a little wisecrack," Eileen confesses. "He went away mad after telling me he was sick of my company, anyway."

That's just an incident in Eileen's story—but enough on which to hang a moral about wisecracking.

If there ever was a time in the history of that overused word, DON'T, when its advisory gun could be turned to sure-fire use, it's when the temptation is on to give vent to a wisecrack.

From the lips of a young woman whose ambition is to live happily before and ever afterward, the wisecrack is about as amorously accepted as a clout over the head. Let those who must wisecrack, wisecrack little girls! But if you want to get to first base, strangle the desire. If you want to strike a homer—turn the slick-witted bit of repartee into a honeyed phrase.

If it's a reputation as a wit you're working for, that's something else again. Sharpen up the blithe and let the shafts fall where they may. Don't mind when you hurt so long as you get a laugh. But don't expect from your sharp tongued worshipers anything more than the laugh. That's all the wisecrack draws—nothing more.

Apropos, a story appearing in one of the magazines uses the wisecracking college girl as its theme. The girl became so adept with the nimble, smart-aleck phrase that a commonplace remark became impossible. It was a terrific strain to live up to a reputation like that. The stinger in it was that the sensitive-minded showed a distinct desire to keep far away from the girl, the usual fate of the too nimble-tongued sister. It's simply not an endearing quality and no amount of brilliance will ever make it one.

Well, the girl in the story was left cold in the middle of the dance floor. The young man had enough. Because it was a story it turned out O. K. but not before the smart sister was brought to her knees, figuratively speaking, and promised to forswear the delights of the fast swift comeback.

So, Eileen, you've had fact, not fiction, prove to you that as music to a boy friend's ears the wisecrack is a cross between a bad case of static and a loud, braying band.

Sally's Guests See Thrilling Movie Today

Film of Wild Animals Will Please.

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Here it is Thursday again, party day. And what a grand time we're going to have at the State-Lake theater this afternoon when we see Frank Buck's exciting picture, "Bring 'Em Back Alive." I hope you are prepared for a thrilling time with the lions, tigers, black panthers, leopards, and other beasts of the Malayan jungle who compose the cast of characters.

And it's an important day for the boys and girls who wrote letters to be invited to our party at Wrigley field a week from today when the Cubs meet the Brooklyn Dodgers. I shall select my guests this morning and their names will appear in next Sunday's TRIBUNE.

Aren't you anxious to see this major league ball game? Some of the best players in the country will perform for us on the north side diamond. Woody English, that splendid infielder . . . Stanley Hack, who is playing third base . . . Gabby Hartnett, whose long arm reaches into the air when those swift ones go flying over the plate. Johnny Moore and all the other Cubs stars will be there and playing as they've never played before.

With all this to look forward to, I don't wonder that you're growing impatient for Sunday and that list of winners to arrive. Well, don't fail to see the paper because with that list there will be news of another grand party.

Vionnet Fashions Chic Velveteen, Dotted Silk Ensemble for Jeune Fille

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Madeleine Vionnet has turned her genius to creating fashions for the 20 year olds. She put into her last collection of styles a number of ensembles designed for the jeune fille, and these ensembles are making style history in Paris, because every woman who can look young enough by hook or beauty parlor is wearing them. It is fashionable to wear youthfully simple clothes, but Paris draws the line at anything flapperish; and these Vionnet clothes are young but not silly.

The nicest of these young ensembles from the great Paris designer is shown in our sketch today, and if you're young enough in looks you couldn't have a smarter outfit for the afternoons of this summer.

The coat of this ensemble is made of blue velveteen. It has short kimono sleeves and the tiniest of shawl collars. Vionnet molds the body of this coat at the waistline in her inimitable way and flares it slightly below the hipline. It has no fastening but is worn open, as shown.

PARLEY ON MINE PAY ENDS TODAY; HOPE FOR PEACE

Believe Conference Has Reached Agreement.

After a three months' deadlock over a new wage scale, which has kept Illinois coal mines idle since April 1, it was announced last night that the parley between representatives of the operators and miners would end today. Although neither side would amplify this statement, it was taken to indicate that an agreement had been reached and that settlement of the strike is near.

"The whole problem is in the balance," said a spokesman for the Illinois Coal Operators' association. "Any predictions at this time would be unfortunate, but it is safe to say that the present conference will end, whether in agreement or otherwise, within the week."

"To avoid disastrous complications," John H. Walker, president of the Illinois division of the United Mine Workers, said last night, "members of the subcommittee agreed against premature discussion. There will be an announcement following tomorrow's meeting."

Two previous parleys failed. The miners originally asked a six hour day and a five day week. The operators held out for a reduction in the wage scale from $6.10 to $4 a day. If a compromise is reached, as has been indicated, it is believed the wage will be set somewhere between $4 and $5 a day. The meetings have been held in the Majestic hotel.

WINNETKA WIFE SUES MATE ON CRUELTY CHARGE

Walter S. Bemis, president of the Bemis company, appraisal engineers, was sued yesterday for separate maintenance by his wife, Gertrude J. Bemis, 821 Foxdale avenue, Winnetka. She charged cruelty and nonsupport. The suit, filed in the Circuit court, asked an injunction to restrain Bemis from concealing his bank accounts or other assets.

On June 19 Mrs. Bemis was overcome by carbon monoxide fumes from the exhaust of her automobile in the garage at the rear of her home. She was discovered in an unconscious condition behind the wheel and pulmotor squads were summoned. After several blood transfusions and after oxygen was administered to her by members of the Winnetka fire department for 63 consecutive hours, she recovered.

The bill, drawn by Attorney Lloyd Faxon, charged that on June 16 Bemis went to his wife's home and snatched his youngest child, Patsy 3 years old, from her arms. The bill also charged that Bemis had failed to provide support for his wife and children, although he exhausted his wife's $50,000 inheritance from her father without repaying her. The couple were married in June, 1917, and separated in January, 1930, the bill recited.

HEARING TONIGHT ON PLEA TO FREE "FUR" SAMMONS

Circuit Judge Edward D. Shurtleff of McHenry county tonight will conduct a hearing at Woodstock on the petition for a habeas corpus filed by Attorney W. W. Smith for James [Fur] Sammons, notorious gangster and formerly Machine Gunner No. 1 for the Capone syndicate.

The defense attorney is basing his plea for Sammons' release from the Joliet penitentiary on legal technicalities, contending that the gangster was imprisoned in 1930 without due process of law. Assistant Attorney General J. J. Neiger is resisting the petition, asserting that Sammons was legally imprisoned and citing the gangster's long criminal record.

Sammons was returned to Joliet two years ago to serve out thirty years of an unexpired term for murder. Sammons was sentenced to die in 1903 for the slaying, but the punishment was first commuted to life imprisonment, then to fifty years. He was paroled by former Gov. Len Small in 1923 and later was given his final discharge. This action by the governor was illegal, Judge John P. McGoorty decided, and Sammons was returned to prison. The Illinois Supreme court upheld Judge McGoorty's action.

POLICEMAN DEFENDS WIFE WHO SHOT HIM; SHE IS HYSTERICAL

New York, July 6.—[Special.]—Another policeman heard a shot this afternoon, saw Patrolman Frank J. Sussingham fall to the sidewalk on Benson street in the Bronx, and ran over and asked the question, "Who shot you?"

"My wife," said Sussingham, "she's the best kid in the world, but the last baby turned her mind. I forgive her."

The wife, Madeline Sussingham, mother of five children, stood beside her husband with an automatic pistol in her hand. She surrendered without making trouble, but was in hysterics at the station house and could hardly tell her name, age and address.

Sussingham was taken to the Westchester sanitarium, where he was said to be in a serious condition with a bullet wound in the left side of his abdomen.

MANY WOUNDED AS REDS ATTACK SWEDISH FACTORY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, July 6.—Four hundred Communists attacked the Clemensnaes wood pulp factory in northern Sweden today, driving back police and workers with a barrage of stones. Many were injured, including a company director, before police opened fire and repulsed the rioters. Several of the latter were shot.

The attack was incited by a professional bolshevik agitator. Local authorities state the attackers were not workers in the district but were imported. Among the Communists was a group of girls.

The Clemensnaes police force raided bolshevik headquarters today. Meanwhile reinforcements are being rushed from Stockholm. Trade union officials are opposing the demonstrations.

2 BANDITS SHOT AND CAPTURED BY POLICEMAN

Taken After Robberies of Merchants.

Two bandits were shot by police after holdups yesterday.

John Mikulino walked into the clothing store of Kasimir Donek, 2806 Milwaukee avenue, late in the afternoon, drew a gun, and robbed the storekeeper of $114. He ran from the place, pursued by Donek, whose cries brought Policemen Albert Ruff and Adam Klonowski, cruising in a small detective bureau car. Ruff fired two shots and felled Mikulino with a flesh wound in the side. He was taken to the Bridewell hospital, where his condition was not considered serious.

George White, 20 years old, 6710 South Halsted street, who told police he had been a jockey, invaded Sally's hat shop, 6337 South Halsted street, where he took $75 and a watch from Esther Becker, the manager, and grabbed five women's hats as he left. An hour later he entered the Walkover shoe store, 6440 South Halsted street, and robbed James Richardson, the manager, of $50 and Mrs. Anda Spooner, a customer, of $15. William Kerrigan, an ice cream salesman, was robbed of $7, but he ran to the street and called Policeman James Keating of the Englewood station, who shot and captured the robber.

2 HURT BY ACCIDENTAL SHOT.

Mrs. Nellie Prochut, 24 years old, and her 14 months old son, Louis Jr., were slightly wounded yesterday when Louis Prochut, the husband and father, accidentally discharged a shotgun which he was cleaning in the rear of his dry goods store at 1730 West 18th street.

OWNEY MADDEN SURRENDERS AT SING SING DOOR

Ossining, N. Y., July 6.—(AP)—Owney Madden, notorious Broadway character, unexpectedly surrendered at Sing Sing prison late today to resume a prison sentence for violation of parole.

Madden appeared about 5:30 p. m. at the gates of the prison which had been closed for the night. He had been driven up by two men in a sedan, who immediately left.

As a keeper and Madden gazed at each other through a barred opening, Clement Ferling, secretary to the warden, happened by.

"Hello, Mr. Ferling," said Madden, "I'm coming in."

Climaxing extended litigation, the Appellate court last Friday remanded Madden and three associates to custody for parole violation. Madden was sent to Sing Sing in 1915 for manslaughter in killing Patsy Doyle. He was paroled on Feb. 24, 1923.

Authorities were told Madden was a key man in liquor distribution to night clubs and luxurious penthouse apartment.

'WHIP CHICAGO' HINDENBURG URGES GERMAN BOXERS

BOYS VOW TO PILE UP RECORD OF 8 KNOCKOUTS

President's Message Inspires Team.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Germany, July 6.—Germany's team of amateur boxing champions today received the equivalent of a royal command to fight for the honor of their country and to bring back a victory when they meet the Golden Gloves team of Chicago at Soldiers' field on the night of July 26.

The command, if it can be called that, came from President Paul von Hindenburg, who talked today with Theodore Lewald and Dr. Karl Diem, amateur athletic representatives who will accompany the team on the expedition to Chicago.

"All my best wishes are with the German team going to America," President von Hindenburg told them. "I hope they will do honor to our country. I want to see them winners when they get back to Germany."

Boys Determined to Win.

Though Germany is now a republic, much of the old tradition of the empire still prevails and a request from President von Hindenburg, who is revered highly throughout the fatherland, is accorded the same respect that a similar request from a monarch would receive in any other European country.

So when the president said, "I want to see them winners when they get back in Germany," the country's young amateur champions took his request much in the nature of a command to go out and vanquish the Chicagoans, and each expressed his determination to do his part by gaining a victory over his American opponent. Each has vowed that he will not be the one to fail the fatherland and that if all of the others on the team do as well as he does every one of the championship bouts will end with a German knockout victory.

Just Look at Records.

If anything was needed to imbue these fighters with the will to win, the president's statement supplied it. All of the members of the team are now confident they will win and it is not merely idle boasting on their part, as their records show. The records of the squad, which sails Sunday, follow:

Sail With Olympic Team.

Sailing with the eight boxing champions on Sunday will be 72 members of the German Olympic team who were chosen early this week. Many persons in Germany have complained that the German Olympic team is too big and too heavy an expense for "impoverished Germany," but Herr Lewald counters that compared to population the sports team is small, only one representative going to America for every 929,000 population. He pointed out that the expenses of the boxing team are being borne by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, thereby saving the German athletic authorities about 10 per cent of the cost of transporting its team.

German Boy Wins Trip to Chicago, Job as Salesman

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OBERHAUSEN, Germany, July 6.—Franz Kartz, lightweight amateur boxing champion, will not get a formal farewell party before leaving for the Golden Gloves bouts in Chicago, but his club will accompany him to the station when he pulls out for Bremen and America Sunday. His 61 year old mother will be among his well wishers.

His selection as German lightweight representative at Chicago brought luck to Kartz. His splendid work in the national tournament resulted in an offer of a job as salesman in the sporting goods section of a big department store.

This marked the end of a period of tough struggle outside the ring for Kartz, who was trained as an electro-machinist, but had been obliged to work at all sorts of trades to earn enough money to support himself and his mother.

BETTER NOW THAN LATER

Oscar Mayer (right), prominent Chicago German, buys one hundred tickets from Charles A. Meister, manager of the Germania club, for the international bouts between the Golden Glove boxers and the German amateur champions at Soldiers' field July 26. Mr. Mayer said "'late' is permissible, but 'never' would be inexplicable. No one can afford to miss these bouts." [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Herr Kohlhas May Be Good but He Never Met A. Smith

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Herr Henrich Kohlhas, the knocker-out from Muenster, Germany, may have the idea he will win an easy victory in the international bouts against Chicago's Golden Gloves team at Soldiers' field July 26. So many German amateurs have fallen before his punches that undoubtedly he feels Chicago affords merely another opportunity for him to display his power and punch.

ADAM SMITH.

If Herr Kohlhas has such ambitions we ask him to consider Adam Smith, the champion, and Duffy Dvonch, the 29 year old sailor, the other heavyweight member of the Golden Gloves squad, which leaves Sunday for Lake Wawasee, Ind. Either of these boys is willing to give Herr Kohlhas the thrashing of his life and send him back to Muenster convinced he is no second Schmeling.

Big and Willing!

Adam Smith, roly poly ex-baker lad from Rockford, Ill., is a well known boxer. For three years he has been a member of THE TRIBUNE'S Golden Gloves team, and each year he has fought against New York. Adam isn't a flashy boxer. At first sight he isn't impressive. But he's never been knocked off his feet and in nearly all of his 50 or more amateur bouts he's been voted the winner.

Smith weighs 210 pounds. Despite a tendency to fleshiness about his waist line, which would seem to indicate that a well placed punch would double him up, Adam seldom protects his body. He prefers to walk ahead steadily, taking his opponent's punches to the body, and retaliating with short, driving blows with both hands.

He Wins Title.

In 1930 Smith was named an alternate on the intercity Golden Gloves squad. By the time the bouts were held he had earned the right to fight and did, although he was beaten by Sylvester Taylor. Chicago only lost 6 of the 16 fights that year at the Stadium. In 1931 Adam seemed headed for the Golden Gloves heavyweight title until he bumped up against Johnny Long of Hammond, Ind., in the finals. By jabbing and retreating Long outpointed Adam that night. But Smith did what Long couldn't do, he whipped his New York opponent, Joe Shelby, in the intercity fights.

Adam's victory that night brought Chicago's total victories to 13, while Long's defeat by Justin Sirutis gave New York its third and final triumph.

This year Smith finally won the heavyweight title. He was aided by good luck in that his most formidable rival, Duffy Dvonch, was forced out of the semi-finals by a broken hand. Dvonch has beaten Adam twice. He was awarded a technical K. O. last summer in the outdoor A. A. U. tournament when a badly cut eye made it impossible for Adam to continue. Recently Duffy outpointed Smith in three rounds at Mills stadium.

He's Like Risko.

For two weeks this pair of heavyweights will train side by side at Lake Wawasee. The one who is in the best condition and who can whip the other in the daily workouts will be named to fight Herr Kohlhas. On one point both are agreed, either can turn back the German.

Two years ago Smith was employed by a Rockford baker. From this job came his appellation of "baker boy." He lives with his brothers and a sister in Rockford at 619 Catlin street. Adam was born in Ashland, Wis., and moved to Rockford in 1912. He completed grammer school there, but did not attend high school.

Boxing is his favorite sport, but he has played all the games common to American youth. In many ways Adam reminds of that other baker boy of professional boxing, Johnny Risko. Limitless endurance, a phlegmatic disposition and willingness to exchange punches are possessed by both.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

STUTTGART, Germany, July 6.—Hans Bernloehr, German middleweight boxing champion, had his worries about expenses for his traveling outfit solved today. The Polizei Sportsverein, which financed his training, donated his fighting outfit since Bernloehr, who helps support his mother and two unemployed brothers, could not from his meager earnings purchase equipment he needed.

Tomorrow the Police Sport club, headed by Col. Reigh, Capt. Gschwind and the Stuttgart Sport association, will give Bernloehr a farewell dinner in a small inn in the older part of Stuttgart.

CHEER! CHEER! THE JOBHOLDERS ARE HERE! CHEER!

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 6.—The volume and character of the cheering which took place at the two solemn political conclaves in Chicago were very satisfactory to the politicians in charge, but comparisons lead me to wonder whether they were all strictly on the level.

With the exceptions of two demonstrations in the Democartic convention, one for the repeal plank, the other for Al Smith, in person, the cheering was almost entirely mechanical. The delegates were politicians, cheering for jobs, government contracts, or other rewards, and they often cheered so long and with such obvious physical effort that I thought of Albie Booth of Yale and wondered if the Yales hadn't done somewhat less than right by him.

Should Cheer a Year.

If a thousand politicians assembled in a hall can put in from thirty minutes to an hour and a quarter cheering and parading at the mere mention of the name of some notorious old bar fly with a long record of votes for prohibition, who is not even present in the arena, then by the same ratio the entire undergraduate body of Yale university should have cheered all through the winter of 1929-'30 for the little nuisance who beat the Army in his first big game.

But a college cheer for an athlete rarely lasts more than ten seconds, even under the direction of cheer leaders. And it has a much different sound, as Mr. C. C. Pyle discovered in the course of certain experiments in enthusiasm conducted in connection with his professional football team. Mr. Pyle wished to simulate college conditions at his games and, to this end, engage several female cheer leaders who had been successful in coeducational universities. He also employed a cheering section composed of veteran vegetable peddlers and newsboys ,selecting them for their vocal power alone, and scattered them among his customers.

Interesting, Not Spiritual.

But, though the lady cheer leaders leaped and turned handsprings, sometimes revealing rather interesting glimpses of leg meat, and the hucksters and newsboys cheered Mr. Pyle a full, conscientious money's worth, the cheering lacked something spiritual. Mr. Pyle was forced to admit that it was just noise, after all, and had to abandon the idea of developing the old varsity spirit among his patrons.

There is very little cheering at the world series ball games nowadays, which may be a heretical thing to remind people of, but the little cheering that does occur is strictly genuine and spontaneous. It usually breaks out on the instant of recognition of

In the Wake of the News

ARLINGTON RACING.

ARLINGTON PARK is conducting the greatest meeting in the history of American racing.

To say that the thoroughbreds competing at Arlington are superior to those of any other period in turf history would be to invite argument with varying differences of opinion. Probably the class of horses averages higher, but that cannot be proved. However, we know this meeting is greatest in amount of purse and stake money offered turfmen, in quality of patronage, and in presence of the greatest horses now in training.

How will Arlington fare financially in this period of depression? While some racing organizations have found it necessary to trim sails to prevailing winds, Arlington has maintained its lavish disbursements and costly maintenance with only minor economies. Attendance has been below that of a year ago, but not markedly so, according to officials. That corresponds to the experience of other tracks.

Speculation through the mutuels, the percentage take-off from which supplies much of the operating expense, has been decidedly off. Unofficial estimates vary from 25 per cent on week days to as high as 35 per cent on Saturdays and holidays. The only answer is that the big betters and the public at large have not the money they once had for speculative excitement.

Sponsors of Arlington hope, also confidently expect, to break even or better on the 30 day meeting. Depreciation is not a factor as a charge for Arlington, as a corporation, does not operate for profit. Pledges of its backers are that profits, if any, will go back into improvements and increased purses. Thus, if Arlington fails to make much money, it will only delay the further elaborate plans for improvements on the track out on the Northwest highway.

For their sportsmanship in refusing to trim expenses in a year of depression Arlington directors deserve a maximum of credit. Whether it is good business policy—and most of them are keen business men—they know better than does The Wake.

Solitude.

Watching a gray dashing sea,
And hearing the call of gulls
Treading dim cathedral aisles
Under a forest's green dome
That hides a sweet bird choir,
How can I be alone?
Out in the woodland at dusk
When home lights seem so far,
As the golden sun deserts me,
Then comes the evening star;
As long as clouds form pictures
And there are voices in the wind,
I never shall know solitude
For I commune with friends.

Far East Olympic Teams Arrive at San Francisco

CROWD CHOOSES FALL APPLE AND HE REWARDS IT

Favorite Coasts In First at Arlington Park.

BY FRENCH LANE.

The Eton blue jacket of Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney was carried to another stake race victory at Arlington Park yesterday when Fall Apple, a son of Pennant, with Sonny Workman riding him hard all the way, galloped home in the Oak Park.

Top Flight, Equipose, and others from the Whitney band have been victorious during Arlington's brilliant season, but they did not win any more easily than Fall Apple did, for he was three lengths in front of Dyak, a Chicago colt, at the finish, while Swift and True, another easterner, landed third money.

The Oak Park was a claiming sweepstakes fashioned for 3 year olds, a number of which are eligible to the Arlington Classic on July 16. It was a dash at a mile and the gross value was $3,740. When Fall Apple won so easily in the fast time of 1:36 4-5 he also won the right to parade to the post in the Classic as a running companion of the spectacular Top Flight.

Fans Like Fall Apple.

Eight tried for the Oak Park and when the names were posted Fall Apple immediately became a top heavy favorite. He had run one good race here and his workouts lately had indicated that he was improving. So he was backed almost to the exclusion of the others. In the betting he paid $4.26 to win, $3.08 to place, and $2.42 to show. Dyak was at $5.52 to place and $3.60 to show. Swift and True paid $5.26 to show.

While running easily in the early part of it, Fall Apple did not give his backers any too much confidence, for Albert Sabath's fleet filly, I Say, and the Audley farm's Higher were both outrunning him. They were a couple of lengths in front as they neared the turn into the home stretch.

Workman apparently had been letting Fall Apple take things easy, for he shook him up just as he started rounding the bend. I Say was first to wilt under his challenge. Then he took after Higher.

Higher Forced to Surrender.

The Audley colt would not surrender wihout a fight, but he was only well on his way down the stretch when Fall Apple and Workman moved past him. Fall Apple wasn't content with any short lead and neither was Workman. The Whitney color bearer sprinted on until he was three lengths to the good, where Workman took him in hand and let him take it easy in the final strides.

An easterner also scored in the Shady Brook purse, which was the next best attraction. Morsel, from the Leo J. Marks' Lemar farm stable, was the winner. He came from behind and beat My Dandy by more than two lengths. Yonkel also came from far back and was third.

There had been quite a plunge on Morsel in the final minutes before the horses reached the post, the price against him flopping from 5 to 1 to slightly less than 3 to 1. The final price on Morsel was $7.70.

Jockey A. Robertson was in the saddle on Morsel, and it was the first of two brilliant rides the brilliant New York jockey, who arrived only yesterday morning, made during the afternoon.

This Was Quite a Ride.

In the sixth race he climbed into the saddle on William T., and it was only by his furious riding down the stretch as the field neared the finish line that he was able to get his mount up and beat Bonny Maureen, a long shot from Col. Edward R. Bradley's barn, by a nose. Come On also finished fast to get third money.

The crowd warmed up to Robertson after his fine bit of horsemanship on Morsel, and it was mainly because he was in the saddle that William T. became a topheavy favorite, paying $5.42 in the two dollar market.

Robertson, like Workman, is a Whitney contract rider, so Fall Apple, Workman, and Robertson made it very much of a Whitney afternoon at Arlington.

WHEN MR. KLEIN GOES HITLESS, THERE'S NEWS!

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Lon Warneke yesterday again showed his unwillingness to join his fellow Cub pitchers in their passion for balloon riding by slapping victory No. 11 into the record book. He breezed along to a masterful 6 to 1 triumph over the slugging Phils, first of the eastern guests in the current invasion, and placed his team in second place, one point ahead of the Boston Braves.

There were times when Lon had to call for his best talents to avert embarrassment, but he was equal to every emergency. The Phils' one run was made on a caught fly, and came when Lon was enjoying a four run edge.

Boy, That Seventh Inning!

In four innings the enemy had two men on bases with one out, and only once did they score. In another inning they had two on and none out and failed to count. But that was too soft for Lon. Let's tell you about still another inning — the seventh. That WAS somethin'.

A couple of pinch batters and G. Davis got the bases full with none out to start the seventh. A pretty setting for those snorting Phillies, what with the strength of the batting order coming up.

But those three men stayed right where they were while Dick Bartell popped to Hack. Then up came Chuck Klein. Chuck, of course, welcomed the spot and did a lot of ground tending to get the batter's box all ready for his foothold. It was plain to see that he was fixing to knock his No. 26 homer of the year.

As you can tell by the score, Chuck didn't knock No. 26. As a matter of fact, he didn't get a hit all day, and this time Warneke had to run toward the plate to get his grounder and throw to Hartnett to force Brickell at the plate.

Not So Good, Mr. Whitney!

But the bases still were full, and the able Mr. Pinky Whitney had to be disposed of. And here was the thrill of the Cubs' return to winning ways. Whitney struck out on three pitches.

The Cubs made ten hits off three pitchers, seven of them off their old pal and associate, Snipe Hansen. And scarcely a hit went to waste. The first run was scored in the second on Grimm's double and Hartnett's single; the second on Stephenson's second walk, Grimm's second hit and Hartnett's long fly; the third and fourth runs were the fruits of singles by Warneke and English, an error, and a fly by Stephenson; the fifth on a walk to Grimm, Hack's single, an error and a wild pitch, and

RAINY DAY TROT WON BY SPENCER McELWYN COLT

Captures $4,000 Feature in Straight Heats.

Cleveland, O., July 6.—(AP)—The $4,000 Rainy Day sweepstakes for two year old trotters was won today in straight heats by Spencer McElwyn, whose sire, Spencer, set the Grand Circuit record of 2:08¼ for the stake in 1927.

Spencer McElwyn, owned by W. H. L. McCourtie of Dallas, Tex., and driven by the veteran Ben White, was a heavy favorite and easily met the challenges made by Sir Raleigh and Hollyrood Portia. It was White's fifth Rainy Day victory.

Ankabar Sets Record.

The secondary feature on today's card, the $2,000 Ohio stake for 2:12 class trotters, produced a split heat race in which Ankabar, the winner, set a new record of 2:01 3-5 for the stake and trotted the fastest mile of the current season.

Ankabar, driven by Doc Parshall of Urbana, O., lost the first heat to Locke Bunter of the Brinkerhoff stable, but won the second in record time and took the third when Locke Bunter made a standstill break to finish fifth.

The Hanover farm's colt Rip Hanover, driven by Tom Berry, took the pacing division of the stallion stake, setting a new record of 2:03 for the stake in the first heat and equaling it in the second. The stake carried $1,080.

Dick Reynolds Wins.

The second event, a 2:12 trot, was a straight heat victory for Senator McKyle, the favorite, owned by Dr. E. P. Clement of Elyria, O., and driven by Jay Douglass.

The fifth and final event, a 2:15 pace, was won by Dick Reynolds, emulating the example of his sire, Single G., as a great stretch finisher. Dick Reynolds, paying $50 for a $2 ticket, came from next to last place in a field of 13 to win in the third heat.

South Bend to Drop Central League Team

South Bend, Ind., July 6.—[Special.]—An upheaval affecting the entire Central league was imminent today with the announcement by league auditor Edwin O. Miller that the South Bend franchise would be forfeited Saturday. Several league officials may be ousted as an aftermath of the action.

Canton, O., may be forced to forfeit its franchise to avoid a five club circuit, leaving the league comprised only of Erie, Youngstown, and Dayton, O., and Fort Wayne, Ind.

The South Bend franchise was taken over by the league after business men decided outstanding debts formed too great a handicap to effect a successful reorganization. Efforts to secure funds were abandoned and the money already collected will be refunded to the donors.

Three special days have been planned to raise money to send the players back to their home towns. Stanley Coveleski, former Cleveland pitcher, now living here, will pitch the first game of the series tomorrow.

In the meantime, Joseph Carr, president of the National Federation of Baseball leagues, has ordered an investigation into league affairs.

Olympic Boxing Finalists Win at Mills Stadium

Fred Caserio, Max Marek, and Anthony Muscarello, the three Chicago boxers who will seek places on the United States Olympic boxing team in the final trials at San Francisco on July 15 and 16, triumphed last night on the weekly amateur program at Mills stadium. Caserio whipped William Treest, Marek won from Steve Sukrat, and Muscarello defeated Steve Dusek. Proceeds of the show will be used to defray the expenses of Caserio, Marek, and Muscarello to the coast. Other results:

Francis Skidmore beat Joe Lapphis [3].

Frank Keller knocked out Gene Klopack [1].

Henry Bothier beat George Holden [3].

George Goodman beat John Scanavine [3].

Trainer Tells What's Ahead for Equipoise

Fred Hopkins, trainer of Equipoise, yesterday outlined his program for C. V. Whitney's great star for the remainder of the season.

Equipoise's first objective will be the Arlington cup on Saturday. He will remain over at Arlington for the Arlington handicap on July 23. Then the big horse will be on his way to Saratoga. He probably will fill three engagements in August. He will go after the Saratoga handicap and the Saratoga cup and then may hop back west to try for the Hawthorne cup.

In September he will seek the Havre de Grace handicap, the Jockey club gold cup in New York, and later on in the season may try for the Washington handicap and Southern Maryland handicaps, both of which are run in Maryland.

Trainer Hopkins thinks Equipoise can win all these races. If he wins only some of them he will shatter Sun Beau's world's money winning record, for his earnings have already passed the $200,000 mark. And it is more than likely that Equipoise will race again as a 5 year old next season.

Faireno, winner of the Belmont and Dwyer stakes in New York and right now a dangerous rival of Top Flight for the 3 year old championship of the year, will arrive at Arlington this morning to prepare for the Arlington classic. Edelweiss, a candidate for the Lassie stakes, and four other horses owned by William Woodward, chairman of the Jockey club in New York, will accompany Faireno here. The handsome gold trophy that will go to the winner of the Arlington gold cup was put on display in the stewards' stand yesterday. The trophy was made more than a hundred years ago in England and was used at that time for one of the old English races.

Eight races will comprise Saturday's program at Arlington, it was announced yesterday by Joseph McLennan, racing secretary. Post time for the first race will be at 2:15 o'clock as usual, McLennan said, but the eight events will be decided in the time ordinarily required for a seven race program. Conditions for the additional race will be made known this morning.

Radio Heads Protest Ban by Ring Board

New York, July 6.—(AP)—The New York state athletic commission's decision that none but "boxing experts" could broadcast boxing matches in this state brought statements today from the major networks mildly threatening war and definitely charging "a serious blow at the freedom of broadcasting."

"The National Broadcasting company always has and always will continue to select its own announcers for fight broadcasts," said John F. Royal, vice president in charge of programs.

Charles Francis Coe, novelist, and Graham McNamee broadcast the NBC account of the match in which Jack Sharkey won the heavyweight title from Max Schmeling. The athletic commission expressed its objections to the broadcast by banning all but "boxing sports writers, judges, or referees" from future broadcasts.

The statement of the Columbia Broadcasting company, which did not put the Sharkey-Schmeling fight on the air, said:

"The state athletic commission in composing a virtual censorship has dealt a serious blow at the freedom of broadcasting. This arbitrary ruling undoubtedly will serve to handicap the broadcasters' service to the public. It is no more logical for the commission to choose or to approve broadcasters of fights than to choose or to approve those who cover fights for the press."

CLINKSTOCK AND DAVIS TO MEET ON STEINKE CARD

Jim Clinkstock, the Oklahoma Indian and Willie Davis, former Alabama football player, have been signed for the semi-final to the Joe Stecher-Hans Steinke heavyweight wrestling match Tuesday night at the outdoor Marigold Gardens, Grace street and Broadway.

With the signing of Clinkstock and Davis, Promotor Krone believes he has the four biggest men in wrestling on his card. All the principals in the windup card are over 6 feet 4 inches tall.

135 West Parks Athletes Enter Meet on Saturday

All Thrills of Wilds on Fox River

BY BOB HECKER.

If Chicago outdoor fans want to camp out where they can hear foxes bark at night, listen to the evening calls of the whippoorwills and do a little imitation mountain climbing, the lower Fox river in Illinois is the stream to choose.

Although we have camped out many nights in Chicagoland, not until we pitched a tent in the sandstone bluff country above Wedron, Ill., on the recent TRIBUNE Boy Scout cruise did we hear a fox bark at night. These animals must find the rock ledges and the heavy oak forests along the stream ideal for their hunting forays.

Storm Wakes Camper.

We were at Camp Marshall about 3 miles below the Serena bridge and practically the same distance above the Wedron camp grounds when we heard foxes. Our party had pitched tents on a bluff 30 feet high. Down the river the sandstone ledges followed the river course, sometimes rising 50 feet above the water. Behind our tents stretched a stand of oak timber that had been permitted to grow up wild.

Around sundown we could hear the whippoorwills calling and the evening song of the wood thrush. A thunder storm was gathering when the Scouts turned in for the night. The air was close and heavy. Unable to sleep we stepped out of our tent and walked around camp for a few minutes, watching the glare of lighting in the western sky and wondering if we should not check over the ropes on our tent. It looked as if a blow might come with the storm.

Mr. Fox Serenades.

Picking our way carefully in the dark, we came to the path along the edge of the bluff where we could hear the river hurrying through a little rapids. While standing there, we heard the short yap of a fox down stream a short distance. Edward Marshall of Serena, Ill., on whose property we were camping, had told us that frequently foxes came close to the cabin and serenaded him after dark, so we weren't surprised.

From this spot on down the Fox to the what is known as the Dells country, the outdoor fan will find many things of interest aside from the beautiful scenery.

So far in our experience this stretch of river is the only spot close to Chicago where we ha e seen both cliff and bank swallows fairly close to each other. Joining these species on the face of the cliff are the common, pestiferous English sparrows which apparently are successful in stealing some of the nesting holes in the rocks from the bank swallows.

PIRATES WIDEN LEAD; CAPTURE 2 FROM GIANTS

Win First Game, 4 to 2; Take Second, 3 to 1.

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 6.—[Special.]—The Pittsburgh Pirates captured a doubleheader from the New York Giants today, 4 to 2, and 3 to 1, to take firmer hold on first place in the National league standings. The two victories gave the Pirates their sixth successive triumph and the 13th in their last 15 games.

Swetonic held the Giants to six hits in the opener to win his ninth game of the season. Larry French, who pitched the second game, limited the Giants to eight hits. The Pirates bunched four of their 11 hits off Adolfo Luque in the sixth and seventh innings.

TERRY PROTESTS PIRATES' 4-3 WIN IN TUESDAY GAME

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 6.—(AP)—Bill Terry, manager of the New York Giants, announced today he had forwarded a protest of yesterday's Pirates-Giants game to John A. Heydler, president of the National league. The protest is based on Terry's contention that some of the Pirate players assisted Tony Piet, Pittsburgh second baseman, back to the plate after he had collided with Catcher Frank Hogan in the sixth inning. The Pirates won the game, 4 to 3, in ten innings.

Cheer! Cheer! for Guys Who Gave Us Jobs

some startling play or a a sentimental compliment to some player as he comes to bat.

A Few Seconds Enough.

In cases of the latter kind, the applause can be referred directly back to something which it is desired to acknowledge with a special outburst, such as the disposal of a heavy hitter in a pinch in the preceding inning. However, it rarely lasts more than a few seconds and, though the customers may be extremely cordial to the party concerned they would not even think of hopping down onto the ball yard and stumbling all over the place for the next hour, shaking rattles, blowing horns and yelling "Ray, Ray, Ray."

Organized cheering at football games is distinctly on the decline in the eastern part of the country, the reason being that the students prefer to cheer only when so moved and each according to his own mode of expression. The one to whom "attaboy" is a form of tribute prefers to yell "attaboy" on his own responsibility and does not feel that he has expressed his emotions if he has followed the old formula of nine rahs or a nursery jingle.

Harvard has dispensed with the pep meetings as a childish device and a Dartmouth alumnus who returned to Hanover to see the Dartmouth team off for one of its Harvard games a few years ago came away disgusted with the younger generation because the student body had permitted the athletes to depart quietly and in a straggling group without so much as a wah-hoo-wah.

Just Another Pep Meeting.

The national convention is an exaggeration of the pep meeting which the Harvard students found too silly for their intelligent dignity some years ago. The Hayvarders came to the conclusion that the night before a game was not the time to indulge in cheers, because, obviously, at that time, there could be nothing to cheer about. Cheers were for victories won or meritorious efforts and there should be time enough to acknowledge these things after they had occurred.

Probably there never was a personality or act which could not be adequately cheered within 60 seconds but, for the sake of argument, I am willing to extend the limit to five minutes or even ten. That would still leave the convention delegates rambling around the hall on sore feet, shoving and stumbling in dense formations a long while beyond the expression of any sincere enthusiasm which they might feel for the politician of their momentary devotion. It is strange that they find themselves emotionally moved at all by the mere mention of a name, for certainly the name of Gov. Roosevelt has been a familiar one for a long time.

I have heard it mentioned many times in casual groups and several times in the presence of Senator [Mex.] Wild Will Lyons, who was a Roosevelt delegate at the convention. On such occasions, the senator [Mex.] who cheers easy, restrained himself without apparent effort, but on that night in the convention hall in Chicago when Roosevelt was mentioned in a nominating speech a maniac light suddenly flamed in the senator's [Mex.] eye and around and around the hall he went for an hour, with a horn in one hand, a balloon in the other, yelling with the rest of them as though the governor of New York, by some miracle, has just shot radio common back up to 425.

Aw, What's the Use?

Inasmuch as this sort of cheering, in addition to its faults of exaggeration, never makes the slightest difference in the outcome of a convention, I should think the managing politicians in charge of the conventions might save expenses, time, and confusion by getting together in some hotel room and conceding one another proportionate amounts of cheers, the same to be taken for granted and not actually executed. These could be allotted in proportion to the number of delegates which each man has bought.

One candidate could then buy up odd lots of cheers from the favorite son candidates, if he wished, though why he should want them, I do not know. It might seem un-American to settle the cheering in a hotel room, but that could hardly be offered as a major objection.

If a hotel room is a good enough place in which to decide the actual nominations, it would be a good enough place for the division of anything so trivial as the cheers.

ROUND NO. 17—THE KING CARRIES ON TO DEFEAT

Cubs Win, 6-1; It's No. 11 for Lon Warneke

In the second inning the Phillies showed symptoms of wanting to make a lot of runs, but two plays at the plate blighted this ambition and all their activity was rewarded by a goose egg on the scoreboard. Whitney pushed out with a single to center and took second on Lee's sacrifice. V. Davis walked and the two runners moved up on a wild pitch. Heathcote tapped to Herman and Whitney was out at the plate, Herman to Hartnett, V. Davis taking third. Friberg's roller toward third pretty nearly got past Warneke, but Lon recovered in time to get V. Davis at the plate by an eyelash.

Having been alarmed by all the foregoing business at the plate, the Cubs decided to make a run in their end of the third. Grimm pushed off with a double to the center field screen and pranced home on Hartnett's single over second. Hack hit into a double play and Lee went to the left field wall to get Warneke's fly.

Cubs Pile Up No. 2.

In the third and fourth innings the Phils got two men on with one out. In the third they failed to progress because of the inability of Klein and Whitney to lend assistance and in the fourth their enterprise was blocked by a double play started by Hack.

The Cubs put over run No. 2 in the fourth. Stephenson drew his second pass, lingered on first while Barton flied to Klein, went to third on Grimm's single to right, and scored on Hartnett's fly to G. Davis.

The fifth inning netted the Chicagoans two runs. Warneke opened with a single to center and moved up on Herman's sacrifice. English caromed a single off Hansen's glove, Warneke taking third. Cuyler shot a grounder at Bartell and in an attempt to function while off balance, Dick threw to the screen, Warneke scoring, English reaching third and Cuyler second. Stephenson flied to Klein and English scored. Then Barton fanned.

At Last: One for Phils.

The Phils broke through in the sixth. Whitney got his second single, with one down, and stopped at third on Lee's double to the center field screen. V. Davis sent a long fly to Cuyler, Whitney scoring. Then Cuyler snatched Heathcote's drive off the center in right center.

And here's the detail of Mr. Warneke's spectacular accomplishment in the seventh inning: Brickell batted for Friberg and crashed a single off Warneke's glove. Mallon batted for Hansen and walked. The bases were full after G. Davis singled to right. Bartell popped to Hack, and Klein tapped one to Warneke and Brickell was forced at the plate. Then Whitney fanned on three pitches.

Berly pitched in the Cub seventh and started off by walking English. Cuyler popped to Bartell but Stephenson tripled, scoring English.

Malone Goes on Trail of Victory Once More Today

Pat Malone this afternoon will make another comeback try. He will be opposed by big Jim Elliott.

The Cubs were pleased to go into second place one point ahead of Boston, but considered it tough to lose ground to Pittsburgh even while winning a ball game. The Pirates, by beating the Giants twice, forged 3½ games ahead of the Cubs.

About 10,000 saw the opener. The weather, warm after four days of top coat temperatures, supplied an ideal setting for the business at hand.

The great Chuck Klein made none of the eight hits off Warneke nor drew nary a one of the five walks. Chuck's batting average in five times at bat was .000. Three of the five passes went to V. Davis. Davis hit the ball only once, but his fly drove home the one enemy run.

That old Cub favorite, Cliff Heathcote, played first base in place of Don Hurst. Don is having sinus trouble, but expects to be back in the game today.

The shooting of Mr. Jurges did not embarrass the Cubs in so far as baseball playing was concerned. Hack accepted three chances at third, including the starting of a double play, and English gobbled up his one chance at short. English made two hits and Hack made one.

It was announced that the Cubs on July 7 will accept requests for ladies' day tickets for July 15. One ticket to each applicant, until 20,000 are exhausted, will be allotted. Hack Wilson and his fellow Brooklyns will be here that day.

Stadium's Next Boxing Show May Be Aug. 5

Sidney Strotz, president of the Chicago Stadium, yesterday said the next show at the west side building may be held Friday, Aug. 5. Billy Petrolle fought Bat Battalino in the last show at the Stadium two months ago.

Billy Petrolle will go to New York two weeks before his lightweight title bout with Tony Canzoneri at Long Island City, Aug. 8. He will do only road work at Duluth, Minn., until he leaves for New York.

Charlie White, former lightweight boxer, has received a license to judge fights in Illinois.

Roy Simmons, Syracuse university boxing coach, and five members of the team which is going to San Francisco, Cal., to compete in the Olympic boxing finals July 22, will arrive in the loop Monday. They will stop off long enough to work out at George Trafton's gymnasium and then will continue their journey to California.

Dick Daniels, Minneapolis heavyweight, arrived in town yesterday. He will begin workouts at the Arcade gymnasium today. Joe Glaser, manager of Eddie Shea, has signed to manage Daniels.

Tennis, Golf? Why They're Centuries Old

Many a staid spinster and bespectacled scholar browsing yesterday about the cool precincts of the Newberry library, 60 West Walton place, recoiled in amazement when they ventured into the east wing. Librarian George B. Utley had set up an exhibition of old books and prints relating to sports of centuries ago which were a revelation of the recreations popular in those days.

The books showed that such games as football, golf, tennis, and bowling were known as early as the fifteenth century. A print in one ancient tome showed that a game known as giuoco del calcio, played by the Florentines in the sixteenth century, greatly resembled our modern American football.

Where Flying Wedge Originated.

The print showed about 75 players garbed in leather armor facing each other on a field about the size of the present day gridiron. An inflated ball was put into play in the middle of the field by a referee and the players rushed for it, according to the rules of the game. The famous flying wedge used by college teams 30 years ago was known to the Florentines who thus helped the player with the ball gain a passage down the field.

Even in the sixteenth century golf was an ancient and royal game, one book printed in that period revealed. The introduction to a book of pastimes read: "There are many games with the ball that require the assistance of a club or bat and probably the most ancient among them is the pastime now distinguished by the name of goff." Tennis is no less ancient, one book printed in 1555 containing a plan of a tennis court in the Louvre built by Francois I.

And the Wrestlers, O, Boy!

The wrestlers of today, touted as human gorillas, probably would have shuddered at a contemplation of the art as practiced in the eighteenth century. A book printed in 1729 giving tips on wrestling was entitled: "The inn-play, or Cornish-hugg, wrestler, digested in a method which teacheth to break all holds and throw most falls mathematically, easy to be understood by all gentlemen and of great use to such who understand the small-sword in fencing."

The addition of the small-sword to the wrestling ring would undoubtedly be a feature hailed by Promoter Doc Krone with glee.

Sportsmen of those days favored rough sports, according to the books. There are many works on duelling, archery, hunting, hawking, coursing, fowling, and fighting cocks. The gentle art of fishing was also popular, however. The collection contains many copies of the famous "Compleat Angler," by Izaak Walton, some of them original editions of the year 1653.

The exhibition will be open daily except Sunday from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. during July and August.

Play A's Twice Today, Tomorrow, Saturday.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., July 6.—The one thing the lowly White Sox don't care for is work and that's about all they have to look forward to now. They came here in the high spirits that naturally would follow three victories in their last four games. They anticipated with eagerness six games in four days with the Champion Athletics, but rain today altered that arrangement. They now must engage the title holders six times in three afternoons and that is more than enough to make them wish the season was over.

If it were not for the fact that the Chicagoans have been knocked around so much, they might welcome the extra labor caused by today's raintall. Double headers are of greater annoyance to the Athletics than to anybody else. They don't have the pitchers necessary for such a strenuous program. The Sox don't have them either, but there always is the chance that in a jam of this kind the underdog might get away with something.

The Pitchers?. Well, Now——

Mr. Lew Fonseca, who in time will be charged for all the mishaps encountered by the Sox, declared this afternoon that his judgment on pitchers for the first of the three double headers tomorrow would be guided by results.

He thinks he'll start Vic Frasier in the first game. If the mute Texan gets away with a victory, Fonseca will give Pete Daglia, Coast league graduate, a chance to start in the second. In the event of failure on Frasier's part, the second game will be entrusted to Sam Jones. Frasier probably will have to beat George Earnshaw, so you can easily figure who will work against Mahaffey in the nightcap.

The Athletics still have an idea that the Yankees' lead in the pennant race is only a temporary arrangement. The Sox, of course, can hardly be expected to knock that notion out of their heads. There are various reasons for this idea. Connie Mack himself professes to think that his team is just getting ready to start. He also believes the Yanks' luck isn't going to carry them much farther. Talk of this nature sounds like whistling in the dark.

Dickey Deserves Limit.

The A's are of the opinion that the Yanks have already suffered their first jolt in the banishment of Catcher Dickey, who slugged Carl Reynolds at Washington, Monday. Dickey's hitting, not to mention his ability back of the plate, has been an important item in the Yanks' success.

The Athletics, like a lot of other people, hope that Dickey is given the maximum penalty. The penalty should be about two months. It is all right for the boys to fight if they wish, but only about 10 per cent of the ball players want to use their fists and they only when they detect an unprotected chin.

For a catcher to follow such lines is almost an unpardonable offense. Protected against injury by all possible devices, catcher can ruin a hostile twice his weight without taking many chances. Mr. Dickey apparently was annoyed because, even with the aid of his armor, he was shown up by the permissible tactics of an ex-football player.

Grove Due Back.

Another reason Mack believes his team is going to show that those who counted them out were in error evolves about Bob Grove's return in the near future. He has been out for quite a stretch because of an injury. It will be the Sox luck to have the tall, gaunt southpaw return to work before they can get out of town.

The absence of Grove has forced Mack to make more use of his second string talent, which turned out to be better than he thought, and he now knows just about what he can expect of them.

FOREIGN ISSUES HOLD ATTENTION OF BOND MARKET

Many Securities Advance 2 to 4 Points.

New York, July 6.—(AP)—Another strong upsurge in foreign government bonds, with many issues gaining 2 to 4 points, dominated interest in the bond market today. Buying was based on reports that an early agreement on reparations was likely at the Lausanne conference.

Domestic bonds were firm except for the utility group, which shaded Tuesday's closing prices by a small fraction, and U. S. governments which eased somewhat on reports from Washington that the final outcome of present negotiations over relief legislation was in doubt.

While there have been many past disappointments based on splurges of strength in foreign government bonds, which frequently attract considerable speculation, investment bankers showed keen interest in the strength of the foreign list today. German government bonds went to new highs for the year. The 7s closed at 67 for a gain of 2¼ points and the 5½s closed 3 points higher at 47½. A number of German state and municipal bonds moved up 2 to 6 points.

British Bonds React.

British government bonds reacted 1 to 2¾ points, respectively, for the 5½s and the 5s, and French government loans were barely steady. But other foreign governments followed the lead of the German classification. Austrian 7s were up 2 points. Cuba Republic 5½s gained more than 2. Gains of 2 to 4 were made by Kingdom of Denmark 4½s and 6s, Kingdom of Italy 6s and Japanese government 5½s.

Nickel Plate 6s led an advance in the railroad list, gaining 3¾ points on unconfirmed rumors that the interstate commerce commission would favor consolidation of that road with the Chesapeake and Ohio under the latter's grouping plan. Second grade rails were bid up fairly actively, but first grades were quiet. Industrial and utility bonds showed little change.

CURB MART STRONG

The curb market developed considerable strength in the afternoon trading today, after moving uncertainly during the earlier hours of the session. Oils were firm almost from the start, as the weekly statistics showed a further drop of 51,800 barrels in daily average crude production. In the aggregate, however, trading remained light.

Standard Oil of Indiana closed at 18¾, up ½, and only ½ under the year's high. Humble rose a point, and International Petroleum rose fractionally. Gulf, however, sagged nearly a point in realizing.

Utilities generally stiffened in the late trading, although a few lightly traded preferred issues which sold off in the morning failed to come back. American Gas and Electric common closed up ⅝, while the preferred finished at 60, off 4½. Electric Bond and Share common was also up fractionally, while the preferred issues were lower.

Foreign Issues in Demand.

Some of the foreign issues were again in demand. British American Tobacco "B" gained nearly 2 points, and Brazilian Traction advanced ¾ in a fair turnover. Woolworth, Ltd., advanced ⅝ to 10½, or within ¼ of the year's top. Swift Internacional, foreign affiliate of Swift & Co., rose more than a point, while Swift & Co. shares advanced ½ point.

Deere gained a fraction, apparently in sympathy with a brisk upturn in wheat. Carnation Co. and Columbia Pictures were other firm spots. Mead Johnson, however, tumbled more than 4 points, and Great Atlantic and Pacific lost 3.

Fear Higher Tariff on U. S. Wheat Via Montreal

CONTINUED GAIN IN COMMODITIES GIVES NEW HOPE

Live Stock Advance Leads Parade.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

The spirited improvement which has been underway in a number of commodity markets continued yesterday and contagion spread to securities.

Price increases were not attributed to any particular developments that might be encouraging, but seemed rather to be reactions to recent waves of liquidation and fear.

The sustained improvement in a number of commodities over a period of days and weeks has led many to hope that commodity prices have at last found bottom. Stabilization of commodity prices would be the most encouraging thing that could happen to business. It would mean eliminating huge inventory losses that have cut so heavily into the income of corporations during the last three years. And it would stimulate buying.

Live Stock Prices Gain.

The parade of quotations into higher ground yesterday was again featured by improvement in live stock prices. Hogs went up another 10 to 15 cents to a new high since October. Small supplies and good demand forced cattle prices higher. Butter and egg futures closed fractionally higher than on Tuesday.

Cotton advanced about $1.50 a bale. October, at 6.22c, was more than a cent a pound over last month's low. The gains were due to concern over the crop outlook and to the strength shown in other markets.

Yesterday's upturn in wheat was the strongest in many days. Strength was shown not only here, but in Liverpool and Winnipeg. The news of wet harvests in the southwest was a factor.

Foreign Issues Higher.

Foreign issues featured bond trading, gains of 1 to 2 points being made in a number of French, German, and British issues. The improvement was based on hope rather than any tangible developments at the Lausanne conference.

The National Electric Light association's report yesterday disclosed an improvement in electric power production. Output for the week ended July 2 rose to 1,456,961,000 kilowatt hours from 1,440,541,000 the preceding week. Output in the corresponding week last year was 1,607,238,000 kilowatt hours.

Banks throughout the country this week reflected the relief brought by the passage of June, critical month in banking operations, according to Rand, McNally & Co.'s weekly bank report.

Only seven closings were reported for the first five and one-half days of July, as compared with 29 reported during the last two days of June, also included in the current week. For the week ending at noon Wednesday closings were 37.3 per cent under the previous week. Total closings for June were 12 per cent under the number for June, 1931.

Steel Industry's Position.

The steel industry has arrived at a point where almost any change must be for the better.

A moderate rebound in steel and pig iron production is indicated for next week when some plants that were shut down before the holiday will resume, according to the Iron Age.

"There is, however, an almost complete lack of the constructive factors that are needed to lift steel output above its June average of about 18 per cent, and steel companies do not look for any marked change for the better during July and August," says this journal.

"Steel ingot output this week, at not more than 12 per cent of capacity, is probably the lowest on record. June output of pig iron, at 20,935 gross tons a day, was the smallest since December, 1896."

"Weakness in pig iron prices is reflected by a decline in the Iron Age composite to $13.76, a figure not equaled since August, 1915, and steel scrap has dropped to a new all time low of $6.42.

U. S. on Debit Side of World Ledger for '31

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 6.—The name of the United States was written on the debit side of the ledger in striking the world balance of international payments for 1931. That is shown in a report published today under the names of Amos E. Taylor, assistant chief of the finance and investment division of the department of commerce and Julius Klein, assistant secretary of commerce.

The largest single item in the condensed statement showing net international payments affecting the United States is that of the withdrawal from this country of $785,000,000 of short term banking credits.

This debit and the $458,000,000 spent by tourists and Americans living abroad account for the unfavorable American balance.

The favorable balance of trade of $284,000,000, plus "interest, dividends, and commissions," totaling $548,000,000, were not sufficient to counterbalance the outgo.

Details of the Report.

As shown in the report in condensed form the world account of the United States for 1931 was as follows:

Current accounts.

Commodity account	+284
Tourist account	—458
Freight and shipping account	— 75
Immigrant remittances	—168
United States government account [including war debt receipts of $113,000,000]	+ 18
Contributions by charitable, educational and other organizations	— 39
Miscellaneous "service invisibles"	+ 87
Net balance on current account [exclusive of net interest receipts]	—376
Interest, dividends, and commissions	+548
Net balance on current account [inclusive of net interest receipts]	+172

Capital accounts.

Long term capital movements	+218
Short term [banking] capital movements	—705
Miscellaneous short term credits	+ 85
United States paper currency movements	— 10
Net change in capital accounts	—172

Gold.

Net gold movement [including earmarked]	—176
Net credits unaccounted for	+124

How Results Compare.

On the credit side, therefore, the year showed a favorable balance of 172 millions under the heading of "Current Accounts" plus $124,000,000 of "net credits unaccounted for" or a total of $296,000,000. On the debit side was the unfavorable balance of $472,000,000 plus the net loss of $176,000,000 in gold withdrawals and earmarkings, or a total of $648,000,000, making a total debit for the year of $352,000,000.

OUTPUT OF AUTOS DECLINES FOR WEEK OF JULY 2

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 6.—Automobile production for the week ending July 2 showed a decline of 3,619 units to 50,958, against 54,577 in the previous seven days, according to reliable authorities, the greater part of the drop being due to slackening of activities of the Ford Motor company.

That compares with production of 60,976 cars for the corresponding week of last year; 52,762 in 1931, and 98,514 in 1930. Furthermore, another sharp decline is looked for during the current week due to holiday curtailment and general slowing down of operations incident to decreased demand.

Major declines in production, compared with the previous week, follow: Ford, 1,500; Chrysler, 500; Dodge, 365; Graham-Paige, 100; Packard, 50; Rockne, 500, and Studebaker, 85. Auburn, Buick, Chevrolet, Franklin, Hudson, Pontiac, Reo, and Willys-Overland remained unchanged.

BANK RECORDS TELL OF LAST KREUGER FIGHT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 6.—Evidence that the late Ivar Kreuger speculated secretly in his own securities for at least a year preceding his suicide in Paris was adduced here today.

The same testimony indicated that Kreuger lost heavily. His policy of secrecy was so complete that even his New York brokers may not have known for whom they were operating. Carrying out a plan which calls for investigation of all of Kreuger's local stock market operations, Jacob K. Javits, counsel for the petitioners for an American receiver for the Kreuger & Toll company, brought out the new information before Henry K. Davis, special master in chancery.

By means of questions put to Nicholas Murphy, assistant cashier of the Chase National bank, and to Jerome Lewine and Sherman M. Bijur, partners in the brokerage firm of H. Hentz & Co., Mr. Javits established a background for Kreuger's banking and brokerage operations.

In addition, it was established that through an account, conducted openly in this case under the name of Mercator, a European corporation which was a Kreuger subsidiary, the Swedish match manufacturer lost nearly $800,000 between August, 1931, and the middle of March of this year. The account, it appeared from records introduced, was opened under Kreuger's personal guarantee. Its operations were confined exclusively to the purchase of Kreuger & Toll American certificates, during a falling market.

Turning next to the question of an apparent secret account, Mr. Javits asked whether the firm of H. Hentz & Co. had not received various payments, as shown by the Chase National bank records, from Kreuger & Toll as well as from Mercator in 1931.

Brokers Show Surprise.

Both Mr. Lewine and Mr. Bijur expressed surprise at this evidence that their firm had received Kreuger & Toll funds for any purpose. They said they were unable to explain the transactions. They were excused until July 14, with instructions for Mr. Davis to produce records bearing on the payments in question.

These, according to the bank records, were $46,900.28 on Jan. 2, 1931; $11,333.33 on Jan. 2, and $9,475.61 in March of the same year. Besides the bookkeeping records covering the items, the brokerage firm was instructed to produce any letters of transmittal which may have accompanied the payments.

Mr. Lewine testified that the Mercator account, conducted openly, had been accepted by his company following a conference with Kreuger, then in New York in the spring of 1931, and that Kreuger had given H. Hentz and company his personal guarantee. The record of the account, placed in evidence, showed that it had been opened in August, 1931.

The deposit of 25,000 shares of Kreuger & Toll American certificates then selling at around $18, therefore representing approximately $450,000.

Shows Deals in Stock.

Through purchases the total of American certificates held by the account grew to 42,500 by Aug. 31, the purchase price ranging from $18 on Aug. 17 through a low point of $13.87½ to a closing price for the month of $15.25. By Sept. 30, the total of certificates held was 51,500, the additional number having been purchased at prices ranging from $14.37½ down to $13.75.

After Sept. 30, 1931, there were no more purchases until Feb. 15, 1932. From Feb. 15 to Feb. 29, however, the total of 51,500 certificates was increased to 65,500, at prices ranging from $7.37½ to $3.50. The account was closed at the approximate date of Kreuger's suicide in Paris following failure of Mercator to furnish more margin.

About 20,000 certificates were sold by the brokers on Feb. 14 at $5. The remainder of the holding of the account were dumped on the market the following day at prices of from $1.87½@2.50. The loss of about $800,000 appeared to have been made up of the $450,000 in certificates deposited originally, plus three payments at various times into the account.

From $600,000 to $15,000.

Mr. Murphy, in his testimony, brought out that Kreuger's personal balance with the Chase National bank, known to have been $600,000 on Dec.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 6.—In the first official classification which it has made of its stockholders, the United States Steel corporation in a statement issued today announced that more than 80,000 of its 187,409 holders of common stock own at this time less than ten shares each. The figures cover the closing of the stockholders' books for the annual meeting in April, but they are believed to be reasonably close to the records at this time. Comparisons for 1931 and 1930 are given.

The compilation shows that in 1932 846 stockholders owned 1,000 or more shares each as compared with 999 in 1931 and 1,060 in 1930.

The number of stockholders who owned from 100 to 999 shares in 1932 was 14,340, against 13,720 in 1931 and 11,937 in 1930. In 1932 the number owning from twenty-five to forty-nine shares was 21,887, in 1931 it was 16,871 and in 1930 it was 14,843.

In 1932 a total of 57,234 shareholders owned from ten to twenty-four shares as compared with a total of 39,552 shareholders in 1931 and 32,187 shareholders in 1930.

Calls German Food Supply Enough Without Imports

BERLIN, July 6.—(AP)—Friedrich von Braun, food minister, announced in a radio broadcast tonight that Germany for the first time since the war was independent of other countries regarding food. Millers are required to use home grown wheat for 97 per cent of their flour. German crops were estimated to be in excess of the average. Enough meats, potatoes, and fats had been produced to feed the whole population.

R. S. Atterbury Still Holds Seat on New York Curb

New York, July 6.—(AP)—The New York Curb exchange stated today Richard S. Atterbury, named yesterday as a partner of A. K. Shaw & Co. in the announcement of that firm's suspension for failure to meet obligations, had resigned from the company March 5, joining another brokerage partnership. He still is a member of the exchange.

CHICAGO STOCK MARKET STRONG; TRADING LIGHT

Quiet strength prevailed on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday. There was no noticeable increase in public interest in the market, but shares performed better than at any time in several days. Net gains, however, were nominal.

Swift International was the feature of the list. The issue was bid up 1½ points on sales of 1,300 shares. The issue has been an outstanding firm spot in the market in recent days because of favorable current earnings and the maintenance of the $3 annual dividend rate.

BY SCRUTATOR.

Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt in his speech accepting the Democratic presidential nomination referred to "men and women, forgotten in the political philosophy of the government of the last years." Who are these forgotten people and are they a class recently grown out of transition in political theory and practice?

In other times and under other conditions an earlier commentary had something to say about "forgotten" people.

"There is a beautiful notion afloat in our literature and in the minds of our people that men are born to certain natural rights," he said. "In its widest extension it comes to mean that if any man finds himself uncomfortable in this world it must be somebody else's fault, and that somebody is bound to come and make him comfortable.

Must Provide Capital.

"The federal government is called on . . . to provide capital for all sorts of experiments and . . . for enterprises of which private individuals will win the profits. All this is called 'developing our resources,' but it is, in truth, the great plan of all living on each other.

"There is a victim somewhere who is paying for it all. The doors of waste and extravagance stand open and there seems to be a general agreement to squander and spend. It all belongs to somebody. There is somebody who had to contribute it and who will have to find more. Nothing is ever said about him. Attention is all absorbed by the clamorous interests, the importunate petitioners, the plausible schemers, the pitiless bore.

"Now who is the victim? He is the Forgotten Man. If we go to find him, we shall find him hard at work . . . to get out of it the fund for all the jobbery, the object of all the plunder, the cost of all the economic quackery, and the pay of all the politicians and statesmen who have sacrificed his interests. . . .

"It is plain that the Forgotten Man and the Forgotten Woman are the real productive strength of the country. The Forgotten Man works and votes—generally he prays—but his chief business in life is to pay. . . . He is an obscure man.

"When, therefore, the statesman and social philosophers sit down to think what the state can do or ought to do, they really mean to decide what the Forgotten Man shall do. What the Forgotten Man wants, therefore, is a fuller realization of constitutional liberty. He is suffering from the fact that there are yet mixed in our institutions medieval theories of protection, regulation and authority, and modern theories of independence and individual liberty and responsibility. What the Forgotten Man wants, therefore, is that ambiguities in our institutions be cleared up and that liberty be more fully realized."

These are extracts from Prof. W. G. Sumners' Essays, back in 1884. The author inveighed against the federal government buying unsalable ships and building unprofitable canals. He condemned various protective tariffs, some favoring manufacturers and other favoring agriculturalists.

Times change. But in these times of excessive taxation and wasteful government expenditures, of autocratic bureaus and commissions, of excessive regulation and government competition in business, and of attempts to impose distasteful moral codes, isn't the Forgotten Man still subject to much the same burdens as he was a half century ago? Today, as then, he asks for constitutional liberty.

Jewel Tea Sales Lower in 4 Weeks Ending June 18

Jewel Tea company, Inc., sales for the four weeks ended June 18 totaled $361,413, as compared with $1,031,723 for the corresponding period of 1931, a decrease of 16.51 per cent. Sales for the first 24 weeks of 1932 were 18.33 per cent below the same period last year.

New York, July 6.—Without any apparent stimulant in the way of news, the share market perked up a bit today. Leading issues registered gains of from a fraction to round 3 points and some of their satellites did even better. Trading continued extremely quiet, however, the turnover holding around 600,000 shares.

Trade news was a trifle more drab in tone than usual. The Iron Age report estimated that steel production in the country had dropped to 12 per cent of capacity and automobile output was shown to have tapered off anew in June. Lausanne dispatches had little new to relate. At Washington congress showed no disposition to erase itself from the picture. Lack of agreement on the pending relief bill, however, was welcomed in some quarters as affording a few more days grace from whatever pork barrel burdens may be in store for the country.

BANKS REVIVE FIGHT TO SELL INSULL PLEDGES

Take Case Into Court Here Today.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The legal fight of four New York banks to win court sanction for their proposed sale of "Insull" collateral will be renewed here today, Attorneys for the banks will appear in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals to argue for a dissolution of the injunction which caused the proposed auction to be delayed five times.

The collateral involved consists of large blocks of shares of the Commonwealth Edison company, Peoples Gas Light and Coke company, and the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois.

Recall Stock Market Struggle.

The securities were posted with the banks as pledges for loans by the two Insull investment trusts when Samuel Insull was making a futile attempt to stem the bear market avalanche which was rocking financial superstructures of his utility empire. The shares posted represented the soundest companies in the Insull utility chain.

The banks are prevented from selling at present by a restraining order issued last April by Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley, under whose jurisdiction the receivers of the trusts are operating.

May Set Precedent.

The case is said to be the first in which the right of bank creditors to sell collateral on such loans has been questioned. The loans were demand obligations, which gave the banks the right to call for payment at any time. The banks made public their intention to auction the securities immediately following the naming of receivers for the two trusts last April.

The position taken by the receivers of Insull Utility Investments and Corporation Securities company was that a sale at present distress market prices would be unfair to other creditors of the firms and to the security holders. This argument was upheld by Judge Lindley in issuing the order forbidding the sale.

The dispute has dragged through the court for several weeks now, during which time the banks have put off the proposed auction five times.

Claim Right to Sell.

The banks have persisted in their contention that Judge Lindley lacked legal authority to issue the order. Their case will be pleaded today by Attorney Horace K. Tenney before Judges Samuel Alschuler, Evan A. Evans, and Will M. Sparks. Counsel for the receivers of the two trusts will oppose dissolution of the order.

If Judge Lindley's order is reversed it is expected that the securities will be offered at public auction in the near future. In such an event it is assumed that the banks will bid in the securities themselves. The banks involved are the Guaranty Trust company, Central Hanover Bank and Trust company, Chase National, and the Commercial National Bank and Trust, all of New York.

WHEAT CLOSES HIGHER IN MOST OF THE MARKETS

Liverpool and Winnipeg Share in Gains.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Highest prices on grains in all markets were made at the close. There were substantial gains, particularly in wheat. While quietness prevailed during the morning, animation with increasing strength dominated all markets at the close.

Wheat was up 1⅜@2c, corn 1¼@2c, oats ⅝@⅞c, and rye ⅝@7⅛c. All markets were up sharply, particularly in Liverpool, which closed ⅝@1⅜c higher, the best gain that it has made in a long time. Winnipeg was strong at the last with gains of ⅞@1c, while in the southwest advances were 1⅞@2c and in the northwest ⅝@2c. July in Minneapolis up 2c.

Easterners Buy Wheat.

Good advances also were made in cotton. Eastern traders who have endeavored to advance wheat prices for some time, with indifferent success, bought the wheat offered by local traders during the morning and forced them to cover in the last hour. Then the price moved up sharply.

A wet harvest is on in the southwest, with serious damage to wheat standing in the fields, as well as in the shock. Floods were reported in Texas, Oklahoma, and Kansas. These factors have attracted little attention of late, but were given serious consideration at the close.

Cash markets were strong, with No. 2 hard and red wheat in Chicago ½c over September. Export business was not heard of to any great extent. Movement in the southwest and to all markets is disappointingly light for this season. At leading southwestern points arrivals for the day were 1,572 cars, compared with 3,312 cars last year. Primary receipts have been running decidedly under last year's for some time past and the deficit, as compared with a year ago, has become most marked. There was practically no bear news of consequence.

World Supply Decreases.

Bradstreet's world's available supply figures showed a decrease of 9,679,000 bu last week, compared with 4,863,000 bu last year. Supplies were 363,000,000 bu, or 15,000,000 bu short of a year ago. Broomhall reported an absence of Russian offerings which were so conspicuous on the previous day. That authority also said it was thought Europe was in need of winter wheat and Argentina and Australia are offering less freely, while Canada has only spring wheat to sell. Canadian crop reports generally are favorable, except for reports of increasing stem rust infection around Morden, Manitoba, and with leaf rust apparent in more or less degree around all that province.

Corn Prices Better, Too.

Corn derived most of its strength from wheat early in the day, while latterly it advanced and assisted wheat in making its strong close. There was no pressure toward the last, and the close was at the top with net gains of 1⅜@1½c, July being 29¾, September 32⅛@32¾, and December 32⅞@33c.

Reports of sales of 110,000 bu of corn for export to a Canadian starch factory and chartering of vessel room for 575,000 bu corn to Buffalo had the effect of creating a decidedly friendly feeling to the buying side, especially as country movement continues light, only 10 cars received. Crop conditions in the main were favorable.

Oats, although neglected early, absorbed the light offerings by hedgers as commission house orders were in evidence to a fair extent. Country offerings were light and sentiment more favorable to buying on breaks.

Rye was largely a changing market with a little selling of December by the northwest and buying of futures by local interests. A shipment of 324,000 bu was made from Chicago to Buffalo.
